NEW TRY TODAY—The space agency planned to try again today to launch a flying photography laboratory, a model of which is shown here, into orbit around the moon. The spacecraft, called Lunar Orbiter, was scheduled to vault into space under the thrust of an Atlas-Agena rocket in a favorable period between 4:11 and 7:02 p. m. EDT. The launching was postponed Tuesday because of unintelligible radio signals from a fuel-measuring system in the Atlas tanks. The model shows two camera lens peering out from the pumpkin-shaped container that holds the photographic equipment. The Lunar Orbiter is to scout nine potential Apollo astronaut landing sites. Express Cautious Outlook on CR Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight over a federal open housing law shifted to the Senate today after House passage of the 1966 civil rights bill with the controversial provision intact.

Fight to Finish

The bill, which would arm the federal government with broad new powers to protect Negroes' rights, was passed 259 to 157 Tuesday night but it was a fight

Escapee Seized, Bolted Dutchess Jail on May 1

Cooperation between State Police and authorities in the Lake George area, with an assist from a civilian on Tuesday resulted in the capture of a 25-year-old man who escaped with another inmate from the Dutchess County jail on May 1.

Taken in Cabin

Troopers reported that Joseph R. Healey, formerly of Fishkill, was taken into custody in a cabin at Lake George without incident, although he had been reported to be armed and dangerous.

Healey was charged with the theft of $2,000 from the safes at two restaurants in the Stuyvesant and Plaza area of Guiderland. The defendant waived preliminary examination at arraignment before Justice of the Peace George Bigsbee of Guiderland, and was committed to the Albany County jail for grand jury action on a third degree burglary charge.

Picture Identified

BCI Investigator W. C. Kierman of South Glens Falls, determined that Healey was in the Lake George area. During the course of the investigation a waitress identified a picture of Healey. Troopers and Lake George town and village police traced Healey to the Lake George Village surrounded a cabin and ordered Healey to come outside.

The escapee walked from the cabin and was seized without any trouble.

List Schedule For New Paltz Visitor's Week

Five performances of Winnie the Pooh at the State University College Theatre will highlight Visitors' Week in New Paltz starting tonight at 7 o'clock.

Other performances will be Thursday and Friday 7 p. m.; Saturday and Sunday 3 p. m.

The Oldest Street, a slide lecture and tour of Huguenot Street Houses, will be presented Thursday 1 p. m. and Friday 11 a. m.

A repeat of the New Paltz College Planetarium Show will be given Thursday 8 p. m.

Information concerning all the many attractions in the New Paltz area during Visitors' Week may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce booth, Route 299 east, on the Badami property.

Pondering the problem of trying to find ways and means of increasing attendance at this year's Ulster County Fair, a long popular event which should be capable of drawing bigger crowds, the promotion committee for the 1966 version has hit upon the theme of reviving the flavor of the past.

Since the budget will not allow competition with the larger, carnival-type fairs in neighboring communities, it would seem that the suggestion not to compete in that area at all was something of a stroke of genius. Why not build the Ulster County Fair in an entirely different direction, someone suggested; forgetting the ballyhoo, barker and gaudy midway which has appeal to some, little attraction to others? The idea of attempting to revive as much of an old fashioned county fair as possible caught fire and with Katherine Terwilliger, Ellenville historian, researching projects of the committee was able to make plans for a fair like the one grandpa and grandpa attended in their youth.

According to the Katherine Terwilliger rundown, the first fair here was held in 1889 and this year's event (Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 17-18) will mark the 78th annual Ulster Fair. In the beginning, back before the turn of the century, the fairgrounds contained about 30 acres, including a half-mile track.

Agriculture Emphasized
It was mainly an agricultural fair, with 4-H Clubs and the Grange contributing many entries. In those days before trucks, cattle and horses were walked in. One farmer living near Accord remembers walking his cattle along the Berne Road to the fairgrounds in Ellenville; a hike of 10 miles for the bovine and owner.

Report Reservoir 4.15 Feet Below Spillway Level

Storage in Cooper Lake, the city's main reservoir is now 4.15 feet below spillway level or about 85 percent of capacity Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, noted today.

It was 4.7 feet down at this time last year, but August and September rainfall a year ago gave it abundant supply. August contributed 5.27 inches and September 6.27 in the watershed area.

Little Better Than '65
Although generally better than 1965, to date, this year's rainfall has been below average with the exception of February. It has been sufficient enough, however, to keep the reserve at a safe level for the summer compared to the drought year of 1964.

In that year storage decline caused almost as much concern as dry 1957 when reserve dropped more than 18 feet below spillway level by fall, but replenishings rains came in time in both years.

This year, however, the rate of decline is much safer, and it is estimated it would take up to December to reach the 1964 or 1957 autumn storage levels.

Rules Out Giveaways To Hanoi Right Conditions 'Must' for Talks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — South Viet Nam Premier Nguyen Cao Ky says he is willing to negotiate an end to the war with the Hanoi regime "under favorable conditions," the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Draw Line at 17th
"We would go to the conference table to tell them we draw the line at the 17th Parallel," Ky was quoted as telling Times correspondent William Tuohy during a flight Tuesday to Tam Ky, where Ky was briefed on the current Operation Colorado.

Tuohy quoted the premier as saying: "We would be willing to talk if they would be willing to compromise."

"We're not sitting down to give them a couple of provinces south of the 17th Parallel. They would have to withdraw their agents and soldiers from South Viet Nam."

Question Up to Ho Chi
"I'm not refusing to talk. The question is whether Ho Chi Minh will talk. Personally, I don't think Hanoi will accept negotiations now."

"They have nothing to lose by continuing their aggression." "If we can prove to them we stand firm, every month, then on the day they see no hope for victory, they may wish to talk, to negotiate," the report concluded.

Expect Bobby's Word Thursday on N. Y. Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy plans to disclose by Thursday his position on the four-way race in New York State for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

An aide in Washington revealed the junior senator's plans Tuesday amid growing speculation that Kennedy would remain neutral and accept the choice of the party convention in Buffalo Sept. 8.

Some observers have said that only a strong drive by Kennedy on behalf of another candidate could head off the prospects of Frank D. O'Connor, New York City Council president.

Presume U.S. Air Ace Is Held by Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. Air Force considered him its No. 1 pilot of the Viet Nam war.

Maj. James H. Kasler, 40, flew more than 70 combat missions over North Viet Nam, excelling at picking out camouflaged targets. Four times enemy bullets riddled his F105 Thunderchief jet but he always made it back.

Luck Runs Out

The pilot's luck ran out Monday when he was shot down deep in the Red River Valley 70 miles northwest of Hanoi. Other fliers saw him parachute from his disabled plane and talked to him by radio after he landed but rescue helicopters were unable to snatch him from enemy soil.

He was presumed captured although the official U.S. announcement listed him as missing. Kasler's Thunderchief was one of three shot down Monday. His wingman went down a few minutes earlier.

A veteran of 22 years of flying, Kasler was an 18-year-old tallrunner at the close of World War II and flew 100 combat missions in Korea, knocking down six Communist MIGs.

Second Korean Ace Downed

He was the second Korean ace shot down in North Viet Nam. The other, Lt. Col. Robinson Risner, an eight-MIG ace, went down in an F105 a year ago and was captured by the North Vietnamese.

Kasler's loss cast a pall over the war rooms, where his fellow pilots had marveled at his feats. They called him "The Destroyer" for his skill at precision bombing and the official Air Force spokesman said he was "the hottest pilot we had."

"It was a black day," the spokesman told newsmen in the same briefing room where he jubilantly introduced Kasler six (Continued on Page 20, Col. 2)

Kingston Post 150, behind the four-hit pitching of Brian Bach, advanced to the finals of the State American Legion Baseball tournament, beating Farragut Post of Hastings, 5-1, Tuesday in Poughkeepsie.

Bach, who has pitched in every winning effort by the locals, struck out eight and was aided by a snappy defense. Hitting stars for Kingston were first baseman Jack Schatzel with a triple and single and Gary VanEtten with a triple and two singles.

Kingston will play Adreon Post 625 of Utica in the finals on Saturday, 2 p. m. at Doubleday Field in Cooperstown.

Adreon Post walloped Adam Flewacki Post 799 of Buffalo, 9-1, at Geneva as Brian Williams hit a two-run homer and Sal Rizzo slammed one with the bases loaded.

In capturing their semi-final contest, the locals were never headed. They scored a run in the

Say Cong Prevoked Attack on Village

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines struck the Viet Cong today and as fighting continued into the night reported killing 140 enemy troops. The Viet Cong, armed with recoilless rifles and mortar, were dug in behind trees, hedges and bunkers five miles west of Tam Ky, which is about 35 miles south of Da Nang, the northern Marine base.

Heaviest in Five Days

It was the heaviest encounter with the enemy since the Marine operation — known as Colorado — began five days ago. Marine casualties were described as light.

The Air Force announced that the two platoons of Viet Cong took over a village in the Mekong Delta Tuesday night and provoked an attack by two U.S. jets that killed 15 Vietnamese and wounded 182.

A spokesman said the attack was ordered by the province chief after a spotter plane was fired on from the village. He said an account from an American in the area said the guerrillas held the villagers at gunpoint while two F100 Super Sabre jets hit with bombs and 20mm cannon fire.

Three of Victims Cong

Three of the victims of the attack were identified as Viet Cong. Reports indicated that almost all the rest of the dead and wounded were Vietnamese villagers.

The attack took place eight miles from Can Tho, the largest town in the Mekong Delta and headquarters of the Vietnamese army 4th corps.

Help was rushed to the scene after the Americans were told they had hit a friendly village and the injured were taken to the U.S. hospital in Can Tho.

Rosendale Water, 65 Aid on Agenda

Action to relieve the acute water shortage which exists in the Town of Rosendale and to revise classifications of positions of nurses for the County Health Department, is expected at the monthly meeting of the Ulster Board of Supervisors Thursday at 8 p. m. in the County Office Building.

Plan Countywide Study

The appointment of a five-member County Sewer Agency to undertake a countywide sewer study, and a recommendation to provide partial tax exemption of persons 65 or over, also will be on tomorrow night's agenda.

Supervisor George Majestic of Gardiner will offer a resolution directing the Board of Supervisors to direct the Ulster County Planning Board and the engineering firm of Brimmer & Larios to instruct the well driller to drill a test well in the Town of Rosendale where the most critical water shortage in the county exists.

The resolution notes that the acute water shortage the last three years made it necessary to use Civil Defense emergency equipment to supply water to the Village of Rosendale.

Would Change Classifications

Supervisor Peter J. Savago, New Paltz, is expected to offer a resolution to change the classifications of nurses in the County Health Department and to increase their pay without additional appropriations in 1966.

The resolution notes that the health department has been unable to recruit enough nurses with the present salary schedule in effect, and the department continues to lose nurses to other groups paying higher salaries.

The Salary Study Committee of the Board recommends the change in classifications and to use existing personnel surpluses. Under the reclassification the head nurse at the Tuberculosis Hospital would be reclassified from grade 10 to 13; senior hospital nurse from Grade 11 to 14 — public health nurses from 13 to 16, and the unclassified position of second supervising nurse would be increased from $6,840 to $8,080. The changes would be effective on Sept. 9.

Merchants Again Expect Banner Crowds for Event

Area merchants again are scheduling the annual three-day August Sales Day, starting Thursday and continuing Friday and Saturday.

Banner crowds of shoppers are expected to flock to the big August Sale, including local residents and those visiting the area during their summer vacation.

Stores in Kingston and surrounding areas are among the advertisers participating in the big three-day sale of bargains for the shoppers.

Advertisements offering many attractive buys of quality merchandise may be found throughout the pages of The Freeman.

Store hours and other information regarding the August Sales Day are printed in the advertisements.

Wilson Supports Rockefeller on River Commission

Ulster County Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson said today he is in complete agreement with Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's position on the issue of establishing a Commission to try and solve the various problems connected with the Hudson River, and that the proposed Commission should be under State, not Federal, control.

Wilson who is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Temporary Hudson River Valley Commission, said the State Legislature passed the Governor's plan to create a permanent Hudson River Valley Commission designed to encourage the preservation, enhancement and development of the entire Hudson Valley. According to the Assemblyman, this would include all of the scenic, historic, recreational, and natural resources of the Valley, as well as the full development of the commercial, industrial, agricultural, and residential

Farm Tractor Safety Exhibit At Ulster Fair

Ulster County 4-H youths will demonstrate skill and safety in handling farm tractors at the Annual 4-H Tractor Driving Contest at the Ulster County Fair on Thursday, August 18. More than 30 boys who have completed one or more years of 4-H tractor projects are eligible to participate in the contest at 10 A.M. at Forsyth Park according to Carlton M. Conklin, Ulster County Cooperative Extension Agent, 4-H Division.

This is the first of several elimination events to select a state representative for the Eastern U. S. 4-H Tractor Operators' Contest, September 25-27. Agent Conklin pointed out. The regional contest sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and The Standard Oil Company (Ohio), is expected to draw 25 states 4-H operators for competition at Richmond, Virginia, he added.

Contestants entering the county contest, must have satisfactorily completed work in tractor safety, care and maintenance, and gained experience at home in servicing and operating a farm tractor. Each contestant will demonstrate his ability in each of these areas in the contest. The boys will be quizzed on the steps in servicing a tractor, and demonstrate operating skill with both a two- and a four-wheel four-wheel wagon attached. Skill in maneuvering the rugged course, safety precautions, and time required will determine the score the agent said. The boy with the lowest penalty score is the winner.

The operators' contest climaxes the 4-H tractor program in Ulster County with some 30 4-H members enrolled in 1966. In addition to taking part in the tractor operators' contest, each of the boys who finished the 4-H tractor project competes for county medal awards and state and national recognition provided by the Standard Oil Company (Ohio), the agent added.

The public is invited to attend this year's 4-H tractor operators' contest.

Red Cross Gives GI's in Viet Nam Swim Lessons

J. Brian Steeves, volunteer water safety chairman of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross, pointed out today that Red Cross instructor training in first aid, water safety and survival swimming has been made available to all branches of the U.S. military services in South Vietnam. An initial group of 32 air force men became certified water safety instructors several months ago and returned to their units to teach swimming and lifesaving classes. Similar classes are planned for this summer. Personnel of some of the divisions and brigades stationed in Vietnam received such Red Cross training prior to moving there. The Third Marine Division, for example, took Red Cross training on Okinawa prior to the Da Nang landing.

The need for trained lifeguards in Vietnam is emphasized by the many aquatic facilities used by American GIs. Included are beaches, lakes, pools, and boating facilities. Recreation centers have been opened at the Da Nang and Vung Tau beaches. Carl Ross, American Red Cross Far Eastern Area director of First Aid and Water Safety, went to Vietnam to survey the need for Red Cross courses, reports that continuous training of military personnel is needed because duty tours are limited to one year.

This is just one project of the American Red Cross which is aided by voluntary contributions to the Ulster County Community Chest and the Ulster County Chapter Red Cross Month of March Fund Drive.

Melbourne, Australia, second largest city in that continent, is one of the world's most pleasant cities to live in. Annual rainfall averages about 25 inches and temperatures range between 50 and 68 degrees Fahrenheit. Melbourne's metropolitan population of almost 2,000,000 is sprawling, like Los Angeles, and extends more than 20 miles along the shore of Port Phillip Bay. Some of its inland suburbs are more than 20 miles from the city.

Expect Humans To Have Power To Change Genes

EDITOR'S NOTE — Prospects that natural human evolution will cease and man will control what his future shape will be based on new understandings of how genes direct both heredity and growth. The following second of four articles takes you into a submicroscopic world and explains how scientists are cracking the genetic code — the language of the genes.

By RALPH DIGTON
AP Science Writer

For the past eon or so man has muddled along, gradually gaining mastery over other creatures by accident.

Accidental alterations in the mechanism of his heredity slowly — by trial and error — made man better adapted to his environment than his rivals. That's the accepted scientific view today, and scientists call this long, frequently bungling process "evolution."

This process may be near an end.

Change in Process

For better or worse, scientists now believe, man will not much longer have to wait for an accident to change his heredity.

He will cause his own "accidents."

If the heart he was born with wears out, he'll be able to grow a new one — in a laboratory.

and have it transplanted into his chest; or perhaps he will grow it in his own body, feeding the new on the old.

In the past the accidents, or mutations, that made some men different from their ancestors were caused either by errors in the way nature put together the tiny living blueprints passed along from parent to offspring; or by occasional strong bursts of radiation from the sun that disarranged those blueprints.

Today, however, scientists are learning to bring about mutations with chemicals — a much safer method, because this way the mutations eventually may be predicted and controlled.

Mutations result from changes in the structure of genes. Although too tiny to be seen in an ordinary microscope, genes contain the patterns by which all living things develop. Every human body cell has about 150,000 genes, grouped in 46 chromosomes, tiny threadlike bodies — in the cell's core, or nucleus.

Explain Structure

So when body cells divide, the chromosomes split into two sets of pairs and line up in the nucleus, and at the same time the rest of the cell divides down the middle. Each of the two resulting cells has the same number of chromosomes, and thus genes, as the parent cell.

This is the way all living things grow, by increasing the number of body cells.

When they reproduce, the process is slightly different. The egg cell of the mother has only half the needed number of chromosomes. The sperm cell of the father has the other half. They unite and the fertilized cell thus acquires the total of chromosomes necessary for later division and growth.

Genes are molecules of an acid, complex and strangely formed. Each looks something like two corkscrews twisted into one another and connected at intervals by bonds: a sort of chemical spiral staircase.

The molecule's name is deoxyribonucleic acid, or DNA. Its spirals are made of chemical bases called adenine, guanine, cytosine and thymine, arranged in a specific order opposite each other.

When time comes for a cell to divide, the identical corkscrews separate, one staying in the parent group of chromosomes, the other going to the offspring. Each then makes a replica of itself, drawing upon chemicals in the cellular fluid.

Creates Crude Alphabet

The arrangement of the chemical bases along the spirals creates a crude alphabet: A for adenine, G for guanine, C for cytosine and T for thymine. Groupings of these bases form exotic "words" in a language that gene specialists — geneticists — are learning to decipher.

One side of the spiral staircase may be an arrangement of bases or letters into a grouping like this:

attgttcacagatagcgg.
The other side:

taaacagggtctatgcc.

The letters are almost invariably in multiples of three. Scientists found one of the keys to this code when they learned that each triplet directs the formation of one of some 20 amino acids which make up proteins, the building blocks of living tissue.

Each of the 64 possible three-letter combinations carries information that enables the cell to make protein — in other words, to grow — so that it resembles its parent.

Storing the formulae for making human protein is a pretty big job for a tiny molecule, but DNA has another job, too. It not only must carry information from one generation to the next, it must see that this information gets out of the nucleus into the body of the cell where protein is made.

To do this, DNA makes single-corkscrew copies of itself, differing in that a base called uracil is substituted for thymine. The copy, lacking an atom of oxygen, is called ribonucleic acid, or RNA.

RNA passes out of the nucleus into the body of the cell and attaches itself to some tiny clumps called ribosomes. Ribosomes are miniature chemical factories where, with the help of enzymes, amino acids are converted into proteins.

Some Needed for Nerves

Some cells make the kind of protein needed for nerves, others make the kind needed for internal organs, others make the kind of protein in which calcium can be deposited to form bone. All function according to the instructions they receive from DNA via RNA unless an accident occurs — either through a goof by nature or from such outside forces as radiation.

The resulting genetic accidents may be beneficial. One of them gave man the kind of thumb that helped him make tools. If the accident leads to useless deformation, the offspring often dies before it can pass the trait on to future generations.

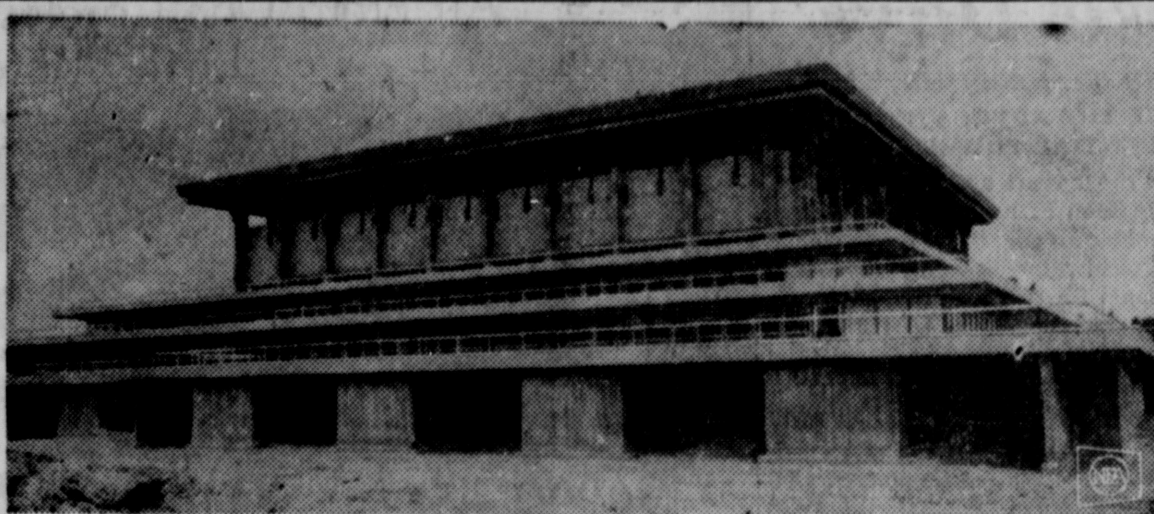

Chemicals, too, can cause mutations. Example: The babies born deformed after their mothers took the tranquilizer, thalidomide.

Those were useless, unwanted mutations, but scientists are confident they can find other chemicals that cause beneficial mutations.

High on the list of wanted mutations are those which could help man conquer disease, make him immune even to cancer.

Next: The immune response.

Summer Business Slump Is Slighter Than Usual

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The summer slump for business is proving slighter than usual and it may be over quicker than usual. Layoffs are giving way to starts. And dragging sectors of the economy are being offset by expanding ones.

The steel price hike could be a tipoff to business thinking. Steel executives are betting that the price increase will stick because business will be brisk. Their thinking on this is quite independent from the challenge of the government price guidelines.

To make a price hike stick—with the government on the sidelines—there must be a rising demand for steel, meaning that customers will pay the higher price. And one reason they will do so is that they in turn are betting on increasing sales of their own products—and maybe higher prices.

Steel companies report that orders are rising again. Production of the mills increased sharply last week, after six weeks of declines. A further advance in output this week easily could mark a definite end to the traditional summer slump.

1967 Model Lines

One of steel's big customers, the auto industry, is coming back into the picture. The news for weeks now has been of declining car production and closing down of 1966 model production lines. From now on the news will be of 1967 model lines opening up.

Even with auto buying of steel in a slump, the other customers of the mills have been unusually active for the normally slow period.

The Labor Department's employment figures for July spell out the mildness of this summer's slump and the prospects of a further expansion in the fall.

The decline in the number of workers on nonfarm payrolls was 150,000 less than normal for the season. And much of this summer's drop was due to an earlier than usual shutdown of auto plants for model change overs.

Payroll gains were recorded in machinery, primary metals, fabricated metals and electrical equipment.

MINUTE MILLIONS

Delays at major airports, amounting to 20 million minutes, cost U.S. aircraft operators more than $63 million last year, reports the Federal Aviation Agency.

The delays were caused by congestion, both in the air and on the ground, weather conditions and limitations caused by ground construction.

The airlines were delayed 38.9 per cent of the total and suffered 64.7 per cent (over $41 million) of the costs. General aviation incurred 55.3 per cent of the delay time and 29.2 per cent of the costs. For military aviation, the figures were 5.8 per cent of the delay time and 6.1 per cent of the costs.

The average cost of delays for each take-off or landing ranged from a high of $17.50 at JFK International Airport in New York to a low of 75 cents at Medford (Ore.) Municipal Airport.

Now, of course, there is the Big Delay of 1966—the airlines strike, the cost of which nobody can yet reckon.

CHALLENGE TO THE IRS

It is gratifying that a dozen congressmen, all but one affiliated with the party in power, have challenged the Internal Revenue Service to clarify its threat to revoke the Sierra Club's tax-exempt status. Their challenge is made more dramatic by their announcement that they have contributed to the conservation group and intend to claim their gifts as income tax deductions.

The congressmen's letter to IRS Commissioner Sheldon Cohen properly notes that the IRS threat had "cast a shadow over the club's tax exemption, but avoided any action which the Sierra Club—or anyone else—could challenge." This has reinforced the suspicion that the IRS threat was prompted by political considerations—that is, by an administration desire to silence the Sierra Club's opposition to proposed Grand Canyon dams. The matter should be settled without any more heel-dragging.

UGLY AND UNNECESSARY

We hope Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough has brought an end to the use of the ugly term "kill-ratio."

In anguish over the sniper slayings in his home city of Austin, he ranted about trying to find a reason for such a shocking event. He is disturbed by the obligation of violence which runs along in contemporary American life.

He mentioned homicide on television programs and Viet Nam headlines in papers. He said, "Kill-ratio" has become a common term in our language."

Those two words are callous and ugly. The first time they were fired off by the Pentagon they were shocking. Why no one has nominated them to be cast out of the American language thus far is a mystery.

Let this be considered a violent objection to the Nazi as more representative of Hitler's Nazi view of humanity than of the American public's.

The Spaniard who spotted a lost H-bomb plunging into the sea wants five million for his trouble — which was nothing to the trouble he'll have collecting.

HOLD YOUR BREATH

Out where the air is so clean it's a pleasure to breathe, a clinical research psychologist at the University of Oregon is asking people to hold their breath.

He believes it may enable them to quit smoking.

Dr. Hayden L. Mees tried out his idea on a group of cigarette smokers who wanted to quit, but apparently couldn't as long as they were breathing. And it seemed to work.

One woman who had smoked 30 cigarettes a day for 20 years—it adds up to 219,000 cigarettes—quit entirely. So did four others. And still others cut their smoking by more than half.

The system was simple. Each smoker was asked to hold his or her breath as long as he or she could every time he or she felt like smoking.

In the case of the 30-a-day lady, this meant she was holding her breath a good

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

WHERE ARE THE ADVOCATES OF "PRESIDENTIAL POWER"??

It was only two short years ago that the liberal intellectuals, led by John F. Kennedy's friend and biographer James MacGregor Burns, were complaining that the Goldwater Republicans constituted a "Congressional Party" that was anachronistic in the modern age. The need, so the liberal intellectuals insisted, was for a strong presidential power to lead and compel Congress to do what it takes to meet complicated problems, both internal and external.

We haven't been hearing so much along these lines recently; indeed, Mr. Walter Lippmann, who has tended to support a strong presidential system ever since the days of Woodrow Wilson, has just taken off on a long vacation with a warning that something should be done to restrain the power of Lyndon Johnson. Liberals of all types and varieties are speaking in the new Lippmann manner. For example, the famous Mario Savio, generalissimo of the campus "revolution" at Berkeley, California, who once welcomed presidential power when it was used to curb the States Rights of Alabama and Mississippi, has been describing himself of late as a "philosophical anarchist" and professing sympathy for libertarian conservatives who voted unsuccessfully for Goldwater. Savio speaks of our "traditional liberties" being "eroded by the unwarranted growth of the federal government."

In between Lippmann and Savio there are scores of ADA-ers and what-not who liked Lyndon Johnson when he was twisting Congressional arms to force through domestic legislation, but who hate him now that he insists on supporting friends of freedom in distant parts of the "one world" that liberals used to be for.

If today's issues weren't so serious, the philosophical somersaults of our liberal intellectuals would make a good musical comedy fodder for the Morrie Ryskind who wrote "Of Thee I Sing." When the "Congressional Party" was dominated by the likes of Bob Taft all we heard from the liberals were complaints about Senatorial do-nothingism and "obstruction." But now that the Congressional Party is headed by Senator Fulbright, with Wayne Morse acting as his able lieutenant, we only hear about the terrible war in which the White House is "escalating" the war in Vietnam without asking the "advice and consent" of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

The National Conference for New Politics, which was recently set up by a group ranging from Grenville Clark of the World Federalists and Mark DeWolfe of the Harvard Law School to Stokely Carmichael of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and Dick Gregory, the Negro entertainer who wants to be Mayor of Chicago, is going into action this autumn with one objective: to break the Presidential power of LBJ. What we need, say the NCNP organizers, is a "new politics" designed "to reserve the tendency of our politics toward the monolithic conformity of the great consensus," and to revive the free-swinging politics of traditional American democracy.

These are wonderful words, but they come from people who have never in the past been particularly concerned about supporting the traditional Madisonian system of checks and balances that maintained free-swinging individualism in Congress. No doubt the words are sincerely meant at the moment. But conservatives are true libertarians who have all along supported the Congressional system. James MacGregor Burns' "Presidential system" had better not count on any permanent new allies on the liberal left. The "New Leftists" will be for "free-swinging politics" until they get their own man in the White House. If and when that day comes, we shall hear no more from them about "Administrative usurpation." Instead, we shall be hearing much about a "consensus" for an accommodation with the likes of Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh and a "convergence" with the Communists everywhere.

We have political science departments in virtually every American college. But judging by the behavior of their liberal graduates, all they seem to teach is that principals depend on whose ox is gored.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Many Heart Murmurs

Are of No Consequence

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—After my doctor examined me he said, "If you ever have to call a doctor who doesn't know you, don't be frightened if he mentions a heart murmur." He says I have a piston murmur. What type is that?

A—Piston murmur is not a standard medical term but your doctor's advice is excellent. Many murmurs are of no consequence and yet may be a source of unnecessary worry. When a heart disease is present other findings are of much greater importance.

Q—What is the significance, cause and effect of a very slow pulse? Is there any remedy for it?

A—A pulse rate may be as low as 30 per minute and be of no significance so long as there is no evidence of heart block (interference with the conduction of nervous stimulation within the heart); increased pressure inside the skull due to hemorrhage, tumor or brain abscess; poisoning with digitalis, salicylates or other drugs; or markedly low activity of the thyroid (myxedema). If any treatment is required it could consist of removing the cause.

Q—Is there any first aid treatment for heart attacks?

A—Anyone who is subject to coronary heart attacks or agina pectoris should always carry tablets of nitroglycerin to dissolve under the tongue at the onset of the attack. If the attack occurs at home a member of the family should loosen the victim's collar and belt and prop him up in bed with three or four pillows. A sip of liquor may help to relax him. Meanwhile, call a physician.

Q—I have had pericarditis twice. What causes it? How serious is it? How can a person avoid recurrences?

A—Inflammation of the membrane that surrounds the heart is usually caused by an infection with the streptococcus or staphylococcus. Other causes include tuberculosis, uremia, cancer and direct injury. The disease may be mild or severe depending on a variety of factors. You can best avoid recurrences by observing the rules of hygiene and keeping as physically fit as possible.

Q—I stay hungry all the time no matter how much I eat. As a result I am gaining weight. What could cause this and what do you advise?

A—Possible causes are diabetes and emotional disturbances. It used to be thought that an insatiable appetite was a sign of tapeworm infestation but no tapeworm would require more than a teaspoonful of food a day. Have your doctor determine which of the suggested causes applies to you.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

part of the time—and obviously holding it good like a breath-holder should.

Dr. Mees, while encouraged by the results of the tests, was not extravagant in his claims.

The experiment, he said, was too restricted to be statistically solid.

Which to the layman sounds as if the doctor may be telling us that this thing looks like it will work, all right, just don't hold your breath.

All From One Carelessly Thrown Little Match

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The marks of the big offense against society are clearly seen by all: A sniper's mass slaughter of innocents on a university campus, the horror of eight nurses mutilated and murdered in their home, the blackened cars, burned-out hulks of buildings and rock-littered streets of a riot-torn city, the endless housebreakings and the beatings of innocent people.

But there are untold evidences, less obstructive, illustrating how far the general level of American behavior falls below sensible standards of decency, honesty and safety. Huge parks set aside for the pleasure and peace of mind of city dwellers are today a no-man's-land menaced by terrorist thieves and marauders. Great patches of America's big cities are unsafe for the innocent citizen by day or night. A telephone company spends $80 million a year to send its night operators home in taxis.

On some commuter train routes, it is mandatory for window-seat passengers to draw the blinds to protect themselves against flying glass shattered by rock-throwing teenagers. Travelers on a high-speed expressway were stunned recently to find not rocks but boulders dropped on their cars from overpasses along a nine-mile stretch.

In a woody summer retreat, a man who had tried and failed for years to block trespassers paused in his latest effort, realizing that he was digging a moat. The cost of vandalism in the nation's schools would build several hundred new ones a year. The cost of theft from stores, offices, banks is an extra levy on the insurance policies most Americans pay.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Aug. 10, 1956 — Plans for a Victory Day observance here Aug. 15 included a band concert at Academy Green.

An invasion of Japanese beetles was reported at Sidney, Delaware County.

Local public works employees gained a pay boost of some 18 cents an hour.

Pasquale Ralph Arace, 22, local World War 2 veteran, died at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Bronx, Aug. 8.

Aug. 10, 1956 — The largest 4-H Club exhibit ever shown was planned for the Ulster County Fair in Forsyth Park, Aug. 15 and 16.

The Town of Ulster was due to have new water service in operation in about six weeks.

Sale of the Huling Apartments, 3 North Front Street, to attorneys Hubert A. Richter and Seymour Werbalowsky was announced.

The public was invited to an IBM water show at its Poughkeepsie Country Club pool on Aug. 11.

For much of their lawlessness, many people offer an intriguing array of false alibis:

"I just went for a joyride . . . I was only borrowing it . . . I took did not hurt anyone, it's covered by insurance . . . I did not think it belonged to anyone . . . Everybody else was doing it, so why shouldn't I?"

The truth which they conceal from themselves is quite different.

Today's burgeoning crime and lesser misbehavior has, of course, many causes. In this affluent world with booming population, there are more people to rob, more homes to be broken into, vastly more tempting goods to be snatched from open shelves, more challenging excitements in breaking the law than are found in the duly orderly world where people earn what they get. There is also serious deprivation.

The notion is abroad that democracy means everyone is entitled to have quickly everything he wants. If he takes it instead of earning it, he finds surprising defenders in the intellectual community, who seem to argue that a good stock of material possessions equals freedom.

In the racial freedom of today, Negroes often are chided for wanting to set the law aside, for contesting the police and other constituted authorities. But those who do that have plenty of white company.

White men challenged by police frequently set upon them with fists and weapons. White parents summoned to the police station to see charges placed against their children sometimes wind up berating the police for daring to arrest them. White men have tried to excuse gang-rapes as a "boyhood prank."

The necessary authority of the police is so broadly challenged—by rebellious Negroes, defiant white offenders and intellectuals who think all policemen are sadists and Cossacks—that one is left to wonder what legitimate role they see for any restraining force in a free-wheeling, turbulent democratic society.

The most respected developing law today seems to be that which seeks to safeguard the rights of accused persons. It is almost forgotten that the general body of the law is designed to safeguard the community against wrongful and harmful acts.

Too many Americans think such law is an unfair restriction upon their liberty. In their callous, thoughtless misuse of freedom, they have gone a good way toward damaging it for everyone.

Timely Quotes

The Communists are Viet namese like us and nationalists like us. And like us they seek justice. The world condemns them only because to get there they employ criminal means.

—Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, sister-in-law of the late President of South Viet Nam.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The streets of Palm Beach glistened after a night shower. A driver, hurrying to his parked automobile, saw a red car go by.

Then he leaped out of his car and stood watching it go down Worth Avenue. It was fire engine red and had six wire wheels, two recessed in the front fenders.

The car drew to a stop in front of Taboo. The man who parks the cars motioned to Jim and Danger Peterson to come out and have a look. The driver got out. He had white hair and the hard-boiled gentility of a man who, in 60 years, has lost a few and won a few.

Mr. Jack Faircloth said: "Park it carefully" and went inside to have dinner alone. The car is a 1931 Model A Ford sports phaeton. It is probably the most unusual collector's item on the road because it is brand new. The Petersons were surprised to find that all American automobiles are not built in Detroit and the Middle West.

Faircloth makes six of these cars each week. He has a big concrete barn on the edge of West Palm Beach Airport in Florida and he handcrafts each model with the assistance of 15 men and a couple of women.

The 1931 Model A was the last of the type made by Henry Ford. His plants were tooling up for an eight-cylinder job and he cut production, so that only 52,000 of the sports phaetons were turned out. Jack Faircloth was a young fellow then. He was single and he sold Fords at an agency in Bartow, Fla.

In those days, almost all young fellows fell in love with a certain car. For some, it was a Cord. Others thought the Velie was "the Cats." Or perhaps a Pierce Arrow. For Faircloth, it was the flame-red sports phaeton with the wire wheels. "Someday," he said, "I'm going to be rich enough to own one of these."

It was not to be. He moved to West Palm Beach, married, and, in time, became a dealer for International Harvester. As soon as he had the money, the lovely glistening Ford was old and unknown. Faircloth spent money writing to antique car dealers. The search continued for years, but no one had a 1931 Ford Sports phaeton to offer.

The years inched on. The Faircloths had children, and they grew up. They were prosperous and bought a house and a boat. Jack's hair began to whiten. His friend and attorney, Phil O'Connell, advised him to forget the search. Jack just shook his head.

He sold the International Harvester Agency and retired. Still he kept writing letters to far-away places. Two years ago, he found a place where he could buy the body, but it had no wheels. Faircloth bought it.

The Ford patent expired in 1948. Now it was 1964, and Jack and the car were getting on in years, but his love was as tender as ever. He wanted the car to live. So, like a scientist trying to revive a dead beauty, he con-

Peace Corps Is Needed For United States Mission

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Wanted: A gage in public disobedience to protest real or imagined wrongs then the example set by the minority today will be followed by the majority tomorrow. Issues then will no longer be decided upon merit by an impartial judge. Victory will go to the side which can muster the greater number of demonstrators in the streets. The rule of law will be replaced by the rule of the mob. And one may be sure that the majority's mob will prevail.

Many of the leaders of American thought, not only in the colleges but in the churches, have argued that "civil disobedience" is fully justified and that each man may decide for himself what laws to obey. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, in a copyrighted article in the current issue of "U. S. News & World Report," describes the significance of the problem as he says:

"The polls still place the war in Viet Nam and the rising cost of living as the major political issues of 1966. But, from my own trips across the nation, I can affirm that private conversations and public concern are increasingly focusing upon the issues of disrespect for law and race turmoil."

"Who is responsible for the breakdown of law and order in this country? I think it both an injustice and an oversimplification to lay the blame at the feet of the sidewalk demagogues alone. For such a deterioration of respect for law to occur in so brief a time in so great a nation, we must look for more important collaborators and auxiliaries."

"It is my belief that the seeds of civil anarchy would never have taken root in this nation had they not been nurtured by scores of respected Americans: Public officials, educators, clergymen and civil-rights leaders as well."

It is indeed paradoxical that some of the most intelligent and fair-minded men in the country who currently preach reconciliation in the conflicts of mankind profess to support "non-violence" and yet ignore the effects of incitement to violence. Mr. Nixon writes on this point:

"There is a crucial difference between lawful demonstrations and protests on the one hand—and illegal demonstrations and 'civil disobedience' on the other. I think it is time the doctrine of civil disobedience was analyzed and rejected as not only wrong but potentially disastrous."

"If all have a right to en-

Many students at the colleges and universities have been among the most conspicuous offenders in manifesting a contempt for authority. Perhaps the time has come for the various units of the American Bar Association to sit down with and explain the true meaning of law to the educated as well as the uneducated, to the leaders in the churches as well as their rank and file."

Edward W. Kuhn, president of the American Bar Association, in an address to its annual convention this week in Montreal, said:

"America is in desperate need of authoritative advice from the organized bar in the field of human rights and responsibilities."

"We hear of self-appointed leaders, both secular and religious, proclaiming in all sincerity the philosophy that it is right and proper to obey only the laws he believes to be just—that he can with moral impunity disobey those he does not believe just."

Certainly the majority of the American people would like to see steps taken to overcome the ill effects of the doctrine of "civil disobedience." In this way a start could be made toward a restoration of peace inside the United States.

Black Nationalists, Reds Blamed by Grand Jury

By ROBERT L. SHAFER
CLEVELAND (AP) — A grand jury report says black nationalists and Communist youth leaders worked together to incite last month's rioting in the Hough area Negro slum.

A 17-page report issued Tuesday night by the Cuyahoga County grand jury said the outbreak was "organized, premeditated and exploited by a relatively small group of trained and disciplined professionals at this business."

"They were aided and abetted by misguided people of all ages and colors, many of whom are avowed believers in violence and extremism, and some of whom also are either members of or officers in the Communist party," the report said.

The rioting, which broke out July 18, was followed by widespread fire bombing, looting and vandalism.

Four Negroes died of gunshot wounds and damage to property was estimated at more than $500,000. Some 2,000 Ohio National Guardsmen were called in and guard units stayed in the area for 12 days.

Lewis G. Robinson, founder of the JFK (John F. Kennedy) House for young people was named by the grand jury as one of the "principal and recurring personalities in the chain of events, which preceded" the Hough outbursts.

Jurors reported finding evidence that instructions were given boys at the JFK House "in the use of molotov cocktails (fire bombs) and how and when to throw them to obtain maximum effect."

Idiotic, He Says
The report identified Robinson

as holding membership in several "black nationalist clubs" and said evidence showed he "pledged reciprocal support to and with the Communist party of Ohio."

"Idiotic," was Robinson's comment on the allegations. He said "the grand jury never asked me about any such affiliations."

He charged Police Chief Richard Wagner and Mayor Ralph S. Locher were trying to close the JFK House, which he calls a youth center.

"To them," he said, "the JFK House is a symbol of black thinking, black action, black history and black pride. Obviously these people don't want us to think for ourselves and plan our own lives."

Robinson, 35, was fired from a housing inspector position in 1964 after announcing plans to form a rifle club to protect civil rights demonstrators. He founded the JFK House soon afterward.

Testimony from 40 witnesses over seven days showed, the grand jury report said, that "leaders of the W.E.B. DuBois Club and the Communist Youth Party, with interchangeable officers and virtually identical concepts, arrived in Cleveland only a few days before the Hough area disorders."

The jury added no new indictments to those it returned July 29 charging eight men with damaging property, larceny, carrying 8 concealed weapons and malicious entry in connection with the rioting.

To Appeal Sentence For Flag Burning

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Civil Liberties Union said today it would appeal a suspended sentence given Sidney Street for burning an American flag.

Criminal court Judge Ludwig Glowa imposed the sentence late Tuesday on Street, 47, a Negro of Brooklyn.

Street took an old 48-star American flag and burned it on the street when he heard June 6 that James Meredith had been shot on a voter registration march through Mississippi.

Street told a patrolman, "I did it. If they did that to Meredith, we don't need the American flag."

Parks Department Hires 'Eyes and Ears'

NEW YORK (AP) — The City Parks Department has hired a 19-year-old Negro to act as the "eyes and ears" of his neighborhood in the East New York section of Brooklyn, where there has been violent racial trouble.

The youth, Julian Grant, leads a group of Negro youths who were involved in disturbances with a group of Italian-Americans several weeks ago. The groups frequent playgrounds and several blocks apart in the area.

Grant was hired by Parks Commissioner Thomas Hoving at a $1.50 an hour for a 40-hour week. Officially, his job is to detail any lack of recreational facilities in the East New York area.

Two Sides Hope To Avoid Solons' Action on Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for striking mechanics and the five grounded airlines agreed today to try to settle the dispute by voluntary arbitration and thus avoid legislation by Congress.

But the question will have to be submitted to the union members for a vote before arbitration is attempted, President P.L. Siemiller of the International Association of Machinists told the House Commerce Committee. He said this would take about three and a half days.

Speaking for the carriers, William J. Curtin accepted the idea in principle.

Meteor Show Tonight

BOSTON (AP) — The Perseid meteors put on their annual show tonight, reaching a climax just before dawn Thursday.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory says viewers may see an average of 15 to 20 meteors tonight.

In the early morning, the so-called shooting stars will seem to radiate from an area high on the eastern horizon.

The Perseid meteor shower is usually the biggest such show of the year, but an even bigger display will come Nov. 16 and 17 when the earth encounters the Leonids, an event that occurs about every 33 years.

Bar Group Discusses CR Jury Selection

MONTREAL (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach flew to the American Bar Association's annual meeting in Montreal today to fight a drive to put the ABA on record against the 1966 civil rights bill's jury selection provision.

The jury section, a cornerstone of the bill which cleared the House of Representatives Tuesday night by a 259-157 vote, strikes at discrimination in the selection of federal and state judges by requiring that they be chosen at random from voter lists unless these do not represent a cross-section of the community.

The drive to put the ABA's House of Delegates, the policy-making branch of the association of 122,000 lawyers, in opposition to the provision is led by William L. Marbury, a Baltimore attorney and former president of the Maryland Bar Association. Marbury's resolution may be cleared by a drafting committee for presentation to the House of Delegates late today.

Johnson Winner In Ark. Runoff

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Jim Johnson, a segregationist and unrelenting critic of the federal government, won the Democratic nomination for governor of Arkansas in a runoff primary Tuesday.

The 41-year-old former State Supreme Court justice, who compares his conservative views to those of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, defeated Frank Holt, 55, in a campaign in which the federal-state relationship was a prime issue.

Johnson is still a long step away from the governor's chair, however. Ready to challenge him in November is Republican Winthrop Rockefeller, who has breathed new life into his party during the last six years.

Rockefeller, brother of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, plans to open his campaign headquarters today while Johnson is still sagging from an exhausting two-month primary race.

The near complete unofficial vote count (2,528 of 2,661 precincts), showed: Johnson 198,494, Holt 179,981.

David Pryor, 31, a lawyer-legislator from Camden, won the nomination for Congress in the 4th District in a runoff against Richard Arnold, 30, a fellow attorney of Texarkana.

Pryor also won a special primary for the right to face Republican Lynn Lowe of Texarkana in a special election next month to fill the unexpired term of Rep. Oren Harris, who resigned in February to become a federal judge.

He will meet Lowe again in November for a full two-year term.

Check Night Spots

NICE, France (AP) — Identities of more than 1,000 persons were checked Tuesday night in a sweep of Riviera night spots by antidrug police.

Police officials said about 100 persons, many of them beatniks, were detained temporarily when they could produce no valid papers. Authorities said no drugs were found nor did any of the persons questioned seem to be under the influence of drugs.

Reds Ignore Nixon

HONG KONG (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon went on a tour of downtown Hong Kong today and paid an impromptu two-minute visit to a Communist Chinese exhibition center.

Red Chinese officials at the center ignored him. Nixon is on a round-the-world tour. He leaves Thursday for Tokyo.

Drive Nets $486 For R. V. Rescue Squad Building

The Rondout Valley First Aid and Rescue Squad raises a total of $486 in a recent fund drive through a bake sale, tag day, and rummage sale.

The tag day, held in Stone Ridge and High Falls, proved the most successful of the programs, realizing $226. The rummage sale made $133 and the bake sale netted $128.

Tuesday will be the game feature at 8 p.m. at the Squad Building, High Falls. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

Work continues on the new squad building with work crews

Animals Quarantined

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty-five African animals, suspected of foot and mouth disease, were in special quarantine today at abandoned army post Ft. Slocum, an island in Long Island sound off New Rochelle.

The animals were among about 90 shipped from Kenya aboard the Dutch freighter Maas Lloyd and destined for zoos in 14 American cities.

putting the roof on. There is still plenty to do on the building and volunteers are still needed. Workdays are on Saturdays and Sundays.

Lloyd Spearman, chairman of the building committee who was injured while working on the new building a few weeks ago, is still a patient at Kingston Hospital.

Korean-Sized War in Offing

May Find 470,000 Yanks In Asia Area by Yule

EDITOR'S NOTE — President Johnson says more U.S. fighting men will be required in Viet Nam — and more will be sent. Where does the troop buildup stand now? And most important, where is it headed? In this article, Associated Press Writer Bob Horton reviews the American commitment in Viet Nam and looks to its future.

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Signs mount that the United States may have a Korean-sized war on its hands in Viet Nam around Christmas.

This would mean an American commitment of about 470,000 men in Southeast Asia, the peak level of U.S. forces used directly and in support of Korean operations in 1953.

375,000 There Now

Present U.S. strength in activity tied to the Viet Nam war is estimated at 375,000, including 290,000 troops in Viet Nam, 60,000 seamen offshore and at least 25,000 military personnel spread over bases, supply complexes and other facilities in Guam, Thailand, the Philippines and Okinawa.

Reports persist, and are not officially denied, that by the end of this year American troops within Viet Nam will total about 400,000 — some 110,000 greater than at present.

From President Johnson on down, various leaders have talked of bolstering American forces as a means of trying to pressure Communists to negotiate a settlement of the conflict.

"More manpower will be required," President Johnson told a news conference July 20. "We shall send Gen. Westmoreland such men as he shall require and request."

Gen. William C. Westmoreland is U.S. commander in Viet Nam.

May Go to 600,000

Today, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., told The Associated Press the force "necessary to do the job on the ground" could eventually run as high as 500,000 to 600,000.

"It's very apparent we're going to need more men there," Stennis, chairman of a Defense subcommittee, said. He predicted in January U.S. troops in Viet Nam would hit 400,000 by the end of this year.

One Pentagon official, who must remain unnamed, estimated the actual 1966 year-end strength in Viet Nam probably will be nearer 375,000. But he said defense officials have talked of a 450,000-man ground force to be available within coming months.

The official emphasized that such discussions center around capability and that at this point there has been no firm decision to deploy men in such numbers.

Draws Fresh Attention

The whole question of the spiraling U.S. buildup drew fresh attention this week with word of two studies casting doubt on the adequacy, over the long run, of the present level of American forces in Viet Nam.

About the same time, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was saying in Saigon after meeting with top military officials he felt a half million men would be needed to win the war.

Speculation immediately arose that Nixon was reflecting the view of Westmoreland.

The two studies — whose existence coincidentally became known in Saigon — attracted sudden official downgrading from the Pentagon in Washington.

One report compiled by the Marine Corps indicated that Hanoi could keep up its present war pace indefinitely unless the United States increased its forces to about 750,000.

The other, described as an Army study, stated that with the present rate of progress in the war, the Communist regime could hold out eight years.

Unaware of Reports

In short order the Pentagon declared that neither the Defense Department nor the Joint Chiefs of Staff have such studies. But its terse statement did not preclude the possibility that the reports eventually would get top level examination.

And Johnson told a news conference Tuesday he had neither seen nor heard of any such reports.

Privately, military officials pointed out that various studies are continually in the works around the Pentagon. Some arbitrarily visualize the worst possible circumstances which could arise in Viet Nam, then set forth what efforts would be required to meet those cases.

Regardless of whether the two studies signify things to come in Viet Nam, they are illustrative of how defense planners are appraising the situation.

The big question confronting them is: Where do we go from here?

With no significant Communist victories so far in 1966, the feeling is that American and Allied fighters are outpointing the enemy.

Still Slug Back

Yet the Communists continue to slug back — mostly when cornered during American seek-and-destroy operations — and show any number of signs they can drag out the conflict.

"I would warn against expecting a quick decision," Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says. Of late the Pentagon chief avoids venturing a timetable regarding the war, no doubt remembering he once predicted a withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Southeast Asia by the end of 1965.

Hanoi Plans Key

The key to the problem is the future plans of the North Vietnamese. Aside from the unknown factor of intent, however, there are known quantities which can be cranked into the military equation that leads to decisions:

— Communist strength in South Viet Nam is growing slowly despite sustained U.S. air attacks on infiltration routes and spoiling operations designed to hit the enemy before he can spring his ground assaults.

— Though a big military victory is needed to bolster confidence, Communist troop discipline has not deteriorated. The Viet Cong remain dedicated soldiers.

— Despite the loss of 9,000 tons of rice this year — enough to feed 27 1,800-man regiments for six months — the Communists have adequate food for survival and enough ammunition for limited campaigns.

Military strategists estimate enemy strength at 270,000 men, including about 40,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in about 150 battalions. Opposing this with the American troops are about 350,000 regular South Vietnamese troops.

On the U.S. side of the war ledger:

— American and Allied forces have killed 35,000 Communist troops so far this year, including 5,000 the last three weeks of July. This compares with 2,500 U.S. troops and 4,500 South Vietnamese men killed in action in the same period.

— U.S. air strikes are depriving the Communists of half their 150-ton daily requirement of weapons and supplies moved by man, machine and animal down the Ho Chi Minh Trail into South Viet Nam. The Pentagon also says two-thirds of North Viet Nam's oil storage capacity has been destroyed.

— U.S. intelligence capability is increasing as the South Vietnamese begin to trust more fully and count on the American presence, and inform friendly troops of enemy movements.

Pentagon officials say the Communists may attempt to score an impressive victory of some sort in coming weeks. So far, regular North Vietnamese units have been held from action, either from fear of superior U.S. firepower and mobility or awaiting orders on operations being planned in Hanoi.

Fino Says Grain, Speculator Is Cause of Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Paul A. Fino, R-N.Y., claimed today the grain speculator was the middleman reaping the profits and causing bread prices to rise.

He told a House agriculture subcommittee the Commodity Exchange Authority should have its budget doubled and be required to investigate trading practices on the commodity markets.

Fino's testimony was prepared for the subcommittee holding informational hearings on the cause of recent 2 to 3 cents a loaf bread increases. Other congressional witnesses and representatives of millers and bakers also were scheduled to testify today.

The New York Republican has introduced a bill which would increase the Commodity Exchange Authority's budget and require periodic investigations.

He said the authority had a budget of only $1 million, not enough to make necessary trading practice investigations. But he claimed when such investigations had been made, the authority found widespread price-fixing among speculators.

It is this price-fixing in trading, he claimed, that is responsible for rising bread prices. Farm organization spokesman who have testified during the past few days have branded as false claims the farmer is responsible for the price hikes, contending his share is only 3.9 cents out of each loaf of bread. They claimed the biggest slice of the loaf — about 11 cents — goes to the baker.

Turnau Offering Barber 2 Weeks

JOSEPH PORELLO

Saturday is the opening date for a two week run of The Barber of Seville at the Turnau Opera in Woodstock. Although Byrdcliffe performances of the company usually begin on Friday evenings, this particular opera is opening one night later to allow the cast to appear in a special children's performance the preceding afternoon at the George Washington School in Kingston.

Long a popular performer here, Alan Baker will not only sing the role of the jolly barber of the title, but will also direct Seville. The romantic lead of Count Almaviva will be sung by tenor Joseph Porello. A talented performer, Porello will be remembered by those who saw him onstage here as the fat clown in the recently performed, The Wise Woman.

The critically acclaimed and thoroughly beautiful voice of Carol Toscano will be heard in the role of the saucy Rosina. Others in the cast will be Frank Summers, who will play Dr. Bartolo; Ronald Gerbrands, who will portray Don Basilio; and Lois Rippel, who will sing Zerlina.

Name Jersey Man Horse Show Judge

One of the most popular men in horse show circles, David Thomas of Branchville, N. J., will serve as judge for the Woodstock Riding Club's mid-summer horse show. Robert Davis of Hurley, who is serving as show chairman of the local club's big show, said this week he felt fortunate in being able to secure the services of the New Jersey judge.

The show is scheduled this coming Sunday, beginning at 9 a. m., at the club's Ohayc Mountain ring, Broadview Road, Woodstock.

Two divisions have been announced for the show, English and western, with a championship in each, as well as an overall grand champion.

Also included on the schedule will be many games and fun classes, including a costume category, in addition to the more formal fare. The prize list is a lengthy one.

A well stocked refreshment stand will be open at the ring throughout the day, with Virgil Van Wagonen of Bearsville and Daisy Janson of Zena in charge.

Episcopal Church Sponsors Theatre Party of Musical

A theatre party performance of the musical, "West Side Story," for the benefit of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock, will be held at the Woodstock Playhouse, Thursday, Aug. 18. Curtain time will be 8:30 p. m. "West Side Story" has been acclaimed as the musical hit of the century; was made into a movie following a long run on Broadway. Written by famed composer Leonard Bernstein and Stephen Sondheim, it is thought-provoking as well as entertaining. At time it became a social documentary of one of the many ways of life today—the life of young people growing up in the slums of Manhattan. While the plot runs the gamut of human emotions, there are lively dances and musical ballads of unexcelled beauty.

Tickets for the St. Gregory's Episcopal Church sponsored performance of West Side Story may be obtained at the Woodstock Playhouse door or by making reservations with Mrs. Charles Rosen or Ned Buoymaster, whose telephone numbers are listed in the Woodstock directory.

Reformed Church Fair Date Nears

Many of the ladies of the Dutch Reformed Church of Woodstock have spent the past month or more planning the yearly fair of the church. Always a big day for workers and the public, this year's fair is expected to live up to past expectations and more.

Booths this year will include a new table, antiques, china, jewelry, plants, toys and art. Home baked foods will be available in all categories; luncheon will be served; and refreshments will be available all day.

Anyone still having items that they would care to donate to the fair is asked to leave such articles in the church basement on the day prior to the event Friday, Aug. 19. The fair itself, to which the public is invited, will take place Saturday, Aug. 20, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on the Woodstock Village Green.

Express Cautious

For the first time federal courts would have to adopt a system that would assure that jurors come from a broad cross-section of the community. Most judicial districts now rely on jurors named by leading citizens.

The bill also would authorize federal court action to end discrimination by state courts. If discrimination were proved, an order could be obtained to change the state system of selecting jurors.

Opponents offered nearly 80 amendments during the 12 days the bill was on the House floor. They had to wait for one of the last to score their only real success.

Big One Got Caught

SHIPROCK, N. M. (AP)—When Earl McGrath of Marysville, Calif., hooked onto a trout in the San Juan River below Navajo Dam in northern New Mexico, he knew he had something. He did. Twenty minutes later he landed a 10-pound 15½ ounce rainbow trout measuring 28½ inches.

N.C., succeeded in knocking out a provision that would have let the attorney general initiate court action to desegregate schools. Present law requires him to act only on a written complaint and Whitener's amendment would keep that requirement in effect. It was approved by a 214-201 roll call vote.

Rochester Town Plans for PPR; Must Redistrict

The regular Town Board meeting of the Town of Rochester was held Thursday, and a discussion was held concerning the necessary redistricting of the Town's election districts, due to the new standards that are required by Federal Permanent Registration. The redistricting must be completed by Jan. 1, 1967, and it is hoped that it may be completed in September of this year. A special Town Board meeting will be held to study the matter. A discussion was held concerning the new state law allowing parties the opportunity to remove 25 years old or over. In order that the Town Board may study the possibility of securing a local law allowing this exemption, employees 25 years old or over that qualify were asked to contact the town clerk at the supervisor. To date 16 property owners have contacted the Town. Further discussion and study will be held on this matter.

Will Study Constitution
A discussion was held on the Comprehensive Planning Study that the Town Board has agreed to have prepared by professional planning consultants. Supervisor Franklin Keller pointed out that the Town's application has been approved by the state, but as yet has not been approved by the federal government. Upon Supervisor Keller's suggestion it was agreed by the Town Board that letters be sent to our federal representatives, asking that they investigate the reason for the delay of the necessary federal grant so that the study may proceed.

Concerning the Automobile Junkyard Law Town Attorney Albert L. Lander said he will have copies of the draft law prepared for Town Board discussion so that it may be studied and reviewed at the next Town Board meeting. It was pointed out that the town may either enforce the state law or adopt a local town ordinance to the effect of junk cars.

A letter received from the YACCA, Kingston, was read. The letter requested that the YACCA be granted with the United County Community Action Committee, in order to establish a county-wide Neighborhood Youth Corps Project, which is fundamentally an attack on the urban drop-out problem. The Youth Corps Project is one of the work training programs established by the Economic Opportunity Act and would provide work for youth from low income families. The employing agency must be either a federal, state or local public agency or a private non-profit organization. Supervisor Keller said he would check this matter further.

Appoint Committee
The following persons were appointed to serve as Town Commissioners: Dennis Huber, Kathleen, and Walter Dine, Rochester.

Town Attorney Lander reported he has not received a reply to his request concerning the possibility of having highway markings painted on the road in the town as suggested by Congressman Morris Stern.

Commissioner Stern displayed a sample sign he had prepared which listed the names of all persons residing on a particular road. Commissioner Stern presented this as a suggestion and said he felt it would be a great asset if all residents on each road in the town would agree to have a similar sign made for their individual road. He also suggested the name of the road could be included on the sign. Explaining that this project cannot be undertaken by the town, Commissioner Stern said he hoped that possibly civic and charitable groups could help with the project. He said that he felt that along with this type of sign being helpful, it would give residents of the town a sense of pride and welcome feeling.

Peace Candidate At Meeting Here

Eric Lashburn, peace candidate for the 25th Congressional District, made his first public appearance here Monday, August 8, at the A.M.E. Zion Church, where he addressed a large crowd of citizens who attended the 25th Anniversary Memorial of the bombing of Hiroshima.

Sponsored by the Ulster County Committee for Peace in Viet Nam, the event was highlighted by a talk presented by the Rev. Thomas Lee Hayes, director of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship. Robert Campbell of Woodstock read the first chapter of John Kennedy's moving book, "The Decision," and a film of a mural depicting the awful event were shown.

The memorial was scheduled to be held at the Fair Street Methodist Church, however the Committee of the church, toward the sponsoring group "controversial" and the committee was fortunate to obtain the use of the A.M.E. Zion Church on Franklin Street.

The growing conviction of the war in Viet Nam and the fear held by many that it will ultimately in an atomic war have devastating effect on the world, led the Ulster County Committee for Peace in Viet Nam to the committee action. Others wishing to join may contact Lou Greig, High Falls, N. Y.

Fish Against Tight Money

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress, declared that thousands of people in the Hudson Valley are suffering because the Johnson Administration and the 2 1/2 to 1 Democratic Congress prefer tight money to governmental economy as a weapon against inflation.

Book Sale Will Benefit Library In Stone Ridge

Aug. 20 from 9 to 5, the Stone Ridge Library will hold a one day book sale.

This will be run by Austin Dunham, assisted by a number of other men of the community. Mr. Dunham has been a well known book dealer for many years, and has gathered and sorted all manner of books for this sale including best sellers old and new, collectors' items, paperbacks, children's books, and some records and tapes.

Proceeds from the sale will go for the purchase of new books for the library. In a recent survey made by the Citizens Survey Committee, the Stone Ridge Library was rated among the top libraries of the county. The citizens of the community and the outlying districts served by the library are proud of this institution and are generous in giving time and effort to maintaining its high standards.

"Tight money is especially painful to young couples preparing to buy homes," Fish said. "In some places FHA mortgages are now above six per cent."

"Even more galling is the regressive character of tight money. The well to do can get mortgages at relatively low interest rates, but banks are being cautious on lower quality loans. That is loans to those who must make smaller down payments. This is not because the people have proven to be poorer risks," Fish declared, "but as an anti-inflationary measure, a poor substitute for governmental economy."

"Another group who are suffering," Fish reported, "are those who must sell their homes. In a tight money market, the older home is harder to finance. Many people are under real financial duress. It is not fair that some individuals should be expected to bear so heavy a part of the burden of fighting inflation."

All of these and many more are suffering because tight money is restricting the growth of the entire area. It makes little sense to launch impressive, governmentally backed redevelopment, when private investors cannot borrow the money to build the new plants, stores, apartments, etc. which these projects call for.

Bus Strike Ties Longevity Record

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The city's 10-day-old bus strike tied a record today for being the longest walkout in the 16 year history of the Niagara Frontier Transit System Inc.

The last 10-day strike was in 1955.

There has been no break in the deadlocked negotiations and the company has announced no new offer, Darwin H. Bohn, president of the striking Local 1342, Amalgamated Transit Union, AFL-CIO, said Tuesday at the close of a bargaining session in the U.S. Courthouse Building here.

A total of 1,150 drivers, maintenance workers and clerical employees struck the company Aug. 1 following the expiration of their old contract.

The union members were scheduled to meet today in a regular August session.

Assisting the union and company negotiators is Federal Mediator Thomas R. Colosi. He refused to comment on Tuesday's session.

He said earlier, however, that union representatives had offered modifications of a proposed contract and that company officials had requested time to study them.

Union members rejected earlier a new three-year contract offered by the company. The pact would have provided a wage increase of 78 cents an hour over three years, including 28 cents in cash. Other provisions included a change in the pension plan.

The walkout has inconvenienced 190,000 daily bus users, and has cost the company and employees nearly $500,000.

Stratton Schedules Sub Threat Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Armed Services subcommittee, led by Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., will hold hearings next week on the nation's ability to "deal with the Soviet submarine threat."

Stratton, of Amsterdam, said Tuesday the national focus on Viet Nam meant "we have tended to lose sight of the fact that we are still up against substantial military threats in other parts of the world."

"America's position of world leadership still rests very substantially on our ability to move freely around the world's sea areas," he said.

Repair the Repaved Road to Howe's Cave

COBLESKILL, N.Y. (AP) —

About 50 motorists, many of them tourists, had the wind knocked out of them—and their tires—when the Schoharie County Highway Department decided to repave the road to Howe's Cave, a tourist attraction.

The department placed a fresh layer of crushed stones on the road Tuesday, to the delight of the cave's owners.

By late afternoon, however, delight turned to chagrin when the newly laid top, including stones with jagged sharp edges, forced many automobiles off the road with flat tires.

Highway repair crews returned to the scene, this time to repave the repaved road.

Clear White Cop in Shooting of Negro Boy, 16

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A white city policeman who shot and wounded a Negro boy suspected of purse snatching has been exonerated by the police commissioner, despite suggestions by civil rights leaders that he be court-martialed.

Commissioner Frank J. Fellicetta said Tuesday night a full investigation of the case failed to disclose any violation of law or departmental rules that would justify the suspension of Patrolman Edward B. Wisniewski, Jr.

After the shooting of the 16-year-old on Aug. 3, a delegation of civil rights leaders asked for the suspension of the policeman. Some charged the shooting was not justified.

Mayor Frank Sedita promised the leaders a complete report. One leader urged that the incident be settled promptly before a "powder keg explodes."

Another commented that "we'll all walk together if we don't take it together."

Fellicetta said he will submit his entire file to the district attorney and ask for a grand jury hearing.

The boy, Stevenson MacDuffie, of Buffalo, was wounded in the thigh and shoulder by Wisniewski's bullet. The boy was lying on the ground when the shooting occurred after MacDuffie, hauled from a patrol car and ignored two warning shots fired by the policeman.

The boy lives at 575 North Division St.

Rochester Town Plans for PPR; Must Redistrict

The regular Town Board meeting of the Town of Rochester was held Thursday, and a discussion was held concerning the necessary redistricting of the Town's election districts, due to the new standards that are required by Federal Permanent Reapportionment. The redistricting must be completed by Jan. 1, 1967, and it is hoped that it may be completed in September of this year. A special Town Board meeting will be held to study this matter. A discussion was held concerning the new state law allowing partial tax exemption to persons 65 years old or over. In order that the Town Board may study the possibility of securing a local law allowing this exemption, taxpayers 65 years old or over that qualify were asked to contact the town clerk of the supervisor. To date 16 property owners have contacted the Town. Further discussion and study will be held on this matter.

With State Committee
A discussion was held on the Comprehensive Planning Study that the Town Board has agreed to have prepared by professional planning consultants. Supervisor Franklin Kelder pointed out that the Town's application has been approved by the state, but as yet has not been approved by the federal government. Upon Supervisor Kelder's statement it was agreed by the Town Board that letters be sent to our federal representatives, asking that they investigate the reason for the delay of the necessary federal grant so that the study may proceed.

Concerning the Automobile Junkyard Law
Town Attorney Albert Lantieri said he will have copies of the state law prepared for Town Board members so that it may be studied and reviewed at the next Town Board meeting. It was pointed out that the town may either enforce the state law or adopt a local Town ordinance to the control of junk cars.

A letter received from the YMCA, Kingston, was read. The letter announced that the YMCA in contract with the Ulster County Community Action Committee, is undertaking to establish a county-wide Neighborhood Youth Corps Project, which is fundamentally an attack on the school drop-out problem. The Youth Corps Project is one of the work training programs established by the Economic Opportunity Act, and would provide work for youth from low income families. The employing agency must be either a federal, state or local public agency or a private non-profit organization. Supervisor Kelder said he would check this matter further.

Appoint Committee
The following persons were appointed to serve as Town Commissioners: Dennis Nether, Kerkhousen, and Walter Dulce, Kerkhousen.

Town Attorney Lantieri reported he has not received a reply to his request concerning legality of having highway markings painted on town roads as suggested by Congressman Morris Sims.

Councilman Sims displayed a sample sign he had prepared which listed the names of all persons residing on a particular road. Councilman Sims presented this as a suggestion and said he felt it would be a great asset if all residents on each road in the Town would agree to have a similar sign made for their individual roads. He also suggested the name of the road could be included on the sign. Explaining that this project cannot be undertaken by the Town, Councilman Sims said he hoped that possibly civic and charitable groups could help with the project. He said that he feels that along with this type of sign being helpful, it would give residents of the Town a warm and welcome feeling.

Peace Candidate At Meeting Here

Eric Lindstrom, peace candidate for the 20th Congressional District, made his first public appearance here Monday, August 8, at the A.M.E. Zion Church, where he addressed a large crowd of citizens who attended the 21st Anniversary Memorial of the bombing of Hiroshima.

Sponsored by the Ulster County Committee for Peace in Viet Nam, the event was highlighted by a talk presented by the Rev. Thomas Lee Hayes, director of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship. Robert Gooden of Westerlo read the first chapter of John Kennedy's moving book, "Hiroshima" and slides of a mural depicting the awful event were shown.

The memorial was scheduled to be held at the Fair Street Reformed Church, however the Cemetery of the church, termed the sponsoring group "unconsecrated" and the committee was fortunate to obtain the use of the A.M.E. Zion Church on Franklin Street.

The growing escalation of the war in Viet Nam and the fear held by many that it will ultimately in an atomic war have encouraged many citizens to join the Ulster County Committee for Peace in Viet Nam, the committee stated. Others wishing to join may contact Lou Crepet, High Falls, N. Y.

THE SOVIET UNION is joining the West and Japan in the rush to develop superfast trains. Designers at the Wagon Works in Riga, Latvia, check over a model for a new Moscow-Leningrad train. The aluminum coaches will feature such luxuries, for the Soviets, as reclining seats and air-conditioning.

Resnick Votes No to Eliminate Open Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vote of New York and New Jersey congressmen in the House Tuesday that defeated, 222-190, a motion to eliminate an open housing provision from the civil rights bill:

Democrats against:

New York — Addabbo, Bingham, Carey, Celler, Delaney,

Dow, Dulski, Farbstein, Gilbert, Hanley, Kelly, Keogh, McCarthy, Muller, O'Brien, Ottinger, Pike, Resnick, Rooney, Rosenthal, Ryan, Scheuer, Stratton, Tenzer, Wolff.

New Jersey — Gallagher, Daniels, Helstoski, Howard, Joelsson, Krebs, McGrath, Minish, Patten, Rodino, Thompson.

New York — McEwen.

Republicans against:

New York — Conable, Fino, Goodell, Grover, Halpern, Horton, Kupferman, Pirnie, Reid, Robinson, Smith, Wyder.

New Jersey — Cahill, Dwyer, Frelinghuysen, Widnall.

Recorded against but not actually voting:

Democrats: New York — Murphy, Powell.

Jersey Woman Hurt

While swimming at Fourth Binnwater Lake near Whiteport Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Margaret Sparks, 58, of 301 West Henry Street, Linden, N. J., reportedly fell and broke her right ankle. She was taken to Kingston Hospital by Don's Ambulance of Rosendale, after first aid was administered and she was carried about a half mile on a stretcher to the road where the ambulance awaited.

The Atlantic entrances to the Panama Canal is west of the Pacific entrance.

Don't Despair — All Is Not Lost

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you when I was 14, but didn't take your advice. Believe me, I wish I had. You wouldn't remember my letter, you get so many, but I asked you if I should go back with a boy I'd broken up with and you said no. I did anyway because I was crazy about him. Well, I got pregnant. I wanted to go to a home because I knew I had made one big mistake and didn't want to make another, but my parents thought we should get married. We've been married two years now, and I am the most miserable (I probably didn't spell it right, I had to quit school) girl in state of Texas.

My husband doesn't want to work steady, he doesn't pay any attention to me or the baby. He runs around with the kids, and there have been times when we haven't had enough to eat. All our money goes to get his car fixed up so he can drag race. I haven't told my mother how unhappy I am. I've caused her so much worry, I can't hurt her any more. Please give me some advice, Abby. This time I'll take it.

SEVENTEEN AND OLD

DEAR SEVENTEEN: It won't be easy to finish your education, but if you really want to, you can do it. Encourage your husband to grow up and face up to his responsibilities. Try to build as good a marriage as possible with the material you have.

Most important, confide in your mother. She may not be as surprised as you think. If your marriage is hopeless, perhaps it is better to recognize it now, than 10 years and 6 babies from now.

DEAR ABBY: Am I disappointed in you! You told the woman who always asks a telephone caller, "Who is calling, please?" that she was correct to ask, because the caller should always identify himself first. Nothing makes me angrier than to have someone ask me, "Who is calling?"

They give the impression that they might not let you talk to your party if your name doesn't suit them. Besides, what's the difference who is calling? If a person is too busy to come to the phone, he is too busy, no matter who is calling.

DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Sorry, but everyone should have the privilege of knowing who is calling him before he answers the telephone. And if he doesn't care to answer, that is also his privilege. (It's yours, too.)

DEAR ABBY: I had the same kind of situation as "WANTS ROMANCE", but I didn't just sit around and wait for him to show up. After the third date I came right out and told him what was on my mind, and I asked him if there was something wrong with HIM, or was there something wrong with ME! He said, "Oh, so you want to be kissed!"

Then he kissed me so hard he nearly broke my collar bone. We were married five months later and have been married for nine years, and we have six children. So I guess that proves that honesty is the best policy.

'Exit 19' Opens Up Inquiry by BBC Executives

LONDON (AP) — Executives of the British Broadcasting Corporation today ordered an investigation into a television program which showed a young couple in bed discussing their sex lives.

Hundreds of viewers telephoned complaints about the 45-minute dialogue. Reviewers called it the frankest, most intimate TV program ever shown in Britain.

The BBC had billed the documentary drama, "Exit 19," as an inquiry to discover "if in the age of space ships the British are still living in the steamship age when it comes to sex and ethics."

The couple talked in detail about their sexual habits and their attitudes toward homosexuality, incest and premarital love.

Philip Saville, who wrote and directed Exit 19, avoided professional actors for the roles of the man and the girl, who in the script were engaged.

Instead he picked Jack Bond, 28, a film editor, and Maureen Saffhill, 21, an art student. Saville said he interviewed 120 girls for the part and chose Maureen, a pretty blonde, because "she is a really modern girl — absolutely free in her attitudes."

Complaints from viewers began coming in after the program's opening sequence showing the couple in bed, with the girl apparently naked.

Typical Dialogue

The dialogue included such exchanges as:

Jack: "When did you first make love?"

Maureen: "At 17."

Jack: "Did you enjoy it?"

Maureen: "Not very much."

Saville supplied the questions. The couple gave their own answers.

"Miss Saffhill and I met for the first time in the studio," Bond told a newsmen.

"Our orders were to ad-lib answers to certain questions, even if they took us aback."

"Miss Saffhill was obviously startled by some of the questions, because we had no idea what they would be."

"In fact I gave truthful answers, even though it was a very unusual experience to be questioned in this way. We recorded our answers in different studios."

Taped Months Ago

BBC officials said the program was taped 10 months ago but Kenneth Adam, program controller, did not agree until recently to let it be shown. It was transmitted late Monday.

The investigation will be held next week by the BBC's Board of Management since Sir Hugh Greene, director-general, is on vacation. Despite periodic demands for censorship of the state-supported BBC, the government has consistently refused to interfere.

Magazine Raps N.J. Gun Law

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — The Dome, a monthly magazine, has editorially attacked New Jersey's new gun-control law claiming it is a threat to individual rights.

The editorial also contends the law could not be effective "because most criminals do not buy guns legally anyway." It said a wife, or any relative or friend of a criminal can purchase a weapon for him and thus defeat the purpose of the law.

The magazine claimed it speaks with authority. It is published and written by the inmates of Rahway State Prison.

List Major Provisions of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the major provisions of the 1966 civil rights bill passed by the House Tuesday and sent to the Senate:

Title I — Would provide a uniform juror selection system for the federal courts, assuring that juries will be drawn from a broad cross-section of the community. Present qualifications for jury service would be retained.

Title II — Would authorize the federal government to initiate court action to eliminate racial discrimination in state court juries. It would also bar state laws that exempt women from jury service.

Title III — Would give the attorney general broad authority to see a civil injunction against anyone who deprives another person of any federally-protected rights because of his race.

Title IV — Would prohibit racial discrimination in housing transactions by anyone in the housing business. It would not cover individual homeowners unless they engaged in three or more real estate transactions in 12 months, and it would not cover owners who occupy small apartments and boarding houses with four family units or less.

About 40 per cent of the nation's housing units, mainly in large apartments and new developments, would be affected by the ban on discrimination.

Title V — Would make it a federal crime to use force or threats against a Negro or civil rights worker who is lawfully engaged in a federally-protected activity. It also would make it a crime for anyone to cross a state line to lead or take part in a riot.

Wrong Body Sent To Funeral Home

Funeral services for a Cox-sackie man, who reportedly died three weeks ago had to be postponed because a funeral home received the wrong body from Mexico.

William D. Gardner of the Gardner Funeral Home in Cox-sackie said the services were deferred because the body of a man in his seventies was shipped instead of that of Herbert S. Maddone, 36, of Cox-sackie.

Mrs. Gloria Chappell, sister of Maddone, said she received word on July 20 from the American Consulate in Guadalajara, Mexico, that her brother died in a hospital. She wired $450 the consulate spokesman said was needed to ship the body.

When the casket arrived Aug. 3, Mrs. Chappell asked that it be opened. It contained the body of a man in his seventies. To complicate matters, the funeral director said a man named George A. Miller, who reportedly died in the same hospital in Guadalajara, was buried in Fort Sam Houston Cemetery on July 31. The body has been exhumed and word is being awaited from authorities who are checking fingerprints.

Why do some people traditionally choose August to buy their new Chevrolet?

Malibu Sport Coupe and Malibu 4-Door Station Wagon. Both with 8 standard safety features.

To save money and, quite often, lots of it.

They know that prices will never be better at their Chevrolet dealer's than they are in August. They know their present cars will never be worth more in trade than they are right now. And they know a good value when they see one, like a Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe—the most popular model of America's most popular mid-size car. It comes with thick foam-cushioned seats, deep-twist carpeting, vinyl up one door and down the other, padded instrument panel and sun visors for added safety. And all those Body by Fisher niceties sit solidly over some of the surest handling features a car can have: Ball-Race steering. Full Coil suspension. Wide-stance wheel design for steady cornering. So you see, "Chevrolet in August" makes a lot of sense. Fine cars. Exceptionally good buys and all those beautiful driving days left. Real Malibu weather. Act, my friend.

Anti-Crime Helicopter Patrols Are Effective

LAKEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — One recent summer afternoon, a man sneaked onto a used car lot, hopped into an auto and drove away.

Minutes later a small helicopter swung over the fleeing vehicle and directed sheriff's ground units to close in.

A loudspeaker blared a command to surrender. This so rattled the man he lost control of the car, which swerved across a lawn and into a tree.

The man fled atoot, but the helicopter dogged him until he was caught.

In another case, a sheriff's deputy, checking a gathering of youths, was surrounded by a gang. But a chopper arrived and the youths dispersed.

Credit these aeronautical exploits among others to Lakewood's Sky Knight program, a 10-month experiment in crime prevention by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office.

Lakewood is a 15-year-old suburban city of 30,000, one of the first totally planned communities in the nation. Its nine square miles of homes and shopping centers are studded with swimming pools and shade trees.

The sheriff's office says this the first time intensive anti-crime helicopter patrols have been tried in such a relatively small area, although Los Angeles County has used copters for mountain rescues and routine patrols since 1955. All of Lakewood is visible from a helicopter cruising at 1,500 feet.

Financed by a $159,350 grant from the U. S. Justice Department office of law enforcement assistance, Sky Knight is the largest grant to date to a local law enforcement agency, and the fastest to get into operation, says Harold H. Earle, chief of the sheriff's administrative division.

Three helicopters are manned in three-eight-hour shifts. Since machines need refueling and pilots need rests, the craft are airborne about five hours per shift.

The program began operating June 4 out of nearby Long Beach Airport.

"If it's successful," Earle said, "the aero detail may grow 10 times its present size within two years," with similar patrols in other areas.

Alerted by Radio

The copters are alerted by radio to any activity in which aerial surveillance could help. They can drop from 1,500 feet to 500 feet or less for close observation.

"Rapidity of response by helicopters will bring officers to the scene early enough to spot a wanted vehicle, pick up a license number, and keep it under surveillance," says Sheriff's Bob Hoffman.

Since many criminals abandon vehicles soon after a crime, he said, copters often can see and report them. And helicopter pursuit eliminates high-speed chases through crowded city streets which endanger bystanders.

Complaints about the noise they make have decreased. But the Lakewood choppers have brought another protest from one resident — who says they stir up pollen and aggravate his hay fever.

April Tremor Left 300,000 Homeless

Crews Work Through Night In Quake-Wrecked Tashkent

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Under a moonless sky eerie lights from bulldozers illuminate heaps of rubble, splintered tree stumps and what is left of houses that once stood in quake-wrecked Tashkent.

On nearby streets, the people who used to live in the houses sit in tents and watch the demolition crews.

Thousands in Tents
Cigarettes glow in the darkness, radio music is drowned out by the trucks, and the No. 1 topic of conversation is last April's powerful tremor that left 300,000 persons homeless.

Five miles away, other men and equipment work through the night to complete a massive housing project called Chiliznar. Before the winter rains come in November, Chiliznar's apartments must house thousands now living in tents, Soviet officials say.

Day and night, these scenes are repeated as this largest city of Soviet Central Asia tries to recover from the shock of April 26.

It was a powerful one, reaching a force of 6.25 on the 10-point Richter scale. In the four months since the first quake, there have been more than 600 additional tremors, including five big jolts, yet Soviet officials claim only 15 persons have been killed and about 500 injured.

Up and Down Quake
The explanation offered is that the earthquake moved up and down, not sideways, and it struck hardest at old one-story buildings of unbaked mud and bricks that easily crumbled.

After the first quake, Communist officials closed the city to foreign correspondents and by the time it was reopened this month the most heavily damaged houses had been knocked down and carted away.

Earthquake damage caused authorities to condemn more than two million square yards of downtown housing.

"As a result," says Sofia Sokolova, assistant editor of the newspaper Pravda Vostoka (Truth of the East), "68,000 families became homeless."

At an average of more than four persons per family, this means that about 300,000 persons — one fourth of Tashkent's 1.2 million population — lost their homes. More than half of these have had their homes torn down and have been assigned other housing.

36,000 in Apartments
Mrs. Sokolova said 36,000 persons have moved into new apartments.

About 19,000 Tashkent resi-night battle lit by flares from circling American planes.

The Koreans killed 170 Red soldiers and held the jungle battlefield when dawn came, raking in an unusually high total of 78 Communist weapons. The battle flared west of Pleiku seven miles from the Cambodian border in an area where three North Vietnamese regiments are reported by intelligence.

While the Koreans held the field, American warplanes swept in with rockets and bombs.

The Red battalion hit the Koreans late Tuesday night. For three hours they held out alone before Korean reinforcements arrived and armored vehicles of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division ploughed up in support. Six hours later the Communists retreated into the jungle.

Hundreds of Strikes

In both North and South Viet Nam, U.S. planes made hundreds of strikes, including a B52 raid on a suspected troop hideout 40 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese coastal town of Qui Nhon.

For the first time in two days, the U.S. command announced no aircraft losses in the Communist North. But the Air Force disclosed that the top pilot of the war, Maj. James H. Kasler, 40, Indianapolis, was shot down in his F105 Thunderchief 70 miles northwest of Hanoi on Monday.

Other airmen saw Kasler bail out and made radio contact with him on the ground but helicopters were unable to pick him up. He was presumed captured, although officially listed as missing.

An Air Force spokesman said about 300 Viet Cong were known to be operating in the area of the village that was attacked by mistake. He said he did not know whether the province chief mistook the villagers for Viet Cong.

Advisers Give Blood

He said the pilots had dropped their bombs where they were told to — on a cluster of thatched and frame huts along one of the many canals that lace the delta. He said the orders had gone through regular channels from the province chief through the Vietnamese military to the U.S. Air Force.

U.S. military advisers at Can Tho, headquarters of the Vietnamese Army's 4th Corps area, went to the hospital to give blood to the wounded, he said. An investigation was ordered. U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 129 missions over the north Tuesday, 10 shy of their record Monday. Most were in the southern coastal panhandle because overcast and heavy rains blanketed the Hanoi-Haiphong area, a spokesman said.

dents were given plots of land to build their own houses. Some are prefabricated wood units costing about $1,000, payable in installments over 10 years.

Soviet officials say 31,000 persons are living in public buildings, such as college dormitories or office buildings. Another 35,000 have moved in with Tashkent families. About 16,000 moved to other cities. Another 40,000 moved back into damaged homes that were temporarily repaired.

"In other words," Mrs. Sokolova says, "there are about 177,000 persons whose status this winter has been settled. The

Unsettled Weather Is Outlook

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Extended forecast for Upstate New York, as prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, from Thursday through Monday:

Unsettled weather is expected, with intermittent showers and below normal temperatures.

Rainfall will total one-half to one inch over most sections. Daytime highs will be in the upper 70s to middle 80s. Nighttime lows will be in the middle 50s to low 60s.

41 Are Back On Pilgrim Jobs

All but one of 42 employees of the Pilgrim Furniture Company, 107 Greenkill Avenue, who had been on strike since last Friday, returned to their jobs at 8 a. m. today.

Joseph Ausanio, of 646 Delaware Avenue, who had been discharged from the plant last week, did not return. The others were advised by him and by the New York headquarters of Local 76, United Furniture Workers of America to return to their jobs pending arbitration which will include discussion of the firing of Ausanio.

A report last week said Ausanio had refused to do any more piece work on "samples" or new designs designed furniture unless the same rate was paid as for other piece work. The others decided to leave their jobs after Ausanio. The strike was described as "wildcat." The plant has 85 employees.

a County Sewer Agency to undertake a countywide sewer study to be completed by July 1, 1968, will come up tomorrow night for consideration. The creation of the agency and the sewer survey would permit municipalities to qualify for Federal aid, thereby reducing the local real property tax for municipalities involved.

The resolution to be offered by Supervisor Majestic, notes that federal funds are withheld for water and sewer projects until the county initiates studies for both projects. The resolution would authorize the Board to appoint within 60 days, five members to a non-partisan County Sewer Agency.

Another resolution scheduled for reading tomorrow night would provide partial tax exemption on real property of persons 65 and over. The resolution authorizes the county attorney to prepare an ordinance or resolution to enact a new County law providing such partial tax relief.

Other Business

A resolution that the Board of Supervisors go on record supporting the Orange County Planning Board in its endorsement of the Pumped Storage Electric Generating Project proposed for the Town of Cornwall and Highland, will be read tomorrow. Support of the plan proposed by Consolidated Edison Corp., has also been recorded by the Town of Cornwall, City of Newburgh, the Mid-Hudson Municipal Association and other groups. It is contended that the project would contribute additional tax revenues beneficial to the public at town, county and state levels.

The board is expected to approve a resolution authorizing the County Health Department to use all unassigned space on the sixth floor of the County Office Building to relieve the congestion existing in the offices on the fourth floor.

College Budget Due

A request of Frank D. Greco, executive secretary of the County Civil Service Department, asking permission to attend the County Officers Fall Conference at Concord Hotel, Kiamasha Lake, Sept. 11 through Sept. 14, will be acted upon.

The county board also is expected to approve the Ulster County Community College budget previously submitted by the Board of Trustees. The budget will provide for a tax levy of $229,056 for 1967.

Killed in Crash

FONDA, N. Y. (AP)—Howard Rich Jr., 19, of Hudson Falls, was killed early today when the automobile he was driving struck a tree beside Route 5 near this Mohawk Valley village.

State Police said Rich had been living at a hotel in nearby St. Johnsville.

remaining 120,000 or so are deciding what to do."

Tashkent residents lived in terror during the first days after the big quake but now say they're used to it and even joke about it. The men tell bawdy stories about husbands coming home to the wrong tents.

"Ironically, the earthquake has resulted in our making faster progress with our original plan for new housing," says Vladimir Alishev, assistant director of the official Uzbek Telegraph Agency. "But it is a high price to pay and we would never say thanks to this kind of calamity."

How to See The USA—Free

By BOB COCHNAR

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA)—A couple of Swedish chicks have just embarked on an around-the-country automobile tour and plan to tell several dozen Rotary Clubs about Sweden's four S's—sin, sex, suicide and smorgasbord.

What's more, they actually want to do it. How Rotarians will react to this assault on American sensibilities is, of course, another matter.

Helena Wadsten and Ann-Charlotte Hultcrantz, both Stockholm students, always wanted to visit the United States but, like so many other European youngsters, didn't have the money.

So, says blonde Ann-Charlotte, "we went to the U.S. Embassy in Stockholm and spoke with the cultural attache. He was very nice and said we ought to speak with the Rotary International in Sweden."

It happens that Ernst Breitholtz, of Kalmar, is Rotary's first vice president and he liked the idea. "They must go, they must tell the story of Sweden as only they can do it," Breitholtz said.

Breitholtz arranged for the girls to speak at a number of Rotary Clubs and, better yet, to stay overnight—no charge—with Rotary families.

With this out of the way, Ann-Charlotte and Helena were ready to brace other groups which never really thought about deriding a summer-long trip through the United States.

It didn't take too much convincing, the girls report, to wangle a free round-trip passage aboard the Swedish-American Line's new Kungsholm, a factory-delivered Saab (which they hope to keep), expense money from Rotary and the backing of the Swedish Institute, the Swedish Information Service and the Swedish National Travel Office.

"Everybody was so nice about it," Helena says.

According to Ake Gille, manager of the New York office of the Swedish travel bureau, the freebies haven't stopped. "I have letters offering the girls just about everything from participation in local radio and television shows to appearances in fashion shows," he says.

The girls will be "passing through Delaware, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota and California, entertaining Rotary Clubs along the way. "We are going to talk about Sweden," Ann-Charlotte says. "We are regular ambassadors and we are going to invite everybody to visit Sweden this year. It's homecoming year, you know."

They are also going to have an expense-paid trip. "But talking about Sweden is much more important," Helena points out, winking discreetly.

Olivebridge

OLIVEBRIDGE — Services at the Olivebridge Methodist Church are held every Sunday 11 a. m. with the Rev. Eric L. Forsberg officiating.

At a recent church meeting Ralph MacRoberts and Percy Cook were reelected trustees for the next three years by a unanimous vote.

A special meeting of the official board will be held Aug. 16 at 8 p. m. in the church school room.

The annual chicken barbecue will be held Aug. 20 in the church school room. A fair and dinner will be featured.

Mrs. Andrew Creighton from New Jersey spent the weekend with her mother, Carrie Davis. Mrs. Davis has sold her farm and plans to move to New Jersey.

Correction

While polishing his car Monday afternoon John Nakonechney of Ulster Avenue, Ulster Park suffered an attack and was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's ambulance. It was previously reported that the man who suffered the attack was Leo Brutowski of Ulster Park. An ambulance service spokesman said today the name of Brutowski had been given an employee of the ambulance service by the hospital through an error.

Report Nevada Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced the firing today of a low-yield underground nuclear test at its Nevada test site.

A low-yield test is the equivalent of less than 20,000 tons of TNT. Today's test was the 26th weapons related test announced by the AEC this year.

DETROIT (AP) — Charlie Dressen, manager of two pennant winning baseball teams at Brooklyn in the early 1950s, and most recently manager of the Detroit Tigers, died today in Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital.

Tiger officials said the hospital had informed them that Dressen, who would have been 68 next Monday, died at 11:30 a. m. EDT of a cardiac arrest.

Dressen had entered the hospital the past Sunday with a kidney infection that followed two heart attacks, one last year and the second last spring.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth.

Dressen, somewhat quieter as manager of the Detroit Tigers — his last job — than he was during his playing days and early managerial assignments, had been in good spirits despite his ill health.

He had to give up active management of the team after his second heart attack May 16. Coach Bob Swift took over as acting manager, then was himself put out of action by cancer of the lung.

EEOC Hits Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has begun a new campaign: to wipe out discrimination in the help wanted columns.

The commission charged 75 advertisers Tuesday with discrimination by race, sex, religion or national origin in their classified ads.

Acting Chairman Luther Holcomb said main targets are such phrases as "men — neat appearance," "white attendant," "Catholic salesperson," or "Anglo carhops."

The commission's charges are being filed under Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act which bans discrimination in employment and forbids advertising for jobs on a discriminatory basis.

Dirksen Considers Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois says he is considering the House-approved civil rights bill in his campaign to authorize voluntary prayers in public schools.

Dirksen, sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment to permit voluntary prayers, said an attempt may be made to insert a declaration in the bill that would put the Senate on record in favor of the prayers.

He also said he may try to reopen committee hearings on the amendment to permit evangelist Billy Graham to testify in its support. Many clergymen who testified during the hearings opposed the proposed amendment.

"I DO like you, Leonard. It's just that you're not in my long-range program!"

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After reading your tip about cutting through toast to make thin slices, I thought you might be interested to know of something I've been doing for a long time to make thin bread for tea sandwiches.

Freeze the bread, then take out one slice and while it is still frozen, lay it flat on the bread board, and cut through it with a serrated knife just as you do for the toast.

If you are making just one sandwich for your own luncheon, it is quite simple. If making them for a party, be sure to keep the loaf in the freezer and take out only two or three slices at a time, because the minute the bread begins to thaw, it becomes too limp to manage.

Mary S

Heavens to Betsy! The frozen bread can be cut through slick as a whistle. I was even able to cut neatly through the very thin sliced bread we happened to have in the freezer.

Not only a wonderful idea for dainty tea sandwiches but for all of us who are weight-watchers. We'll still have our sandwich filling "holder" and with half the calories of the regular slices.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I can never remember when my children are supposed to take their medicine. (It is usually every four hours.)

I decided to put a small square piece of adhesive tape over the hour on the clock when the dosage is due. As soon as I give them one dose I remove the tape and place it over the next medicine time on the clock.

This way I never forget to give them the medicine or the time it's due.

Mrs. Roy G. Sell

Dear Heloise:

I use a plastic watering pot while cleaning and rinsing the bath tub.

With the watering pot, I'm able to get the right amount of water on all areas of the tub to scrub it, and it's a breeze to then rinse down the cleansing powder.

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

To avoid mayhem over the trinkets in cereal boxes, our firm rule is that all trinkets belong to Mother, and she shares them with the children.

M. J.

Dear Heloise:

A use for nylon net that I don't believe has ever been mentioned.

I bought a dust mop, and after I shook it a few times the mop would literally fly off the handle. Every time I dusted under a dresser or bed and the mop turned, off it would come.

I cut a small piece of nylon net, folded it several times over the handle end that came out of the mop head, and put the handle back in the mop.

I want you to know I have not any more trouble with that mop coming off and that's been at least six months.

Mrs. G. H. Penney

Dear Heloise:

If you will go over the alphabet on the outside of the telephone flip pads with colorless nail polish, it will protect the tabs.

It will not turn yellow like tape will.

Mary Mundy Age 10

Dear Heloise:

In a small kitchen, instead of using needed space for storing cookie sheets on their edge; I use the cookie sheets in the storage space as a base (or flat liner) for setting much-used pots and pans on.

The cabinet base is never marked by the cooking pots if they are not completely polished, and the cookie sheets take no extra room at all. A Reader

Dear Heloise:

Recently I had a jaw too'h extracted and could not brush the teeth on either side of the sore gum for about a week. My mouth felt miserably unclear.

I used an ordinary cotton swab stick to clean around these teeth, and my mouth felt fresh and clean again.

Buffalo Marine Is Killed in Viet Nam

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 23-year-old Marine, who had been in the service for three years, has been killed in Viet Nam fighting, it was learned Tuesday night.

Cpl. Elliott Simmons Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Simmons Sr. of Buffalo, was transferred to Viet Nam after spending a furlough here with his family last Christmas. He had recently been promoted to corporal, his parents said.

Simmons was a native of Buffalo.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother and a sister. The Simmons address is 486 E. Utica St.

Report Schenk Paid Creditors

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The FBI says it is investigating reports that a 34-year-old computer specialist charged with a $25,000 armed bank holdup paid a number of creditors after the robbery.

Neil Welch, agent in charge of Buffalo and of the investigation, said Tuesday information exists that Werner Schenk of suburban Irondequoit "was in debt," but that the debts "were ordinary ones that any man might have."

Schenk has been charged in the robbery by federal and state authorities and is free on $5,000 bail pending preliminary hearings. Two women tellers of the suburban Pittsford branch of the Security Trust Co. were robbed July 29 of the cash as they walked to a drive-in booth.

Welch said reports exist that Schenk was in both Syracuse and New York City after the robbery.

Authorities said that bags of money found Friday near the Durand Eastman Park Beach contained between $6,000 and $8,000 of the bank money. The whereabouts of the remaining cash is unknown, they added.

Welch said, however, that the department has information that Schenk's creditors received funds after the robbery.

A Xerox official said Schenk was still employed by the corporation.

Accuse Woman, 60, In Death of Husband

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A 60-year-old woman stands charged of first degree manslaughter in the shooting of her husband during what police said was a domestic quarrel over money.

Police accused Mrs. Anna Zaroski of Niagara Falls of shooting her husband, Edward, 43, Tuesday in their apartment. A .32 caliber revolver was recovered by police.

The couple had been married 20 years. Zaroski was on sick leave from the International Paper Co. here.

The Zaroski address is 264 13th St.

94,855 on Frisco Span

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Golden Gate Bridge officials say a record 94,855 vehicles crossed the span last Sunday. The previous high was 94,052 on June 12.

why does the fish in Cap'n John's frozen fish dinners taste fresh-cooked?

Because you cook the fish.

It takes no longer than heating pre-cooked frozen fish...only 20 minutes.

You see, we're sort of fanatics about fresh fish flavor.

So we refuse to pre-cook the fish.

Here's what we do:

We dip the fillet in milk batter.

Bread it. Top it with butter.

We blanch the peas.

Partly cook the potatoes.

So everything's done at once (in only 20 minutes) when you cook it.

The result.

A fish dinner that tastes like the fish is fresh-cooked.

It should. Because it is.

One important tip.

Be sure the oven is really pre-heated to 400° F.

Are our Cap'n John's Frozen Fish Dinners a good reason for shopping A&P?

Some Lucky, Get Rain

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Up to 2.70 inches of rain moistened much of New York State's thirty land Tuesday and Tuesday night, the Weather Bureau reported today.

The outlook for today and Thursday wet with scattered showers — maybe — and high temperatures in the 70s and 80s.

Tuesday's heaviest rain was at Gloversville, where water reached the hubcaps of automobiles in some places. Hail, thunder and high winds accompanied the storm. Many tree limbs were felled.

The Weather Bureau said rain amounts ranged from about a half inch to nearly an inch at Rome, Little Falls, Utica, Plattsburgh, Massena and Syracuse.

Recall Early . . .

attention at these early fairs. Many prizes were awarded to notable examples of penmanship, drawing, composition and map drawings. The fair committee hopes to revive these classifications next year with a journalism contest, and a map-drawing competition of maps of the area, either current or historic.

Candy and soft drinks were sold and, for some years, Kuhlmann's Brewery featured its Shawangunk Mineral Water. Or you could wet your whistle with Schoonmaker's Root Beer. This year's fair will offer cider, courtesy of the 4-H, and "Mountain Dew" from a 1918 truck with two stills in the rear.

Captain Fox, of the Sidney State Trooper barracks, led his troopers in skilled riding exhibitions in days of yore. There will be an open horse show at the '66 fair, and Sheriff William B. Martin will have a sizeable exhibit of modern methods of crime detection and apprehension.

Unscheduled Performance

One of the attractions that seems doomed to the past is the balloon ascensions that enjoyed great popularity around the turn of the century. In 1901, an aeronaut named Sapho entertained. But in 1906, a high-flying lass named Maggie Dailey went aloft in a flight that literally ended all ascensions. As she floated gracefully upward, a guy wire became entwined around a lady spectator's ankle, and she happily became part of the ascension. Dangling upside down, she was carried aloft some 200 to 300 feet. Valiant Maggie directed her balloon to a clear spot near the Beerkill, lowered the balloon, cut the rope, and returned the lady to the ground. She was only slightly injured.

Another event that would be too expensive to duplicate today was the floral parade, which enjoyed great popularity. Horses, wagons, and later autos were beautifully decked out. For several years, Dr. Woodend of Wiltwyck paraded his coach and four in this event.

The Firemen's Parade was a feature of the early fairs. In 1902, Wiltwyck Hose from Kingston took "Finest."

The fair grew from two to three, then four and a half days. Folks came from miles around, and stayed at the Ellenville hotel. One of these fair days was named Kingston Day, and in 1902, Mortimer C. Drake, G. A. Hart & Co., Herbert Carl Dry Goods, and Weston H. Rider exhibited. Drake showed $6,000 worth of furs, a Persian rug valued at $600, etc.

The fair moved to Kingston in 1932. Now, in 1966, for the first time in many years, efforts are being made to enlarge the activities and categories to make it an event of interest to all ages and all groups.

Should Have Broad Appeal

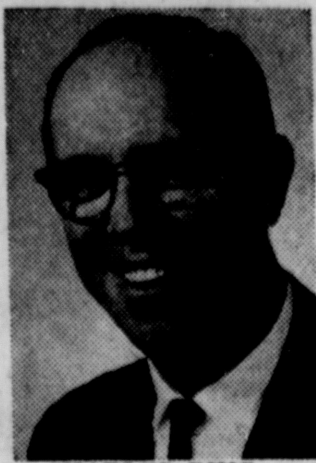

The committee in charge is hopeful that this year's plans will have appeal for hundreds of local residents and that the fair itself will again grow into a fete where people of all ages, from the county together for fun and enjoyment. It is felt that the fair should continue to keep the emphasis on area agriculture accomplishments (and the Ulster Fair is one of the rare few that still does in the area). Along with the animals, fruits, vegetables and canned goods, however, this year's fair will also include fun — fun for everyone who attends.

It is the aim of the promotion committee to see Ulster County's "old fashioned" fair grow into a memorable and always anticipated annual event. Kingston, by virtue of its proud heritage and historic past, is the logical place for such a fair. A successful fair this year and in the years ahead could mean a permanent fairgrounds and a heavily attended event that might last for several days. Such a fair could become a tourist attraction of major proportions and a boon to the economy of the area.

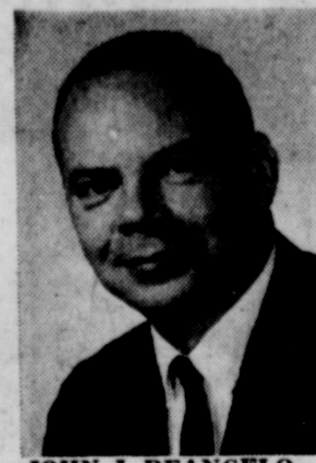

Everyone everywhere in Ulster County is invited to join in the fun of planning a fair that would revive past traditions and past entertainment. Anyone who has suggestions for special events in the country manner is asked to telephone such suggestions to Edmund Bower of Stone Ridge, or Loraine Lilja of Glenford. Those interested in preparing entries are advised that there is still time to do so.

Those who cannot participate in these ways are urged to come out and support the fair with their attendance. Definitely scheduled for the fair are such events as a sailboat race for youngsters on Wednesday afternoon; concerts by local barbershop quartets; a rollicking square dance Wednesday night; a puppet show; the chance to pitch horseshoes; and sumptuous supper fare right at the fair. The committee also urges as many as possible to attend in costume, whether it's attire discovered in the attic and dusted off or a 1966 granny gown, just pur-

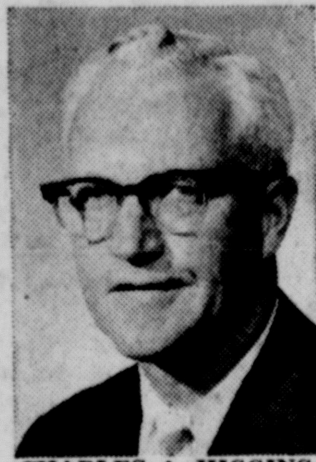

Byrne Chevrolet Promotes Three

CHARLES RING

JOHN J. DEANGELO

CHARLES A. HIGGINS

A leading car agency in Kingston, J. H. Byrne Chevrolet, today announced new management promotions.

J. Howard Byrne, president of the agency, said three of his specialists have been promoted to more responsibility at the new car showroom, 731 Broadway as well as at the used car premises, Albany Avenue Extension.

Charles Ring, newly-appointed new car manager has been with the firm eight years, with a long history of automotive experience. At one time the service manager, and then as the used car manager, Ring is expected to initiate new procedures for customer satisfaction. He was president of the Chevrolet Service Managers Association, a group trained for specialized customer service. A lieutenant in World War II, Ring served in the European Theatre with the 8th Air Force.

John J. DeAngelo, a New Paltz resident for 16 years has been with Byrne Chevrolet for six years, and is the new manager of used cars. DeAngelo devoted his spare time with Troop 77 Boy Scouts and served in the Air Force. He and his wife Terry have two children.

Charles A. Higgins, a well-known personality in the automobile business was promoted from sales department to assistant new car manager. A long-time resident of the area, he has 11 years experience in motor cars and has been with Byrne Chevrolet for about three years. His rapid rise is attributed to a reserved but outgoing customer approach. Past Exalted Ruler of the Elks, Higgins is a past president of the Babe Ruth League, and one of the four original founders of Little League in Kingston in 1952. He attends St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church, is a member of Twaalfskill Country Club and lives with his wife, Josephine, and son, Charles, at 115 Madison Avenue. He also is a member of Wiltwyck Hose Co.

Trucks Were Bonus

Kasler, who had released eight 750-pound bombs on the storage tanks, commented: "It was really a beautiful mission. It went precisely as planned."

As a bonus on his way back to his base in Thailand, the hawk-eyed flier spotted 25 trucks on a mountain road and his flight of Thunderchiefs shot up 12.

The father of three teen-agers who lived with his wife Martha in Indianapolis, Ind., Kasler volunteered five times before the Air Force gave him his transfer from Germany to Viet Nam.

In Zanesville, Ind., his mother, Mrs. Rex Kasler, said: "He was very determined about anything he set his mind to doing. Everything he did he tried to do his best."

She said her husband, a retired insurance company employee, dreamed on Sunday night that they had been notified their son was shot down in North Viet Nam.

"It was a premonition and we felt terrible all day Monday," she said. "Rex was just sick all day."

Then came the actual message from the Air Force.

Pineapple plants bear fruit in about 20 months after being planted as shoots. Pineapples chased in a favorite store. Hopefully, then, this year, many will meet old friends and new neighbors at the 78th Annual Ulster County Fair, Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 17 and 18, in Forsyth Park.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—A rally by airlines failed to spur the rest of the stock market from an irregular decline today. Trading was moderate early this afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.73 at 841.09.

The airlines moved higher in lively fashion on news that negotiators for the striking mechanics and the five grounded airlines had agreed to try to settle the dispute by arbitration.

Some of the airlines rose 1 or 2 points on this news but as more detail was added to the story they began to back a way from their best prices. The chief labor spokesman said he doubted that his members would agree to arbitration.

Prices were lower on balance from the start. Despite the spurt by airlines, the downtrend increased gradually as the session wore on.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .6 at 304.7 with industrials off .6, rails off .8 and utilities off .1.

Youths Accused Of Having Drugs, Stolen Car Plates

Accused of possessing capsules containing a stimulating drug (goof balls) and being in possession of stolen car plates, two youths were taken into custody Tuesday by Trooper J. W. Gallie of the Thruway detail.

Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman said Glenn John Linko, 18, and Patrick James Mallon, 21, both of Brooklyn, were specifically charged with possessing stolen property involving the registration plates.

Arraigned before Justice of Peace Arthur A. Reilly, Town of Ulster, both youths waived preliminary hearing and were committed to the county jail. Lisman said Linko also faces several motor vehicle violations including no license, no registration, no inspection sticker. After being picked up by Trooper Gallie, Linko and Mallon were taken to the Kingston State Police outpost, and a glance inside the vehicle disclosed capsules on the floor. A search warrant was obtained from Judge Reilly and further examination of the car turned up a paper bag containing some 200 capsules.

Examination at the state police laboratory of the contents of one capsule showed a stimulant drug. The other capsules are undergoing tests.

Wilson Supports

potential in the Hudson Valley area.

Assemblyman Wilson said he gave his legislation his full support, but he added he, and the bill, certainly did not intend that the Commission be taken over by the Federal government.

Assemblyman Wilson said the new law provides for a compact to be formed between the States of New York and New Jersey, as well as the Federal Government in relation to the establishment of the Hudson River Valley Commission since many problems along the Hudson River have to be mutually solved by the two states. He also agreed there has to be a degree of Federal involvement because the river itself, as a navigable waterway, does come under the jurisdiction of the federal government, but contended there was no reason why the State of New York had to abdicate its authority and permit the Federal government to dictate how the Commission should be created and operated.

The Ulster County Assemblyman, who is a member of the Federal Government, is concerned with a possible take-over of the proposed Commission by the Federal Government, would be able to convince Washington that the question of how to solve the problems of the Hudson River should be left in local hands.

billion gallons. Flashboard have been added within the past 10 years to boost storage by some 40 million gallons and the Board of Water Commissioners seeks approval of a bond issue of some $500,000 to further raise the storage level. The request went to the Common Council last year and was left with its finance committee.

In 1965 Cooper Lake began losing reserve on June 12. This year it began dwindling on June 28. Last year storage had gone down some five feet before the heavy August and September rains began equalizing output and intake.

This is the sixth year of drought or below average rainfall in many areas of the Northeast. Locally reserve water supply is not yet a problem, but continued lack of rain in the months ahead could bring one.

In early days, shoes showed the rank or wealth of the wearer, among the Greeks, Romans and Egyptians.

Many Are Helped, Many Unaware

en in any way. Through special insurance and other means, need surgery is made possible without the necessity of those involved going deeply into debt or adding financial worries to health worries.

Such unswerving attention to medical details and such thorough belief in the right of a human being to be treated as just that—a human being—is often a rarity in the hustle and bustle of social security-administered medical insurance and crowded hospital wards (more often than not understaffed) today. But personal and all-important contact with people and their problems is the keynote of the local cardiac consultation service.

The Right to Know

No question goes unanswered; not one individual, whether patient or relative, is shunted aside. There is an awareness on the part of Dr. Rakov and Dr. Reppert that a man, woman or child (or those who are concerned with their problems and happiness) need to know the exact nature of a possible cardiac ailment in order for all of them, together, to face the problem of surgery with complete faith. There are no whispered conferences in the corner between physician and patient. He is only the help that can possibly be given and all the hope that is possible for the future.

Ironically, many who could be helped here are unaware of the program. It works simply and effectively, however. A patient must be referred by his own personal physician. He is called by Dr. Rakov. A complete history is compiled and a thorough physical examination is performed and, if indicated, other diagnostic procedures, including X-rays and electrocardiograms, are made. The resulting opinion and diagnosis is for the patient's personal physician.

Under the total awareness which has come to exist through the program, patients — whose case may possibly be amenable to surgery — are examined further in consultation with Dr. Reppert, the brilliant and complete cardiac researcher from New York whose medical reputation is fast on the rise. Much of the success of this program has depended on Dr. Reppert's willingness (indeed eagerness) to make regularly scheduled visits from the metropolitan area to Kingston Hospital.

Surgery is indicated, the patient may be sent to New York's University Hospital for further study and, if necessary, heart surgery. Here, too, he is treated not as a stranger in a strange city, but as a human being, whose warm welcome is assured.

250 Took Advantage

How successful the program here has been is obvious. Since that spring day in 1961, over 250 patients have been seen initially by Dr. Rakov. Eventually, 165 of these were examined by Dr. Reppert here in Kingston and 51 were given further studies at University Hospital. Of these, more than 30 successfully underwent surgery, many in the open heart category. Because of dedication to detail and the warmth which preceded such operations, there were few doubts for these patients that all would go well.

This latter development is, in the opinion of Dr. Rakov, an integral and important part of the program. Granted, the remedial procedures brought to many by the service are of prime importance but, of nearly equal importance, is the fact that to many others it has brought relief from fear. It has afforded an opportunity to allay fears from the very beginning and has become an effective and reliable weapon against ignorance and indecision.

The initial consultation establishes whether a heart murmur is innocent and in no way limiting to a person's activities — or whether the murmur, if strong, is associated with heart disease. Because of prior uncertainty and a lack of rapport between patient and doctor, many have been known to lead inactive lives, fate they might well have avoided. Many cases investigated here have proved, after a consultation show the murmur was benign, that a child could resume normal activities, a pleasure of childhood that should be denied to none, if possible.

One of the requirements of a heart operation is that those in charge must be possessed of impressive skill and an intimate knowledge of the body's problems. There is no doubt, as there was none with Hammurabi and Hippocrates, that a patient entering into consultation at Kingston Hospital is placing himself in the hands of other men who can be trusted to prescribe intelligently.

Time Is Opportunity

Prospective patients are urged to communicate with either Dr. Rakov or the Kingston Hospital. If children are involved, the present summer vacation period from school is an opportune time to take advantage of this excellent and recognized local service — a service that has consistently allayed the fears of many and returned a great many others to useful and productive lives.

Public trust and confidence are part and parcel of this very unique area program and a concern for the feelings and needs of the patients is one of its primary credits.

With so many people across the globe following with interest the career of Dr. Michael DeBakery, renowned heart surgeon at Houston's Methodist Hospital, who only this week performed the third surgical implant of a man-made instrument designed to relieve a stricken heart of most of its labor, it is reassuring to know that here in Ulster County, heart patients are promised just as much dedication. In what has seemingly become an impersonal world, this area, through Kingston Hospital's cardiac consultation service, strives to be as personal as possible, while keeping up with the miracle of medical science elsewhere which are contributing to future generations of mankind.

Prevents Leap to Death

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Sister Consuelo, clung to the legs of a 23-year-old patient for more than seven minutes Tuesday and prevented the man from jumping to his death.

The man, whose name was withheld, attempted to jump from an 8th floor of the General Hospital here. Sister Consuelo grabbed his legs and held on until other hospital personnel arrived and pulled the patient back.

phone call to Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's office in Ottawa kept the wagon rolling Tuesday for six residents of Daytona Beach, Fla., who are taking a horse-drawn covered wagon to Niagara Falls.

Officials of the company which operates the Ambassador Bridge on the Detroit side of the Detroit River told the party led by Leon Gillis to turn back because the wagon would interfere with traffic. However, Gillis drove his team to the Canadian side.

Life Insurance Stocks
Attracting New Investors

Q: "I've read of the fine performance of life insurance stocks. In planning a ten-year investment, shall I switch into these from a mutual fund? What is your opinion of No. American & Casualty of Minnesota? What dividends were paid in 1965-66?" J.K., K.K.

A) Selected life insurance stocks have paid off handsomely when held for at least ten years. When in high favor, their prices have risen dramatically. Yet at other times they have proved deflatory and discouraging. The industry's policy of paying frequent—and sometimes substantial—stock dividends decreases the initial cost of the shares and capital gains eventually spiral from such profit-sharing.

Nevertheless, I do not recommend putting all long-term investment funds into a single segment of the market. I would hold a well-managed mutual fund, buy one or two of the life companies, such as Franklin, Lincoln National, Republic National, or Travelers, and pick up some of the attractive growth stocks recommended here over the past six months.

No American Life does a good business, pushing up its net share year by year. Now trading around its 1966 low of 11, it sold at high at 26 1/2 in 1965. Cash dividends of five cents a share were paid in 1965 and 1966 with a stock dividend of 33 1/2 per cent in 1965. A moderate commitment at current levels should in time reward investors.

Q: "Should we continue to hold Goldfield or sell at a loss?" M.B.

A) As you do not mention what you paid for this loser, it is not easy to advise you. However, company operations have become so splintered as management has tried to build up earnings in non-mining situations that, in my judgment, it would be well to get your money into something else.

Since the peak price during the past 30 years was $4 a share and Goldfield trades now between $2 and $3, your loss should not be a staggering one.

Ulster College Library Given
$5,000 Grant

Ulster County Community College's library has received a $5,000 federal grant, Dr. Dale B. Lake, college president, said today.

"We're pleased to receive this assistance from the federal government," said Dr. Lake, "because it will enable us to expand and enlarge our excellent college library."

The grant, given under Higher Education Act of 1965, is the first grant the college library has received.

Gordon L. Kidd, library director, said the grant is being used for current materials and historical background materials for the library.

Kidd said the library has made giant strides since the college first opened in 1963, with circulation last year showing a 40 per cent increase over 1964-65.

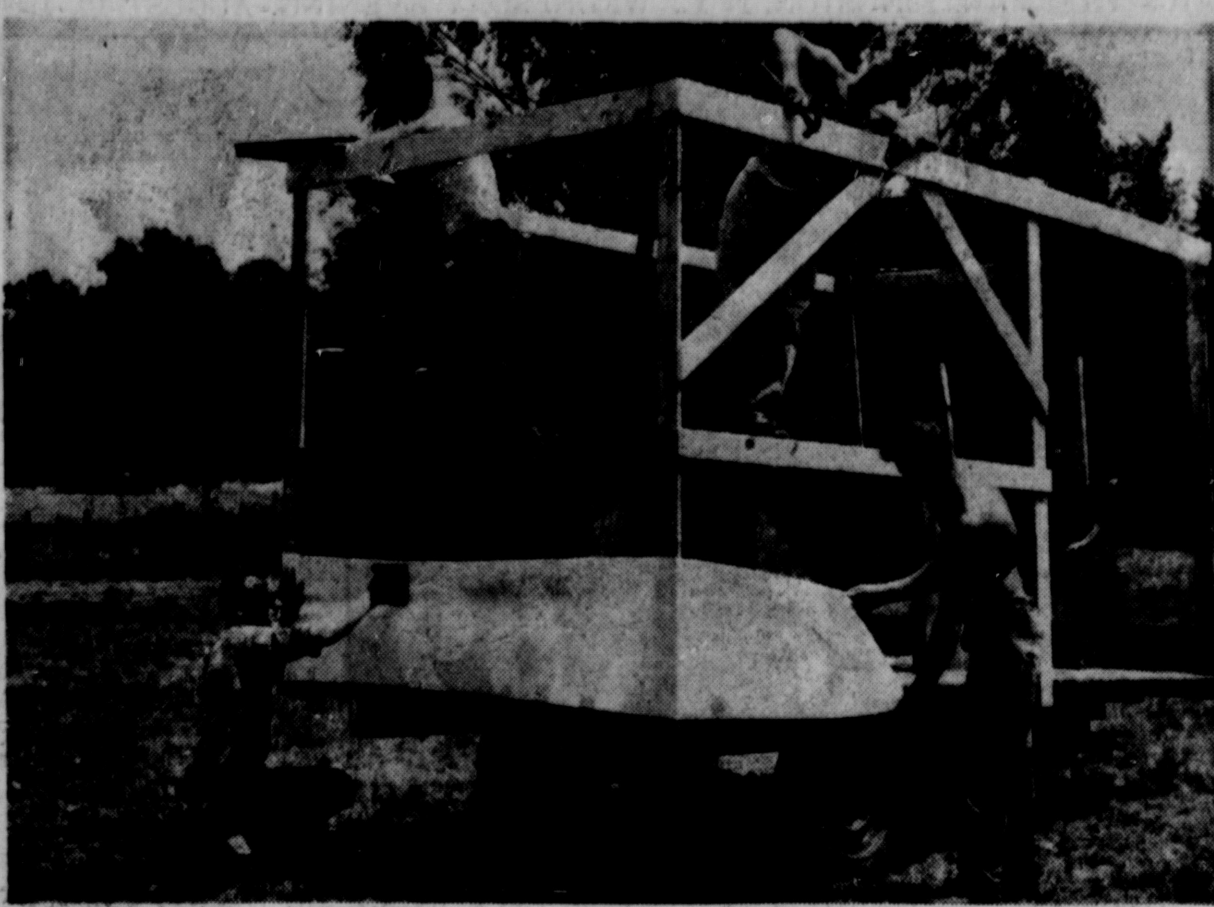

The federal grant will make it possible for the library to increase its books beyond 16,600 by September, which Kidd called excellent progress in just three short years.

"In the last year, we've continued our fine beginning," Kidd said, "and our collections of books and periodicals are growing at a good rate."

Kidd said he already is busy making plans for the expanded facilities the library will have at the permanent Stone Ridge campus, slated to be ready for use next year.

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — Unrecognized by other visitors, Caroline Kennedy, daughter of the late President, inspected the battleship Massachusetts Tuesday with six of her cousins and a friend.

MODERN DAY SURREY—If it boasts no fringe on top or horse in front at this stage in its construction, the modernized survey above will provide plenty of fun when it makes its debut at the annual bazaar of the Centerville-Cedar Grove fire companies. Putting the finishing touches to the upper portion of the survey are Gilbert Ricks and William Sperl (l-r) atop the truck. Beginning to decorate the bottom of the vehicle are Robert Doyle and Robert Terwilliger (l-r) on the ground. The bazaar, for which the survey being prepared, opens tonight on the St. John's Church property, Route 212, Saugerties-Woodstock Road, Centerville. It will hold forth through Saturday, Aug. 13. Offer $1,000 Scholarship

Invite Outside Contestants
To Miss Saugerties Pageant

Joseph Bosco Jr., executive director of the 12th Annual Miss Saugerties Pageant, a franchised preliminary Miss America Pageant, to be held in late October, has announced the following appointments to his staff: Albert Conte, production; Herbert Lachmann, judges; Laura Buono, hostesses; Vivian Schultz, entries; Richard Sabino, awards and promotion; Robert Schnell, programs; Kay Moose, Pageant secretary; and Pamela Downey, publicity.

For the past 11 years, the pageant has been closed to those living outside the township of Saugerties; however, this year, the Board of Directors of the Miss Saugerties Pageant has voted to allow any young lady between the age of 17-27, who resides or attends school in Ulster County, to enter.

The winner of the Miss Saugerties Pageant has for the past seven years been given a $350 scholarship to be used in any accredited school of higher education. It is the intention to increase the scholarship this year to $1,000. Since the contest is officially franchised by Miss America Pageants, Inc., Miss Saugerties will enter the Miss New York State Pageant to be held in Olean, where she may compete for the title of Miss New York State and $3,000 in scholarships and awards.

Could Be Oct. 22
The official Pageant date will be announced as soon as auditorium contracts have been approved which will be on Aug. 15. The date of Oct. 22 for the pageant has been prominently mentioned.

Entry blanks are currently being distributed throughout Saugerties.

Bearing the emblem of a queen's crown, the blank query, "Whom do you nominate for Miss Saugerties? There's space for the name, address, age and telephone number of the girl any resident would like to see compete in the beauty stakes here, as well as space for the name and telephone number of the person suggesting her as a possible candidate.

The forms should be filled in and mailed to: The Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce, P. O. Box 247, Saugerties. Deadline for entries is three weeks prior to the pageant, which would probably be around Oct. 1. Entrants suggested must be between the ages of 17 and 27 by Sept. 1, and must never have been married. Only one nomination is necessary for each candidate and the entrant will be notified of the person submitting her name. All those who are suggested for entry will be contacted and sent an official entry blank and a schedule of rehearsal dates.

The committee in charge of the pageant is hopeful that the young ladies of Ulster County will take advantage of this opportunity to become Miss Saugerties 1967. Members of the group ask all area residents who know a young lady they feel has the qualifications to enter, to do her the honor of submitting a nomination blank in her name.

Firemen Sponsor
Circus at Glasco

It's been a circus world for Saugerties this summer and more of the same is on the way. Two big top performances have already delighted youngsters and oldsters in the community recently and a third touring tent show, complete with clowns and animal acts, will arrive later this month.

This time the fun and frolic is being sponsored by the Glasco Fire Company, according to an announcement by President Joseph Fabiano. The men who man the fire trucks and ladders in the community have contracted with Beers and Barnes Circus for matinee and evening shows on Thursday, Aug. 25. The midway and main tent will go up at the Hudson Valley Light-weight Aggregate Company's field in Glasco and shows are scheduled for 2 p. m. and 8 p. m.

This marks the first time in several years the circus has played in Glasco. Fabiano said this week it is imperative that the public realizes that the local fire company will benefit from the circus only through the sale of advance tickets. For this reason, he urged residents to purchase their tickets early; not wait to get them at the door.

To help assure a big advance sale, the Glasco fire truck will be stationed at the Simmons Plaza parking lot this coming Friday from 6 to 9 p. m. and firemen will sell tickets from the truck. It is hoped that the public will respond; purchase tickets at this time.

Fabiano also noted that the circus has been brought back by popular demand, a fact that should insure a good turnout at both performances Aug. 25. He also said tickets are available at Rudy's Restaurant, Ebel's Market and the Hudson View Market.

Cut Wall Expense

A simple but neat way to beautify a retaining wall is to hang a bench on it. The bench breaks up the expanse of concrete, provides dimensional interest, and serves a useful purpose at the same time. The bench can be built of Douglas fir 2x4s mounted on the wall with angle irons. Paint it a dark wood tone or charcoal to get best contrast with the concrete color.

Lynda Seeks Job While Luci, Pat Continue Privacy

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynda and her sister honeybees, in New York to shop, sightsee and look to prospective employers. Actor George Hamilton, Lynda's frequent escort, took her Tuesday night to see the musical "Sweet Charity." Earlier in the day she spoke with Robert Stein, editor of McCall's magazine.

She is to return today to Washington, where President Johnson confirmed at his news conference Tuesday that his older daughter was being interviewed "preparatory to deciding what work she will do this year."

That seemed to mean that Lynda, 22, has given up plans for graduate study at the University of Texas, where she received a bachelor's degree with honors last spring.

Meanwhile in the Bahamas, Luci Johnson Nugent and her new husband, Patrick, honeymooned in absolute privacy, concealed from the curious by rates and shrubbery at a $250-$300 Nassau Beach estate.

Sir Ralph Grey, governor of the Bahamas, issued a statement welcoming the couple and asking islanders to respect their privacy.

Newsweek Tuesday sent 20 roses and a card requesting interviews and pictures to the honeybees. The bouquet and card were returned with word: the answer was 'no.'

Lynda's interview with McCall's apparently was supposed to be secret also.

"I'm embarrassed," said Stein when he learned that word of the talk was out. "There really isn't anything at this point to talk about."

Lynda wrote an article for Mc-

Call's last fall on an archeological expedition she made in the Southwest. Another article by her on the same subject appeared in the National Geographic.

At the theater Tuesday night, Lynda wore a green silk dress with a black lace cage and a green bow. On her finger was Hamilton's gold friendship ring set with blue stones.

Brush Fires Are Work of Fire Bug

Reported fire bug action in the city this month tends toward arson in brushlands.

Firemen checked one Tuesday night in an area at the rear of Colony Liquor Distributors Inc., off Flatbush Avenue and near the Town of Ulster line. It was reported of incendiary origin, the 51st so listed, to date this year.

Units from Central Station and the Wicks Company answered a call at 7:36 p. m. with Deputy Chief Glyn M. Southard in charge. Indian tanks and brooms were used.

A Sunday night brush fire in an area near Colonial Gardens, off Flatbush Avenue, was followed by another Monday in the same area. Firemen said the latter had been set in several places.

Several other brush fires have been reported in recent weeks, but most of the apparently incendiary fires, to date, this year have been vacant house and other buildings, several downtown and others elsewhere in the city.

The female parakeet lays an average of five eggs.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME Registered U. S. Patent Office by JIMMY HATLO

DO YOU REMEMBER By Sophie Miller

An item from Roundout from the Kingston Freeman and Journal, of Tuesday, August 19, 1913, tells about a horse owned by H. Bellinson of Chambers Street. It seems Sunday morning he stopped at the water trough at Hasbrouck and Delaware Avenues with his horse and wagon, and took off the bridle for the horse to enjoy a drink of water. As soon as the horse realized he was free he gave one leap and started down the hill. There were three small children in the wagon and finding themselves alone they started to scream at the top of their voices which caused a great deal of excitement. The wagon came down the steep hill at breakneck speed, at times sliding from one side of the street to the other. At Murray Street the horse turned down and continued into Chambers Street and ran right into the owner's barn. There was no damage to the wagon or horse and the children though badly frightened, arrived safely home.

In the August 29, 1913 edition, the local paper tells about James Hicks, the contractor being awarded the contract to build two new houses in the 6th Ward. One was for Barney Millens at the corner of Chambers and Union Streets and the other for Mr. McGinnis on Chambers Street.

The Tuesday, Sept. 2, 1913 issue tells about the brickyard beginning to shut down along the Hudson and before two weeks they expected most of them to be closed. A large number of the labor wanted to leave for a warmer climate for the winter. The uptown branch office of the Western Union Telegraph Co. transferred from Walter's confectionery store on Wall Street to William S. Eltinge's drug store on John Street.

Sept. 2, 1913 Henry Ford was a guest of John Burroughs at his summer home in Roxbury. Mr. Ford had presented the famous naturalist one of his well-known Ford cars. John Burroughs' famous cabin, Slatersides, several miles south of Kingston, is now considered a landmark.

Same date, Dwight McEntee leased the Girard L. McEntee residence at 99 West Chestnut Street to James Hamilton for a term of two years, this paper wrote. Hamilton, a member of the Elmore and Hamilton Contracting Co. who had contracted on the Ashokan dam-works and were engaged in building the new road around the entire reservoir for the City of New York. Hamilton had a summer home at Gardiner and was to move to Kingston with his family.

In 1913, month of September, Mayor Irwin of Kingston and City Engineer John F. Hallinan were in Albany looking over the preliminary plans for the Sleighsborough bridge, as it was called then. The bridge was to be of concrete and estimated to cost about $200,000. The final location was not then yet decided upon, but they thought probably it would cross the creek near Island Dock. Now in July of 1966, the bridge needs to be painted, which contract seems to be around $40,000, yet there were no bidders for this work. With all sorts of salaried government groups promising work training etc., why can't some government agency of that sort, of which there are so many with long names, handle such a problem? The need is there, the money is there and it would create jobs outdoors at a very nice time of the year around here. I remember when there was a steady man, year around to keep the bridge in good shape. Extra men were hired, I think when extra work was needed on our present Roundout Creek Bridge.

Gerald Brooke Is Called British Spy by Russians

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff
Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON — (NEA) — Harold Wilson's Labor government is being criticized for its soft attitude towards the Russians over Gerald Brooke, the London teacher who is serving a five-year sentence in Russia for having anti-Soviet leaflets in his possession.

Sick, lonely and frightened, Brooke, 27, has already served a year in the Vladimir jail near Moscow for this trifling offense. Now the British schoolmaster, who is suffering from a stomach disorder, is being transferred to a labor camp to serve the remaining four years of his sentence.

The Soviets have rejected the British Foreign Office request that Brooke be allowed to remain in Vladimir jail, where he has hopes of seeing his wife and of contacting the British consul occasionally. The Russians have also rejected the plea that Brooke be allowed to receive British food parcels to supplement his inadequate prison rations.

Aside from warning British tourists that they risk being arrested for similar trivial offenses if they visit the Soviet Union, the Labor government has shown few signs of standing up to the Kremlin in the Brooke matter.

The London Daily Mail says that the government has behaved with "futile and humiliating impotence" while the Daily Telegraph is shocked by the government's "tone of mild resignation."

The British attitude is being contrasted here to the tough stand taken by the U. S. State Department in the Mott case. Newcomb Mott, 27, a Massachusetts bookseller, allegedly committed suicide last January after being jailed for 18 months for illegal entry into the Soviet Union.

The Russians say that Mott slashed his throat with a razor en route to a labor camp to serve part of his sentence. But the State Department, in a stiff protest note, has demanded that the Russians either produce proof of Mott's suicide or take responsibility for his death.

Brooke knows about the Mott case, and this has served to increase his anxiety about his own transfer to a labor camp.

The outlook for Brooke is admittedly a bleak one. The school-teacher was originally arrested and tried for smuggling anti-Soviet literature into Russia during a holiday trip. Nothing was said at his trial about espionage, however.

But in a recent article Ivestia claims that Brooke and his wife Barbara were "caught handing over the contents of an espionage-kit," and that Mrs. Brooke was lucky not to be tried with her husband.

The Russian game seems crystal clear. By "upgrading" Brooke to spy status, the Soviets hope to barter his freedom against the release of Peter and Helen Kroger, the American-born master spies now serving 20 years each for espionage here. So far the British government has refused to consider any such deal.

When Gerald Brooke's wife visited him in his Russian jail earlier this year, she hardly recognized him, so emaciated had he become. His prison diet, he told her, consisted mainly of fish-heads, bread and gruel, with very little meat or fruit.

As a result he had lost over 28 pounds and his clothes hung loosely on him. Moreover, he had developed colitis, a stomach disorder and was receiving injec-

WSCS Sets Fall Plans

The first fall meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Port Ewen Methodist Church will be a turkey dinner at the Stockade Restaurant, 35 Crown Street, Kingston starting 6:30 p. m. Sept. 13.

Fall rummage sale date has been set Thursday, Nov. 3 at the church.

tions for low blood pressure.

The London Daily Mail has some suggestions as to how to free Brooke. "Give notice to end all cultural exchanges," "Stop the tourist trade."

"When an American professor was thrown into a Russian jail on undisclosed charges the U. S. government, at once acted on these lines," the Daily Mail adds, "and he was out in a week. This is language the Russians understand. We should speak it too."

Newcombe Takes In Inspection of Port Authority

State Senator Lloyd A. Newcombe, Republican of Catskill, who represents Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and parts of Orange Counties, was among the members of the Legislature who participated in the 16th annual inspection of The New York Port Authority facilities on Aug. 3.

S. Sloan Colt, chairman of The Port Authority and Austin J. Tobin, executive director, reported on the progress and the plans for the expansion of the facilities, which include a new World Trade Center to be located on the site of piers 11 through 14 on the Hudson River in New York City.

This year the inspection was concentrated on the Hudson Tube Rapid Transit System and the harbor and docking facilities operated by the New York Port Authority which is a public benefit corporation financed through revenue bonds sold to the investing public, operating tolls and rental revenues. The Port Authority operates jointly with the New Jersey Airport, rail and bus facilities, as well as the bridges, tunnels, docks and the rapid transit system in the Metropolitan New York-New Jersey area.

The Hudson Tube System was taken over by The Port Authority Trans-Hudson Corp., a subsidiary of The Port Authority in 1962, when the system was operating in bankruptcy and faced abandonment because it was obsolete. Today, PATH, as it is commonly known carries some 26,400,000 passengers annually over a 14.2 mile system including the distance of one mile under the Hudson River. Sen. Newcombe commented that the inspection was exceedingly interesting and valuable in promoting better understanding, as well as recognition of the scope of work and the responsibility of one of New York State's many individual agencies who construct and operate public facilities.

Indians' Last Stand

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — The Quechan Indian tribe is asking President Johnson to veto the Arizona-California boundary agreement which Congress has approved. They claim it would take away 2,000 acres of land to which they lay claim.

A spokesman for the tribe said a resolution sent to the White House represents the tribe's "last stand" against the agreement.

By ROBERTA NASH

If you ever want to get a Penney man going, ask him why Penney's makes such a big deal out of quality. Then stand back.

I asked a Penney store manager the question once and when he finally decided I was serious, he said, "If I could use only one word to describe the phenomenon of Penney's, I'd pick the word, quality."
"Mr. Penney has always is when someone suggests we compromise Penney

Archbishop Joins Playboy Club?

Unhinging the 'Swinging City'

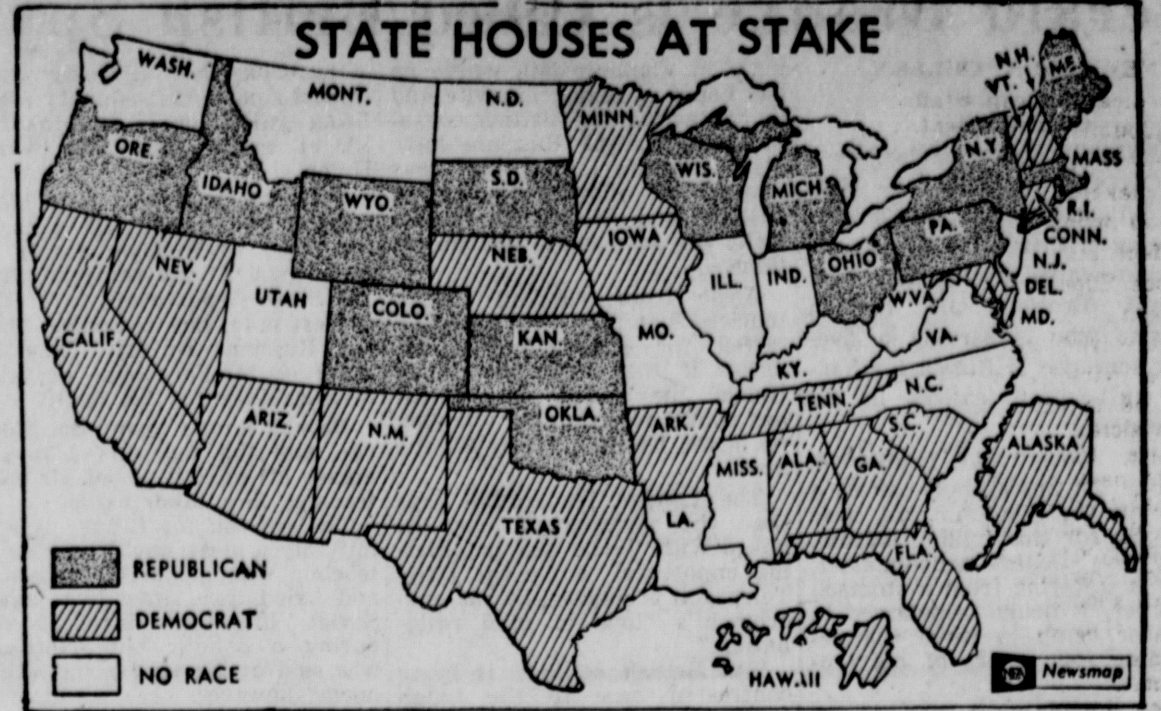

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff
Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
LONDON (NEA)—Now that London has gained the reputation of being a swinging city of switched-on dollies in miniskirts the killjoys have set to work to spoil it all.
Nobody is worried much about the miniskirts. They are considered to be tonic for tired eyes. But the Church of England and the House of Lords are concerned about the gambling casinos that have made this city famous as the modern Gomorrah.
Gambling of all sorts is not only openly condoned in London but it is being commercially exploited, says the Church Council on Gambling, an offshoot of the Church of England. "As a result Britain appears reckless to many overseas visitors," says the Rev. Gordon E. Moody, the council's secretary.

Calling for parliamentary action, the Anglican church group pictures London in the grips of a giant pincer movement that extends from scruffy bingo halls to the elegant gaming rooms of Mayfair.
The House of Lords is no less concerned with London's overseas image as Las Vegas-on-Thames. In fact, if their lordships are to be believed, American gamblers are deserting Las Vegas and arriving here by the plane-load as guests, with all expenses paid, of such gambling emporia as the Victoria Sporting Club.
The poison has spread from London until now the whole of Britain is gambling mad, according to Dr. Ellison, the Bishop of Chester. Gambling is now Britain's fastest growth industry, with an annual turnover of $3 billion, according to the bishop.

Opening the debate in the House of Lords, His Grace charged that the 1960 Betting and Gaming Act is a failure. It has given rise to such unforeseen offspring as the Playboy Clubs, which the Archbishop of Canterbury was recently invited to join. Dr. Ellison said that he had no doubt that other bishops had been invited to frolic with the bunnies.
Lord Derwent (Motto: Never Unready) said that the gaming act has also encouraged protection rackets and "other unpleasantness."
Viscount Massereene (Motto: Through Difficulties to Honors)

agreed, thought Britain's 16,000 betting shops should be nationalized. "Then we would have at least one nationalized industry showing a profit," he remarked.
Lord Wade, a life peer, thought that gambling had a softening effect on the nation's moral fiber. He cited the $7,500,000 that had been staked on the general election in March, "much of it coming from the Stock Exchange to hedge against possible share losses following a Labor victory," he said.
Lord Fortescue (Motto: A Strong Shield is My Salvation), a Stock Exchange member for 40 years, arose to deny that reputable firms engage in this sort of hanky-panky.
The House of Lords contains at least one unabashed gambler. He is 45-year-old Lord Kilbracken (Motto: Without God Nothing.) who began his rake's progress as a 16-year-old schoolboy at Eton.
At this tender age Lord Kilbracken ran a book with over a hundred schoolboy clients, he admitted. "I am a compulsive gambler, but aware of the integrating effect gambling can have," he confessed. "That is the effect it has had on me. It can destroy all worth-while standards."

The likelihood is that Britain's Labor government will bring in a set of strict licensing controls for gambling casinos within the next few months. As the Guardian points out in a recent editorial, "it is not necessary to be a full-blown puritan to be worried by the present gambling mania."

Assure Coverage For 65s, Older On Lapsed Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — Private medical insurance policies "will undoubtedly be reinstated" for New York state residents who mistakenly let this coverage drop when Medicare went into effect July 1, says state Insurance Superintendent Henry Root Stern.

Involved in the reinstatement are persons 65 or older who failed to enroll in part B — the physician payment plan of Medicare. Part B is not automatic like part A, which provides hospital payments for most persons 65 or older. Part B costs the subscriber $3 a month, and the first enrollment period ended last spring.

Will Be Compensated

Stern said in an interview Tuesday night that those persons left uncovered will get coverage almost immediately.

Also, he said, anyone who let his private medical coverage lapse and later had medical expenses will be compensated.

A meeting between private health insurance groups and officials of the state Insurance Department was held here Tuesday at the direction of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

After the meeting, Rockefeller said in a statement that private insurance carriers had given "assurances that such individuals would receive full coverage retroactively to the date when their private insurance was first terminated."

Doubts Great Numbers

The governor said he was "very disturbed" by a published report in New York City that thousands of persons 65 or older had discovered that they no longer were covered by medical insurance. Stern said he does not believe there are so many in that position.

Last February, the state Insurance Department told health insurance carriers that they could terminate policies for those 65 or older, on the ground that medicare coverage would represent "duplication of services."

Blames Confusion

Rockefeller said in a telegram to Stern Tuesday that some older persons apparently lacked medical insurance "because of confusion." The governor directed Stern to take "whatever steps are necessary to assure continued coverage under private plans, until the next medicare enrollment period."

Soon after the telegram was received, representatives of New York City's three big group insurance plans met with Fioravante G. Perrotta, Stern's first deputy superintendent.

The groups are Blue Shield, which has about 300,000 subscribers 65 or over; Health Insurance Plan, which has 45,000, and General Health Insurance, which has a few.

Announcement that coverage would be reinstated came shortly after this meeting.

As a result of the meeting, the bills will be sent to the insurance carriers.

Resnick Charges PSC Derelict on Dutchess Phones

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today called the New York Public Service Commission "derelict" in its duty to protect the consumers of the State, and wrote a stern letter to the Chairman of the Commission, suggesting that a rebate was due telephone customers who had been discriminated against.

The letter followed a meeting in the Congressman's Kingston office between Resnick, Daniel McSweeney, division manager of the New York Telephone Company and John Leberer, Kingston district manager.

The following letter was sent Tuesday, Aug. 8, to James A. Lundy, chairman, Public Service Commission, Albany.

Dear Mr. Lundy:

For several months my office has been receiving complaints from New York Telephone Company customers living in the Beacon-Fishkill service area. Ordinarily, when citizen groups come to me, it is because they have exhausted all other sources of relief. In the meetings which my staff and I have had with these people, as well as with telephone company officials, and members of your staff, I have found that this is exactly the situation.

It is a disgrace to the State of New York that the Public Service Commission has ignored the predicament of these people for so many years. Your responsibility is primarily to the consumers of this state—and not to protect the New York Telephone Company or any other utilities.

By far the worst of the problems facing these people is the unfairness of the monthly cost of their telephones, and I find it incredible that the Public Service Commission could have permitted such discriminatory rates to exist for so long. Indeed, it is difficult to understand how these rates were permitted to be put into effect in the first place.

Quite simply, you have permitted the telephone company to charge persons living outside the basic rate area of Fishkill as much as $8 per month in order to call toll free, about 13,000 telephones, while permitting persons living as far from Poughkeepsie as Clinton, to call 35,000 telephones for just over $5. I would like to point out that the distance from Fishkill to Wappingers, for which an extra charge is made, is about 4 miles, but that the distance from Poughkeepsie to Clinton, for which no charge is made, is over 12 miles. This is unfair and perpetrates an unnecessary burden on the people of the Fishkill-Beacon telephone area.

I do not believe that anything less than an immediate rebate is in order—or $3 per month, retroactively from when this outrageous rate was instituted. I would hope your commission, in — The Rev. William H. Dubay, a militant Roman Catholic clergyman suspended from his duties, says he will continue his fight for reinstatement.

Priest Suspended

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)

At a news conference Tuesday, Father Dubay said his suspension has been affirmed by the chief administrative body of the Church.

James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Los Angeles archbishop, suspended Father Dubay last February, criticizing the priest for his outspoken views on racial matters.

Father Dubay asked the Pope in 1964 to remove Cardinal McIntyre, alleging the Cardinal had taken a weak stand on civil rights.

order to fulfill its responsibility to the telephone users of the state, would hold full hearings on this problem immediately. For, under no circumstances, can this rate be justified.

Premier Warms Up for Viet Nam Autumn Elections

By GEORGE McARTHUR
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Apparently reluctant no longer, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky is warming up to South Viet Nam's elections for a Constitutional Assembly, now only a month away.

With an air of increasing confidence, the 35-year-old military boss is playing a hard game of domestic politics. Even his critics agree the dapper air vice marshal is promoting the Sept. 11 elections now, although he only grudgingly accepted the idea last April, at the height of a Buddhist crisis.

Leaders Tout Regime

Ky recently placed his senior colleagues before the press for a comprehensive, rose-tinted state of the nation report — military, political and economic.

He followed up with speeches and public appearances. He has seen a stream of callers, foreign and Vietnamese. He has ordered the military governors of the nation's 43 provinces to call in local notables and explain what the elections are about. By all accounts, those meetings were well-attended, frequently in such neutral settings as schoolhouses.

Ky also summoned all province chiefs to Saigon for a three-day election conference, attended by other military and civilian leaders. Ky opened the meetings by pledging honest voting supervised by candidates, civil servants, students and military cadets.

Ky also permitted his former chief rival, Gen. Nguyen Chin Thi, to fly to the United States for an indefinite visit, despite an embarrassing six-month prison sentence Thi incurred for guessing wrong.

All this has given rise to some optimism about the elections

The optimism is most noticeable at the U.S. Embassy, which likes to dispatch good news to President Johnson.

On the other side of the ledger is the skeptical view of some officials, both Vietnamese and American, that the premier is engaged primarily in an astute maneuver to sugarcoat his military rule and retain power.

Ky's statement that he would not be a presidential candidate in any future election has not dispelled the idea he will be. While Ky remains air force commander, as he says he will, the aloof little man with the well-trimmed mustache will be a power in Saigon.

Some facts of Vietnamese life cloud the prospects for civilian rule. It is difficult to envision an anti-Communist government in South Viet Nam which would not be under profound military influence.

Despite the complications, military forces comprise the only nationwide political force of any effectiveness, with the possible exception of the minority Roman Catholics, Buddhists, Confucianists and other sects making up the majority are fragmented and have yet to produce either positive programs or appealing leadership. The labor movement is politically feeble. So-called independent politicians have not ignited any significant section of public opinion, even in cities where some have relatively large followings.

The elections are not designed to oust soldiers from government life, but rather to produce an anti-Communist assembly with the specific — and only — task of writing a constitution.

The assembly will have 117 seats. Nine will be filled by mountain tribesmen, four by border people of Cambodian extraction, and 104 will be elected by the rest of the population.

Apart from the Viet Cong, more than 700 candidates applied. The military screening

Gene Nelson Still Agile as Dancer, But Now Director

By HOWARD C. HEYN
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When

Gene Nelson was gravely injured in an equestrian accident nearly 10 years ago, a certain segment of his audience said — and not without sympathy — "Well, there goes another good dancer."

Gene himself wasn't sure he'd even take a step again. His pelvis, among other things, was fractured, and he feared one leg would be shorter than the other. Always an enthusiastic rider, Nelson was on location in Tennessee when a horse threw him, then fell on him. That was in 1957.

Danced Three Years Later

He did dance again, in 1960. He found a new career, as a director.

"It's an old wives' tale that dancers are short-lived professionally," he said. "Most of our famous film dancers are still agile today, and so am I. The real reason I danced sporadically after I recovered is simple: There just aren't enough musicals to keep dancers busy these days. You have to learn to do something else.

Shut up in a hospital, I learned to write scripts. The first few didn't get used, but they got me contacts in television. One of these asked me if I wanted to try my hand at directing. I jumped at the chance. You know what happened?"

Among a long list of shows Nelson directed was the first live TV presentation of "Matinee Theatre." He also appeared in many, sometimes as a dancer.

Must Learn Fast

"You have to learn fast because that's the way they do everything in television," he said. "A director must know script technique. "Dancing, too, was a natural advantage. When I was essentially a dancer I usually did my own choreography. That puts you into intimate relation to the camera and the director. A dancer's sense of timing also is a boon in directing."

Nelson began dancing at 12. At 15 he became a professional, in a Fanchon and Marco juvenile revue. Now 46, he is back at Warner Bros., where he did 10 films as a performer between 1948 and 1953. Most were musicals, and so is the one he is now directing, "The Cool Ones."

Sticky Situation

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)

—Janette Arnot, 14, is recovering from the year's stickiest accident. Janette was on her way to a convent when the school bus carrying her and 13 other children collided with a truckload of 2,500 gallons of glue. The collision burst the container and hundreds of gallons of glue poured into the back of the bus.

Great Depression, WPA Echoes in Roosevelt Jr. Bid

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — There were echoes of the great depression and President Franklin D. Roosevelt's old WPA in a state Democratic party platform plank recommended today by his son Franklin Jr.

The younger Roosevelt, in remarks prepared for delivery to the party platform hearings committee in the War Memorial Coliseum, suggested the Democrats commit themselves to a $3-billion "human resources bond issue" to revitalize cities and ghettos and to start a public works program for the jobless.

The gubernatorial hopeful said the bond issue could be used "to initiate a state public works program that would provide jobs to workers unable to find work in the regular job market."

In 1935, President Roosevelt began the Works Progress Administration — the virtually forgotten names of the WPA, which employed hundreds of thousands to build or improve highways, parks, post offices and other public buildings. Roosevelt suggested two other major state platform planks:

Find Body at Garage

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — Police found the body of Stuart Wakefield of Auburn at the entrance to a downtown garage Tuesday after, they said, several boys telephoned to report a man wandering in a daze.

Police reported Wakefield died of head injuries but had not determined how he suffered the injuries.

His address was listed as 135 State St.

— Abolishing surrogate's court and transferring its function to state supreme courts.

— Creating a New York state planning and development council to plan the state's future, with the emphasis on the "cost effectiveness" approach used by the federal government and large corporations.

Roosevelt told the committee, "The great overriding issue of this campaign, the great overriding issue of the coming decade is the tearing, deepening gap between the impoverished, blighted ghetto and the prosperous suburb, between the affluent Park Avenues and the devastated Harlems."

is "human resources bond issue," a plan similar to one advocated by another Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Howard J. Samuels, would be used to match but not replace federal anti-poverty and other funds.

Call Warrensburg Fire $150,000 Loss

WARRENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — A restaurant, an automobile sales room and three apartments were destroyed early today when fire leveled a building beside Route 9 in this community north of Lake George.

No one was reported injured. Marcus Bruce, owner of the building, estimated damage at $150,000. The building contained the Ox Bow Restaurant and Marks Auto Sales, plus the apartments, two of which were unoccupied.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Unwanted Roast Turkey

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The turkeys were stuffed but they weren't supposed to be roasted.

A fire recently caused $300 damage to an exhibit of eight stuffed wild turkeys on display at the Denver Museum of Natural History.

Negro Medical Leaders Support Demonstrations

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
CHICAGO (AP) — Negroes who carved out successful careers as medical leaders voiced support today of demonstrations and protests designed to create equal opportunities for Negroes.

The new president, the outgoing president and a past president of the National Medical Association said that direct action and confrontation must take place before changes occur. A Negro psychiatrist echoed their views.

The association, a 71-year-old predominantly Negro medical organization, is holding its annual convention in Chicago.

"The demonstrations must continue," Dr. John L. S. Holloman, New York City, new NMA president, said in an interview. "To advocate cessation would be an effort to sweep the problem under the rug.

Dr. W. Montague Cobb, professor of anatomy at Howard Medical School, Washington, D.C., and a past association president, qualified his endorsement.

He said that while it might be tactically sound to stage new demonstrations for specific objectives, he feels "the law of diminishing returns has set in" on repetitive actions such as the marches on Washington, D.C., and Selma, Ala.

He likened the civil rights campaign to a military operation, saying once a beachhead is obtained and auxiliary support arrives "a diversity of techniques" is required.

Need to Expand
"We need to expand our communication with the white community and no one can tell how that will come about," Cobb said.

Dr. Leonidas H. Berry, Chicago, outgoing president, called the violence that has arisen from some demonstrations "an ugly situation," but "I never heard of a struggle for freedom where there wasn't some kind of violence."

Dr. Alvin F. Poussaint, clinical instructor in psychiatry at Tufts University Medical School, Boston, said Negro marches on white neighborhoods are "serving a useful purpose" by calling attention "to the fact the Negro has no way of getting out of the ghetto unless he can obtain housing in other areas of the city."

In his inaugural address at the convention, Holloman said, "The Negro physician does not have the right to stand aloof from the struggle for human

Rescue Squad Starts County Fund Drive

With the slogan of "Help Us Help You" the Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid and Rescue Squad opened their 1966 house to house campaign on Sunday which continues until August 21. The squad solicits from the residents of the area covered by the squad.

Marilyn Robinson, fund-raising chairman for the squad, has announced the following district chairmen — Jean Wright, Rene Kellogg, Lee Previll, Joan Waruch, Ann Morgan, Wayne Kelder, Frances Wiseman, and Lucy Stoddard.

It has been estimated that a single hawk saves farmers about $110 annually in rodent damage.

Guidelines a Major Headache

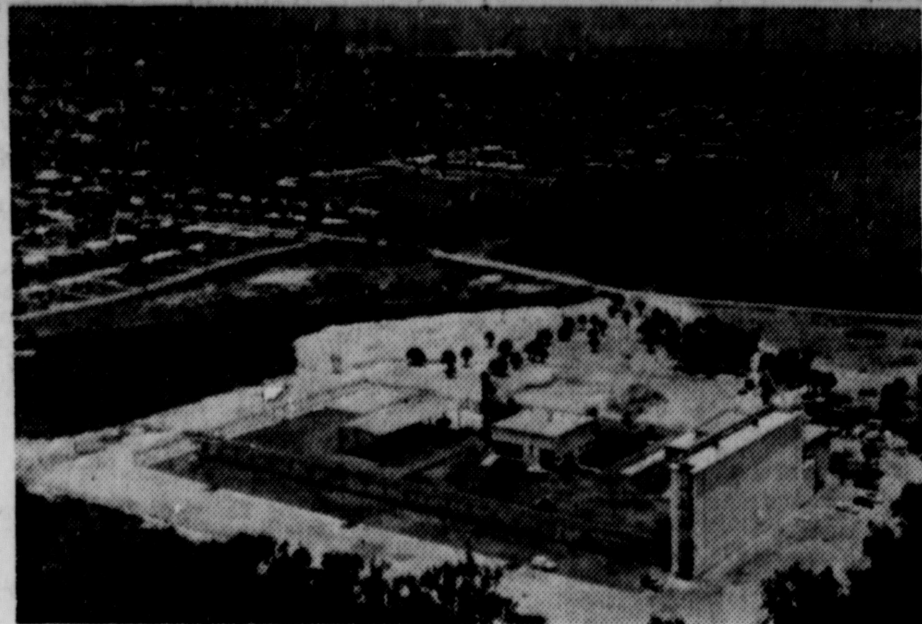

Find LBJ Sorely Puzzled At Relaxed News Meeting

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sorely puzzled. This is what came through his rather relaxed news conference Tuesday.
He would like to find something better than he has now for trying to keep prices and wages in line although what he has now has had holes kicked in it.
Meanwhile, having nothing better, he's holding on to what he has.
And what he has, and has had for years, is a so-called and now out-of-date guideline: A voluntary rule that wages should not go up more than 3.2 per cent — representing the annual increase in productivity. Under this formula, industry is expected to maintain relatively stable prices.
Trying to hold on to it means he hasn't had new ideas on it since the steel companies last week ignored his pleas and raised prices and the airline machinists rejected as not enough the wage agreement he approved. The strikers continued their walkout, now over a month old.

Johnson proudly told newsmen at his conference how the United States is better off than any other big country in fighting inflation, saying: "We have the best stabilization record of any industrial nation in the world."
But when a reporter reminded him that because of inflation per capita buying power in 1958 prices is actually down from $2.287 to $2.277, Johnson said he didn't know about those figures although he cited a raft of other figures to show how other nations had more inflation.
He admitted his 3.2 per cent guideline had been exceeded in some cases. And he admitted no effort will be made in all cases to keep annual wage increases to 3.2 per cent.

This can be interpreted as meaning wage and price increases will be all over the lot, that the 3.2 per cent guideline doesn't and won't mean much if anything, and that a new one will have to be found.
"We have nothing better to suggest at the moment," Johnson said.
It doesn't need a prophet to foresee that unions and businessmen are not going to sit still to accept the guideline when they see their neighbors being allowed to do better.
For instance, take the airlines dispute where Johnson approved the wage agreement which the airlines and the machinists' negotiators agreed to although the rank-and-file machinists turned it down.

This would have given the machinists an increase figured at 6 to 7 per cent with fringe benefits, which with Johnson's consent broke the very 3.2 per cent guideline he wanted others to accept.
And other businesses, after seeing the steel industry kick over the traces and even ignore the administration's plea to consult with it before boosting its prices last week, will hardly hold back from raising prices.
Johnson practically admitted a realization of this without saying so when he told the newsmen:
Every effort is being made to "find formulas and procedures that would be fair to the worker and management. We are constantly looking for something better."

A USEFUL PRODUCT FROM CITY REFUSE is turned out by this refuse reclamation plant going into operation at St. Petersburg, Fla. The $1.5 million plant, left, is equipped to remove marketable salvage such as tin cans, paper and rags from rubbish and process the remaining material into a soil conditioner sold for use on vegetable and flower gardens, lawns, house plants, shrubs and small trees. Right, an engineer inspects a bag of the clean, odor-free conditioner. The process does not use fires so avoids nuisances and health hazards from smoke, fumes and soot.

Poor Chance Best Taken

Oswald brings up a hand that Jim played with him recently as the subject of today's discussion.

He says: "West's jump to four hearts crowded me. I might have doubted him but instead, I took a chance and raised you to game. The game contract was reasonable. You had one loser in hearts and two apparent losers in clubs so if you could pick up the queen of diamonds your contract would be home. Will you describe how you made the hand in spite of the fact that the diamond queen could not be picked up?"

Jim: "East and West cooperated with me beautifully. East played the king of hearts under his partner's ace. This play was merely a strong request to partner to play another heart but for some reason or other West interpreted it as a suit preference signal for a diamond lead.

West shifted to the six of diamonds. I wasn't at all happy about this shift. Surely West would not be leading away from the queen so the diamond finesse was not going to work for me. I had to find another way to make my contract. I won with the king, drew trumps with three leads, played a low club and ducked in dummy. East won the trick and led the suit back. This time I took the trick and cashed the ace of diamonds. Then I threw East in with the queen of diamonds. Fortunately he had started with only two clubs so he was down to hearts and had to lead that suit. I ruffed in my hand and discarded dummy's last club."

Oswald: "You were lucky to catch East with only two clubs but once West shifted to diamonds at trick two you had taken the only line of play that could possible work for you. A poor chance is a lot better than no chance at all."

Recheck Invalidated
Conservative Petition

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice has ordered a recheck of an invalidated Conservative Party petition seeking a local referendum on the city's civilian-dominated police review board.

Justice Irving A. Saypol directed City Clerk Herman Katz Tuesday to go over 18,000 names he disqualified last week.

The names were stricken, Katz said, when it was determined the signatures did not coincide with addresses registered with the board of elections.

Saypol asked that Katz find if the discrepancies resulted from reapportionment and newly created assembly district lines.

Thirty thousand names are required to place a referendum on the ballot. Katz verified 22,151 on the Conservative petition.

Saypol is expected to rule on the disqualified names Friday.

NOW IT'S ANTIQUE TRACTORS that are becoming collectors' items. The fad is becoming a big thing in England, with enthusiasts organizing clubs and holding rallies such as the one at which this vintage steam model is being put through its smoky paces.

Urges Rocky to Remove 'Blatant Literature'

NEW YORK (AP) — State Democratic chairman John Burns today urged Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to order the removal of "blatant campaign literature" which, Burns said, was prepared for Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefowitz and is displayed in state office buildings.

Burns said the posters involved, showing a photo of Lefowitz and referring to his performance in office, involve "public expenditures for partisan political purposes."

He said the posters were displayed from elevators and other vantage points in the state office building and were "an affront to the public."

Leftover cooked elbow macaroni may be used in a salad. Add mayonnaise, chopped onion and pickle.

Stefanie to Play Title Role in His-Her Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stefanie Powers her long hair dripping, clothes wringing wet and bound with ropes thick enough to dock the Queen Mary, sat uncomfortably in a large, air conditioned cave on the MGM lot Tuesday while, repeatedly, a heinous THRUSH villain set a time bomb designed to destroy her.

In the nick of time—"Hurry, seconds to spare!"—in bounded a goldenhaired fellow attired in something like a Boy Scout uniform. He shot off the rope that bound her (sound to be added later) and the pair scurried off to safety.

And that, friends of television's good guys, is the way it is these days in NBC's new "Girl from U.N.C.L.E.," which with the original "Man from U.N.C.L.E." will constitute TV's first his-her programs.

Is Intrepid Agent

Miss Powers, under ordinary circumstances a pretty young thing, plays the title role, an intrepid agent named April Dancer. Her companion in adventure is Noel Harrison, Rex's son, who was plucked from a nightclub singing career to play brave Mark Slate. His principal assignment seems to be rescuing April from horrendous plights.

Around the studio, there seems to be an opinion that "Girl from U.N.C.L.E." is played a little more broadly if possible than the masculine original, but they are in effect twin shows — same creators, same writers and occasionally the stars of one series will turn up in the other.

Success of David McCallum in the series appears to have dictated the choice of Harrison as co-star in the new show. He, like McCallum, is slight and boyish looking but, where David assumes his Russian accent, Harrison is permitted to speak with his normal British accent.

Where David's shining blond hair and bangs have gradually become more sleek and tidy, Noel's are on the shaggy side.

After Harrison finished rescuing Miss Powers to the satisfaction of the director, he discarded his revolver and took an hour lunch at the studio commissary. "I really don't know how the series is going," he said, "because I think it is difficult for anyone really to know when one is so closely involved, don't you?"

'Really Sort of Fun'

"But it really is sort of fun — doing something like this that nobody really believes is true. Good heavens, it doesn't even fool the smallest children — my youngest, at 15 months, was able to say 'Batman' before almost anything else."

Harrison's theory about the way-out action of the U.N.C.L.E. twins is that they are, like westerns, morality plays in which virtue predictably triumphs at the end of each story line.

Noel, child of one of Harrison's earlier marriages, has naturally become bored answering persistent questions about his famous father. He didn't know his parent well in his growing-up years. He now accepts him, if not as a buddy, at least as a friend.

With his own career moving toward high gear, this singer-turned actor has matured to a point where he doesn't even resent being referred to as "Rex Harrison's son."

He has been happily married for eight years to a non-professional, has three children and has been making his own way in the singing world for the past 12 years.

Widziewicz Hearing Is Set for Thursday

Accused of stealing a 1962 station wagon from the scene of a murder in Poughkeepsie, Alfred F. Widziewicz, 20, of Naugatuck, Conn., is slated for hearing Thursday before City Judge Joseph H. Gellert.

The vehicle belonged to Lester Boyster, and his 22-year-old wife, Sandra, of 60 Washington Street, Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Boyster was found murdered by strangulation in her apartment on Aug. 6, when her husband returned from his Navy base at Newport, R. I.

Any consideration of a homicide charge being lodged against the Connecticut youth is being withheld pending a complete inquiry into the circumstances of the woman's death.

Widziewicz was taken into custody after the Boyster station wagon was found abandoned in Watertown, Conn. Police officials said the ac-

Crash Kills Five, Four Members of Pennsy Family

REMSEN, N.Y. (AP) — Five persons, four of them members of one family, were killed and two others were injured critically Tuesday in a two-car crash near this central New York community.

Dead are: Doyle Derr, 26; his wife, Katherine, 29; their daughter, Rhonda, 6, and son, Paul, 3, of Berwick, Pa., in one car, and Mrs. Fiorina Nucci, 52, of Syracuse in the other.

In critical condition at Fax-

ton Hospital, Utica, were Patrick C. Nucci, 54, and the Nucci son, Patrick Jr., 14. State Police said the Derr car was headed south on Route 12, about a mile south of Remsen, when Derr apparently lost control. The auto went into a skid, jumped the center mall of the four-lane highway and struck the Nucci automobile.

Troopers reported that Dr. Albert Redmond, Onondaga County coroner, ironically was driving about a car length behind the Derr car, just before the accident.

Hospital authorities said the senior Nucci suffered injuries to his face, chest and right shoulder and the youth suffered a fractured skull.

Pa. Solons Revers

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania general assembly began a month-long recess today after passing the bulk of Gov. Scranton's $1.5 billion budget, Tuesday.

Both chambers, acting on the heels of a bipartisan agreement reached last week, unanimously approved a $1.3 billion general appropriations bill to finance 90 per cent of state spending in the fiscal year which began July 1.

another $11.3 million in non-preferred appropriations to the governor, including funds for the three state-related universities: $39.2 million for Penn State $20.1 million for Temple, and $19.7 million for Pitt.

Use as little liquid as possible when you are braising chicken or meat. How much liquid you will have to add during the braising process will depend on how tightly the cover fits the cooking utensil.

August Bride-to-Be Honored at Shower

A surprise bridal shower was given recently by Miss Sue Horsey at her home in Woodstock for Miss Dorthea Tracey, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Snyder, Bearsville. Miss Tracey and Peter Cotich of West Camp will be married on Aug. 27.

Guests at the variety shower included the Misses Frances Demoney, Binghamton, Pat Cocks, Long Island, Diane Smith, New Paltz, Sandra Johnson, West Hurley, and the Misses Joseph Holdridge, Jr., Peter Koehn, Monroe Longendyke, Paul Osterlander, Kenneth Snyder, Joseph Steiner, and Thomas Horsey Jr., all of Woodstock.

Included in the out-of-town friends and relatives invited but unable to attend were the Misses Richard Arlington, Robert Hastie, David Knapp, Charles Mang, William Mang, Sr., William Mang, Jr., William Mergendahl, Charles Sheets, George Strietmatter, and Miss Barbara Hastie.

MRS. DENNIS J. KLINE (Lakeside photo)

Miss Barbara J. Kain Exchanges Vows With Dennis J. Kline Sunday, Aug. 7

Vows of marriage were exchanged Sunday, Aug. 7 between Miss Barbara Jean Kain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Kain of 160 Foxhall Avenue and Dennis Joseph Kline of 154 Foxhall Avenue, son of Mrs. Christina Kline of Albany Avenue Extension and the late Sidney Kline.

The Rev. John T. Mulligan, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church officiated at the double ring ceremony, which took place 2 p. m. Organist was James Sweeney and Richard Scherer was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white silk organza over taffeta. Bodice had circle neckline trimmed with appliques of lace rosettes and capucini sleeves edged with the same lace. An A-line skirt fell from the empire waistline which was trimmed with seed pearls. A Watteau train of tulle and lace was attached to the shoulder. Her headpiece was an organza cap cluster of roses with seed pearls attached to a full fingertip illusion veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white gladiolus and baby's breath tied with a white satin ribbon.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Joan Oster of Detroit, Mich. She wore a full length gown of chiffon. Bodice had a scoop neckline and cap sleeves. An A-line skirt had a coat effect and was attached to an empire waist. Headpiece was a leaf cap with circle veil in deep pink. She carried a cascade of pink carnations and pink California marguerites tied with pink satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Miles, Kingston, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Alma Wigington, Philadelphia, Pa. and Miss Joanne Koepfen of Kingston. Their gowns were identical to that of the honor attendant and they carried cascades of pink carnations and assorted colored California marguerites tied with pink satin ribbons.

Flower girl was Miss Tracy Lee Oster, the bride's niece. Her gown was identical to those of the attendants. She carried a white princess basket of assorted California marguerites and pink carnations.

Best man was Ronald J. Kline of Lucas Avenue Extension, the bridegroom's brother. Ushers were Lawrence Kain, the bride's cousin, of Kingston; John Napoleon, Kingston and Jerry Oster, the bride's brother-in-law of Detroit.

A reception for 100 guests was held at the Capri 400 in Port Ewen, after which the couple left for a tour of the Western states. They plan to live in Kingston.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Kingston High School and is employed at Metropolitan Life Insurance Company Hall of Records.

Mr. Kline is a Kingston High School graduate and is employed as a mechanic in Kingston. He is also a member of the U. S. Army Reserve Corps.

Fall Freshmen Are At Albany Conclave

Three Ulster County residents will be attending the annual summer planning conference at the State University of New York at Albany Aug. 10 through 12 prior to beginning freshman studies there in the fall.

They are Ed E. Basch of 45 Green Street, this city; Marie A. Michel of RD 1, Box 300, New Paltz and Linda M. Wilkie of 220 Lindorf Street, Port Ewen.

The conferences scheduled during the summer are designed to assist freshmen in planning academic programs, introduce them to campus life and residence living and complete registration procedures.

MRS. THOMAS DAVID FINNEGAN (Powell of Scranton photo)

Miss Sara Jane Bracken of Keesville and Thomas David Finnegan of Poughkeepsie exchanged nuptial vows Saturday, Aug. 6 at Immaculate Conception Church, Keesville.

Yellow gladioli and daisies decorated the church for the 11 a. m. ceremony. The Rev. John Wiley of Immaculate Conception Church officiated.

Miss Bracken, a former teacher at Kingston High School, is the daughter of Harold Bracken of Keesville and the late Mrs.

Bracken. Mr. Finnegan is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Finnegan of Carbondale, Pa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau de soie gown fashioned with a round neckline, Kabuki sleeves and empire bodice trimmed with appliques of lace and seed pearls. Her chapel length train was edged with lace and she carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis. Her three tiered veil of silk illusion was secured by a triple crown of lace and pearls.

Miss Mary Wojcik of Highland Falls maid of honor, wore a turquoise gown with Venician lace empire bodice and floor length crepe skirt. She carried a cascade of daisies and wore a matching band of daisies in her hair.

Mrs. Robert Shannon of Rockville, Md., sister of the bridegroom was matron of honor with Mrs. Ernest Bedard of Harkness and Miss Susan Finnegan, of Washington, D. C., cousin of the bridegroom as other bridal attendants. They wore matching gowns in turquoise and aqua with bands of daisies in their hair and cascades of daisies as their bouquets.

Robert Finnegan of America was best man for his brother. Ushers were Robert Shannon of Rockville, Md., James Bracken of Keesville, brother of the bride and Dennis Finnegan of Rockville, Md., brother of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held at the Elks Club in Keesville.

The couple will reside at Manchester Gardens, Poughkeepsie, after a wedding trip to the Poconos.

The former Miss Bracken is a graduate from Keesville High School and the College of St. Rose, Albany. She has accepted a position as mathematics teacher in the Arlington School System.

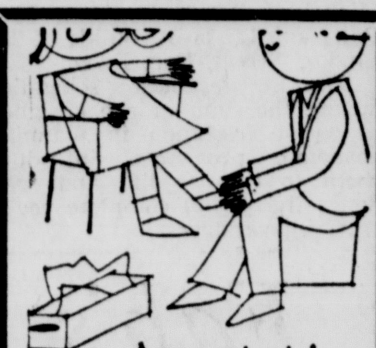

Mr. Finnegan, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame, is employed at IBM, Poughkeepsie. He was formerly at the Kingston plant.

On Dean's List

Harold Lesser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lesser of Kerhonkson, has been named to the Dean's List for superior academic performance during the past semester at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, it was announced by Ira E. Harrod, dean of students.

Of a total of 3,230 undergraduate students at Rensselaer, 920 earned Dean's List recognition, and 51 achieved perfect 4.0 (A) averages, the highest possible average.

To attain the Dean's List, a student must average 3.0 (B) grades or better for all his courses during the semester.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
SUCCESS OF WEEKEND PARTY UP TO GUEST AS WELL AS HOST

The house party season is in full swing and there are rules that everyone should know. Today's quiz will check you on how delightful a guest you can be. Next week the host and hostess will have their turn. Decide whether the statements are true or false and check the answers below.

1. Weekend guests should take, or send, a gift to their hostesses. True — False —
2. If there is a maid in the home, the house guest gives her a tip when leaving. True — False —
3. If a house guest awakens early, he must stay in his room until he hears the others rising. True — False —

INDIANS INVITE SPANISH CORPS — Seniors and Senoritas . . . introducing the New York Kingsmen . . . "Los Hombres del Rey" is how the Troop 12 BSA Indians announce. Tony Bell will introduce one of the newest and most exciting corps this Saturday night at the 2nd Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions, which will be held at Dietz Stadium starting at 8 p. m. This international drum and bugle corps pageant, which will also have five other outstanding corps competing for the $3,850 in prizes, with first prize being $1,000 and the Pow Wow Championship flag, promises to be the most thrilling marching and maneuvering contest in the East. The Kingsmen, completely reorganized in October 1965, features the magnificent music of Mexico, the natural pulsating percussion of our Latin friends and the dazzling drill of a dramatic precision unit. Adding to the splendor of this already brilliant Corps is the Marching Senorita Color Guard. All appearing in magnificent uniforms of Mexican styling, the Kingsmen have this year competed in contests at Wilmington, Del.; Baltimore, Md.; Lancaster, Pa.; and Vestal, taking first place at each of these shows. Before the season is over, they will have appeared in over 30 contests. The Kingsmen are sponsored by Local 32E of the Building Service Employees Union, the J. F. Kennedy Legion Post and the Carola Barber VFW Post, all of New York City. Tickets for this most colorful and exciting drum corps contest are now available at the Joyce-Schrick Post, VFW at 552 Delaware Avenue, at Nekos Pharmacy on Wall Street, at Rossi's Music Store or Shapiro's on North Front Street from Otto Swadlow in West Hurley, or at the Poughkeepsie Music Shop, 17 Academy Street, Poughkeepsie.

Turnau Schedules Special Showing of 'Barber' for Tots

The Turnau Opera Players are holding a special performance of the comic opera THE BARBER OF SEVILLE for children Friday, August 12. The performance will be at the George Washington School in Kingston. Curtain time is 2 p. m. The opera will be in English.

On Sunday, Aug. 28, Huguette VanAckere at the piano, Alice Smiley, violin and Luis Garcia-Renart, cello, will perform at the Sunday afternoon concert in the Storm King Art Center, Mountainville. This will be the last in the series of four concerts by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society, Inc.

Mrs. VanAckere is a native of Belgium and a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Brussels. In 1946 she won the Premier Prix de Piano and in 1947 the Diplome Supérieur in Chamber Music, magna cum laude.

Under a scholarship from the Italian government she spent a year studying under Guido Agosti of St. Cecilia's Academy in Rome. Mrs. VanAckere came to the United States with her husband in 1954. For several years she taught piano at Wilton College in Chambersburg, Pa. During that time she appeared as soloist with orchestras in many recitals, as well as Chamber Music Concerts. She has appeared during recent years in Philharmonic chamber music concerts held at Vassar College and at Innesfree Garden and Bennett College. She has made solo appearances in Brussels, Rome, Paris, Amsterdam, The Hague, Geneva, Lausanne, London and Prague, and participated in the Bartok International Contest for modern music in Budapest and in the International Contest in Geneva.

Kingston Downs Hastings, 5-1 to Advance to State Finals

Bach Gets Decision, Schatzel, VanEtten Pace Hitting Attack

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Backing up Brian Bach's usual brilliant pitching with an 11-hit attack and a snappy defense, Kingston Post 150 vaulted to the finals of the State American Legion tournament with a convincing, 5-1, win over Farragut Post of Hastings Tuesday at the Hudson River State Hospital diamond in Poughkeepsie.

The locals will oppose Adrean Post 625 of Utica on Saturday, 2 p. m., at Doubleday Field in Cooperstown with the state championship on the line. The Utica entry disposed of Adam Flewacki Post 799 of Buffalo, 9-1, yesterday at Geneva.

Had Five Shutouts

In beating Hastings, Kingston became the first team in five tournament games to score off the Westchester County champions. The locals did it with some muscle, getting 11 hits and putting the contest out of reach early.

After a scoreless opening inning, the local Legion went to work on loser Bob Wolff (son of the famous TV commentator) in the second. Jack Schatzel, who along with Gary VanEtten shared offensive heroics, beat out an infield single. Bach followed with a base knock, putting two on with nobody out.

After Bach was picked off first, VanEtten caught a curve and slammed it up the middle for the first run.

Triple for Schatzel

Wolff retired the first two batters in the third and then was hit hard. Pete Watzka singled and John Eccleston followed with another single. Schatzel promptly delivered both runners with a booming triple to deep left. The ball carried about 350 feet.

VanEtten, who had a perfect

3 for 3 afternoon, tripled to lead off the fourth frame. Gary tallied as Charlie Moore singled over second. This made it a 4-0 game and Bach doesn't lose games with leads like that.

The ace righty made a bad pitch in the fifth and left fielder Pat Burke blasted it over the rocks in deep right center for a homer.

Kingston got that run back in the sixth off relief chucker Tom Murray. VanEtten singled, swiped second and scored as Jack Watzka rapped out a base knock.

6th Inning Jam

Bach was in trouble in the sixth and manager Tom Maines had Frank McGowan heating up. Brian escaped without a run and he had little trouble in the seventh.

Though he had only eight strikeouts Bach kept the opposing batters hitting the ball on the ground. The Kingston infield turned in some good plays with shortstop Mike Derenbacher making two key stops on balls hit up the middle.

52,270 Watch Game

About 40,000 of the record Atlanta crowd of 52,270 sat out the long rain delay and stayed until the game was over.

Don Clendenon doubled in one run and scored the other on pitcher Woody Fryman's single as the Pirates edged the Mets.

Pittsburgh scored both its runs in the fourth with Clendenon's double driving in Jose Pagan and Fryman delivering after Bill Mazeroski was intentionally walked.

The Mets knocked Fryman out, scoring their run on two hits and a walk in the seventh. But Pete Mikkelsen pitched hitless relief the rest of the way and preserved the rookie's ninth victory.

Vada Pinson singled home relief pitcher Sammy Ellis with the winning run in the seventh inning for the Reds against the Giants. Pinson, who had raced

Jamestown Defeats Binghamton Team, 4-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two fellows named Johnson provided Jamestown with the needed punch Tuesday night to edge visiting Binghamton, 4-3, in the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League.

With the score tied, 3-3, in the ninth, Butch Johnson tripled and Ted Johnson singled him home with the winning run.

Jamestown launched a 10-hit attack in which everyone in the lineup, except pitcher John Duffie, hit.

Braves Decision Koufax, 2-1

Hitchcock Makes Successful Debut As Atlanta Boss

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

That little ulcer most managers pamper probably has a running start on Billy Hitchcock after his first game as skipper of the Atlanta Braves.

Hitchcock, who replaced Bobby Bragan as manager of the Braves Tuesday, piloted the club to a 2-1 victory over Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

And it only took four hours, 24 minutes to do the job.

Ed Mathews ripped a homer in the ninth, ending the marathon which was delayed for two hours, five minutes by rain in the fourth inning.

Denny Lemaster, who finished with a three-hitter, held the Dodgers hitless for seven innings, protecting a 1-0 lead provided by Felipe Alou's leadoff homer in the first.

Homer Ties Score

After the rain, Hitchcock watched his outfielders trot through puddles catching fly balls to preserve the no-hit bid. Then, in the eighth inning, Jim Lefebvre ended the spell with a leadoff homer, tying the score.

The Braves had a golden opportunity to take the lead in the bottom of the eighth but instead of the tie-breaking run, all Hitchcock got was aggravation.

After Mack Jones was tossed out of the game for protesting a called strike, pinch hitter Mike de la Hoz drew a walk. Ty Cline ran for de la Hoz and moved to second on Denis Menke's sacrifice. Woody Woodward's second hit of the game, tipped off Maury Wills' glove, Cline going to third.

Then catcher John Roseboro caught Cline leaning the wrong way and poked the pinch runner off third. Lemaster struck out, ending the inning.

There was one out in the ninth when Mathews lined his eighth homer into the right field seats, ending the game.

Elsewhere in the National League, first place Pittsburgh shaded the New York Mets 2-1. Cincinnati edged San Francisco 2-1. St. Louis downed Philadelphia 3-2 and Houston ripped Chicago 8-5.

home from first on Willie Mays' error in the first inning, delivered against Bob Bolin after Ellis singled and Tommy Harper walked.

The loss dropped the Giants a full game back of the Pirates. Larry Jaster allowed just two infield singles over the first eight innings against the Phillies but needed help from Nelson Briles to nail down St. Louis' victory.

Johnny Briggs' leadoff homer in the ninth spoiled Jaster's shutout bid and then singles by Cookie Rojas and Johnny Callison brought Briles in. He got Richie Allen on a double play bounce and then struck out Tony Taylor, ending it.

Ron Davis' double climaxed a five-run Houston ninth that gave the Astros their victory over the Cubs. John Bateman had two homers for Houston and Randy Hundley whacked a pair for Chicago.

Namath Picks Jets to Win 1st AFL Crown

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Jets can win it all in the American Football League this year.

Who says so? Joe Namath, the Jets' $400,000 quarterback, that's who.

Namath, the AFL's rookie of the year, led the Jets to five victories in their last eight games in 1965, a late rush that gained the Jets second place to Buffalo in the Eastern Division, with a 5-1 record.

Playing in 13 games in his first pro season, the former Alabama star completed 164 of 340 passes for 2,220 yards and 18 touchdowns. If Namath improves in his second year, the Jets figure to be in contention all the way.

Namath, a native of Beaver Falls, Pa., made his views known Tuesday as the Jets prepared for their first exhibition game Saturday night at Birmingham, Ala., against the Houston Oilers.

"We have a shot at the whole deal," Namath said. "The defense looks a lot better and the offense is smarter. The flankers and the quarterbacks are working together better."

Houston opened its exhibition season last week with a 26-17 victory over Oakland, and coach Wally Lemm has Don Trull, George Blanda and Jack Lee ready to shoot at the Jets in 1-2-3 order at quarterback.

Mrs. Harris Women's Champ Has 162 Gross To Pace Field In Annual Play

Mrs. William (Chris) Harris of Twaalfskill is the Ulster County Women's Golf champion. She carded an 80 Tuesday at the Shawangunk Club in Ellenville. Paired with the 82 she scored last week at Twaalfskill, Mrs. Harris finished with a 162 score to finish 13 strokes ahead of Mrs. Richard Davenport of Wiltwyck. She had 87-87-174.

Mrs. Arthur Motzkin of Wiltwyck won low net honors with 93-82-36-139. Mrs. Lloyd LeFever of Wiltwyck was second in the net division with 200-56-1444. Other net scores: Mrs. Dennis Raymond, Shawangunk, 199-54-145; Mrs. William Kuehn, Twaalfskill, 210-64-146; Mrs. Robert Cullum, Wiltwyck, 175-28-147; Mrs. Alvin Motzkin, Wiltwyck, 209-62-147; Mrs. George Barthel, Shawangunk, 222-72-150; Mrs. Alex Sharpe, Jr., Woodstock, 196-46-150; Mrs. Gerald Gruber, Wiltwyck, 197-46-151; Mrs. John Purvis, Twaalfskill, 207-56-151; Mrs. Richard Stewart, Wiltwyck, 183-32-151; Mrs. Harry Kennedy, Woodstock, 210-58-152; Mrs. Howard Terwilliger, Wiltwyck, 197-44-153; Mrs. Harry Reiger, Shawangunk, 207-54-153; Mrs. Edward Minisian, Twaalfskill, 196-42-154; Mrs. Clifford Spiesman, Wiltwyck, 185-30-155; Mrs. Benjamin Lonstein, Shawangunk, 219-64-155.

Those failing to make the prize list included Mrs. George Rifenburg, Wiltwyck, 156; Mrs. Donald Sprague, Shawangunk, 156; Mrs. James Andretta, Twaalfskill, 156; Mrs. Eugene Abramsky, Wiltwyck, 157; Mrs. Prescott Newell, Wiltwyck, 157.

Friday Night

Tab Bret Hanover 3-5 To Win Yonkers Race

Bret Hanover was named the 3-5 odds-on favorite in his battle with New Zealand arch-rival Cardigan Bay and three other free-for-all pacing stars in this Friday's August 12, $35,000 Mayor's Cup Pace at Yonkers Raceway.

Bret drew the 2 post position and Cardigan Bay the outside 5 slot in the mile classic, Cardigan Bay was tabbed at 6-5 by the odds maker. The other three starters are Tactile (No. 1), Nelson Guy (No. 3) and Timely Knight (No. 4).

Yonkers Raceway received permission from the New York State Harness Racing Commission to conduct wet betting only on the race. In addition, the commission granted Yonkers the right to hold 10 races Friday instead of the usual nine. The Twin Double race will be the seventh, eighth, ninth and 10th.

Has 55 Wins
Bret Hanover will carry a matchless record of 55 wins and 4 seconds in 59 career races into the Mayor's Cup Pace. The 4-year-old speedster has earned $808,852 lifetime and ranks second to retired trotter Su Mac Lad ($885,095) on the all-time money list in harness racing.

Bret has made 10 starts this year and won nine times. His season's bankroll stands at $252,770. On five separate occasions this year Bret has been clocked in under 2 minutes. Overall, he boasts 23 sub-2-minute winning miles. The all-time record is 30, held by the immortal Dan Patch. In his last start at Brandywine Raceway, Bret covered the mile in 1:59 4/5 in a $25,000 feature. In the race before that, July 28, he captured the $100,000 Empire Pace at Yonkers in 2:33

Mrs. Arnold Broggi beat Mrs. Gifford Marcy, 6 and 5.

Wiltwyck Plans Babe Zaharias Golf Tourney

Wiltwyck Country Club will conduct its annual Babe Zaharias Memorial Golf tournament from Aug. 10-14. An 18-hole medal play will be conducted for the men and the women will play 36 holes.

The winner of the women's division will earn a niche on the Sylvia Voss Memorial Plaque given in memory of one of the foremost golfers in the county for many years. Mrs. Voss was the only honorary member of Wiltwyck during the early years. An entry fee is charged to all those competing and all proceeds will be given to the local chapter of the American Cancer Society. Awards earned will be presented at the club's annual trophy dinner.

Collegiate Feature

Wiltwyck School Nips Forsyth Park, 72-70

Unbeaten Wiltwyck School had to battle from start to finish before finally nipping the youthful Forsyth Park quintet, 72-70, in a Rec. Collegiate Basketball League game last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

In other contests, Block beat Children's Home, 72-64; Beach nipped Cornell, 55-54; and Hub Delicatessen stopped George Washington, 72-64.
Sam Brown's 27 points led Wiltwyck but the winners had to overcome a solid performance by the Forsyth five, which missed two shots in the closing eight seconds in an attempt to knot the score.

Andy Murphy led the losers with 24 points. Bruce Gilligan added 18 and Ken Gilligan 14. Leon Hanna and Ray Lindhorst did good work on the backboards.

Block led by slim margins at the quarter stops against Children's home. Ronnie Thomas potted 2, Dan Heppner 16 and Mike Canning 13 for the winning side.

Rod Chando and Rod Aurigemma combined for 37 points to lead Beach. Ronnie Lindsay's 21 markers paced Cornell, which lost it in the final session.

Joe Uhl had 26 points and Bill Fitzgerald added 19 for Hub Delicatessen. Frank Passante's 20 were high for George Washington. This one was close all the way.

Tonight's slate has JCC playing Hutton at 7, Loughran meeting Hasbrouck at 8 and Art's opposing Lake Katrine at 9.

LEGAL NOTICES
STATE OF NEW YORK
SUPREME COURT
JULIUS A. ZIEGLER, Plaintiff, vs.
ELIZABETH MAE EVERITT, Defendant.

SUMMONS AND NOTICE
To the above named defendant:
You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer or if a complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of appearance on the plaintiff's attorneys within thirty days of the date of the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to answer or appear, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated: The 9th day of August, 1966.
To the Defendant, JORGE MONTALVO.
The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Honorable William Edmund Sullivan, Justice of the Court of the State of New York, signed the 8th day of August, 1966, and filed for record in the County of Sullivan on the 9th day of August, 1966 with the complaint in the office of the County Clerk of Sullivan County, New York, in the Village of Monticello, County of Sullivan, State of New York, in the case of JORGE MONTALVO vs. ELIZABETH MAE EVERITT, to annul the marriage between the parties hereto.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Sealed bids for Furnishing and Erecting Corrugated Steel Beam Type Guard Rail and Miscellaneous Work on the Southern Western Connection and Hudson Section of the New York State Thruway, will be received by the New York State Thruway Authority at the office of the Executive Director at the Thruway Headquarters Building, Delaware Plaza, Elmsford, New York (P.O. Box 189, Albany, New York 12201) until 100 a. m., Wednesday, August 17, 1966, and then opened publicly and read aloud. Bids must be submitted on the Proposal supplied by the New York State Thruway Authority and the envelope marked on the face thereof to identify the work for which it is submitted. The bid spaces in the Proposal must be filled in, and no change shall be made in the Proposal of the Proposal. Proposals that contain any conditions, alterations or additions may be rejected as informal. Each Proposal must be accompanied by a certified check payable at sight to the New York State Thruway Authority, in the amount of at least 5% of the gross sum bid. If mailed, the envelope shall be addressed to the said Executive Director at the post office number above mentioned. Copies of the Proposal and accompanying drawings may be examined free of charge and may be obtained at the office of the Executive Director for a fee of $10.00 for each set, no part of which will be refunded.

Pros Seek Stronger Voice, Threaten to Break With PGA

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) - Tournament professionals are on the verge of a break with the Professional Golfers Association.

Cooler heads on both sides of the long-simmering controversy are attempting to head off a complete split, but they are running into problems.

This was indicated by the failure to reach a solid agreement in an all-day session of the PGA tournament committee Tuesday at the Upper Merion Country Club here, where the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic opens Thursday.

The seven-man committee kicked around old problems, listened to gripes from disgruntled players and came up empty-handed.

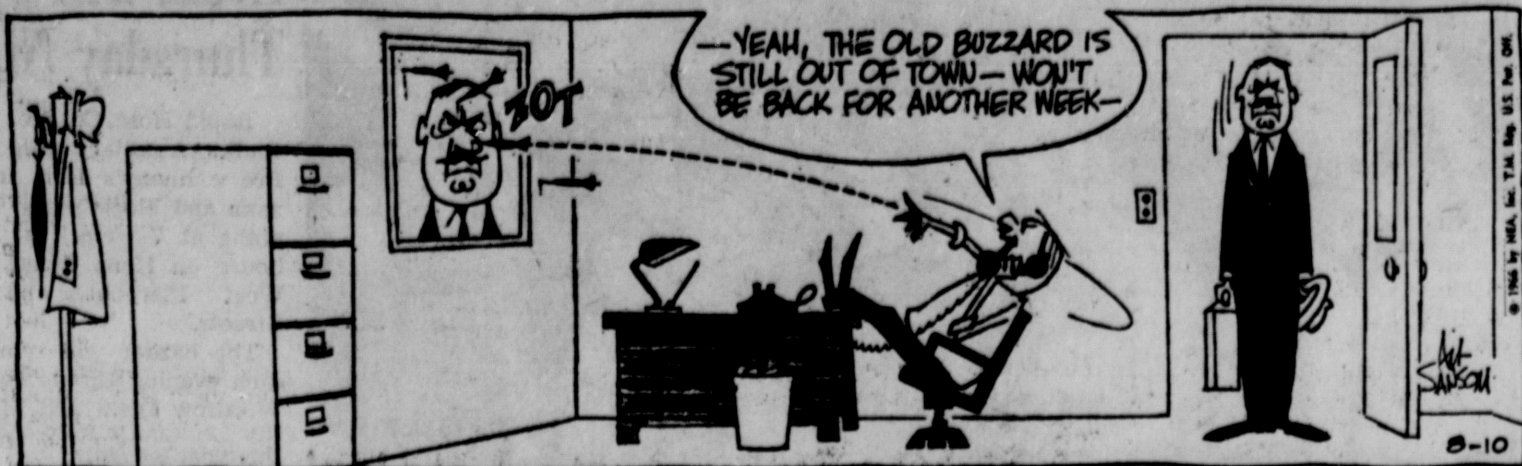

"We have nothing to report," said Max Elbin, president of the PGA.

Hank—Have a cigar?
Frank—No thanks — sworn off smoking.
Hank—Well, put one in your pocket for tomorrow.

We know the fellow who gave his wife a $1,000 check for Christmas. Attached was a note saying, "If business is good, I'll sign it."

Harry—When I arrived at my girl's house last night, I found someone else had beaten me to the sofa.

Larry—Your heated rival?
Harry—No, the installment collector.

The girl who is knitting a sock for a fellow has in mind that he may put his foot in it.

You can't witness a hanging without your own throat tightening up.

Grace—I told you you might kiss my hand, but you kissed my lips too! How dare you?

George—Oh, a hand-to-mouth existence is good enough for me!

Jack—A certain girl is growing on me.

Mac—What's so awful about that?

Jack—I'm her reducing specialist!

Ben—What's that piece of cord tied around your finger for?

Tim—My wife put it there to remind me to post a letter.

Ben—And did you post it?

Why We Say--

JALOPY

FROM MEXICO: The expression jalopy for an automobile started in the 1920's. Because of a shortage of autos in Mexico, many were shipped to Jalapa, Mexico, for resale, thus the corrupted term "jalopy" arose for an old automobile.

Prosperity is something that business men create and Washington takes the credit for.

Like white shoe blackening, there's now a tray that makes round ice "cubes."

Dandelion: Another thing which, if given an inch, will take a yard.

Gossamer: The nearest thing to nothing—and better in black.

Tim—No; she forgot to give it to me.

First Stude — Being broke makes me writhe!

Second Stude — Don't writhe, telegraph!

CARNIVAL

By DICK TURNER

"It's going to be a shock—coming out of an air-conditioned theater and going into a home Mom told us to be back to an hour ago!"

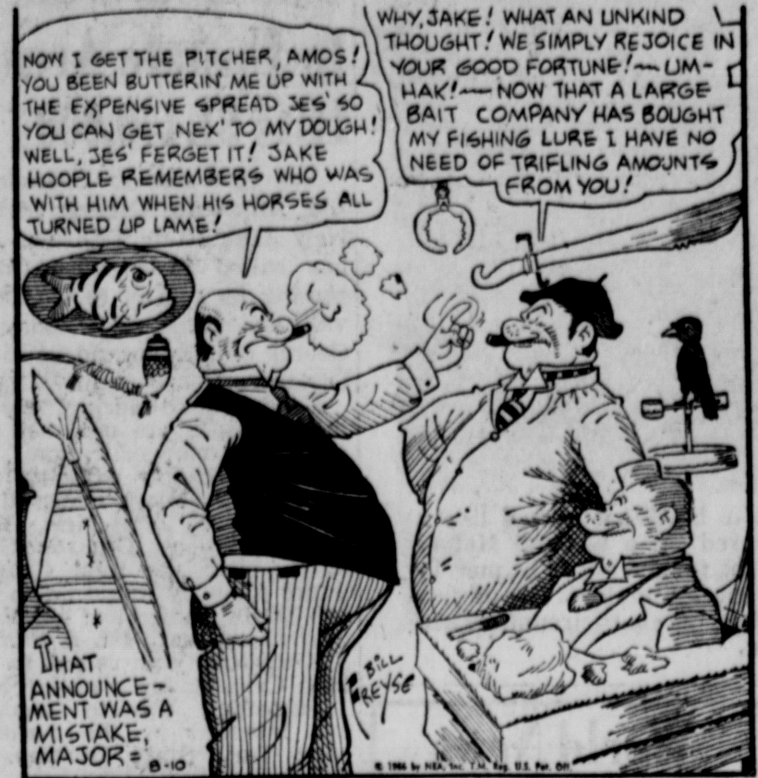

Quick Quiz

Q—What is the shape of the orbits of a pair of stars?
A—The shape of the orbit of any celestial body is an ellipse.

Q—What is the chief prayer of the Mohammedans?
A—The Namez, which is recited five times daily.

SOME ROCK this turned out to be. What looked like a large rock on land being cleared for a General Motors proving ground at Milford, Mich., turned out to be merely the exposed portion of a huge glacial boulder. It took two bulldozers to move the 40-ton, 35-foot circumference boulder from the building site.

New Premier for Iraq

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Najib Taleb, a former major general, is Iraq's new premier, replacing Abdel Rahman Bazzaz, who resigned Saturday.

Warns of Nationalism

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The World Jewish Congress warned Tuesday that extreme nationalism is increasing in Germany and threatens world peace.

In a resolution adopted at the closing session of its fifth plenary meeting, the congress expressed "deep concern at the re-emergence in Germany of extreme nationalism in the political field led by former Nazis whose program and propaganda are fraught with the danger of stimulating an upsurge of neo-nazism." In another resolution, the congress urged a negotiated end to the war in Viet Nam, and a peaceful settlement of other conflicts.

Peking Extends Purge

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese Communist party extended its purge to the economic field today, denouncing party economist Sun Yeh-fang as a bourgeois revisionist who tried to "turn Socialist enterprises into capitalist ones."

Sun, former director of the Academy of Science's Institute of Economics, is the first prominent economist to be named in the purge. Previously the prime targets have been military and cultural leaders.

Liner Seized for Debts

PIRAEUS, Greece (AP) — The 5,500-ton Greek liner Achilles was seized for debts when it returned here Tuesday from an Aegean cruise. It had 57 passengers aboard.

A sister ship, the Agamemnon, with 150 passengers aboard, was seized earlier this week but it was allowed to continue its cruise after an agreement with the creditors.

Cyclist Gets Break

EUCLID, Ohio (AP) — Municipal Court Judge William F. Burns threw out a case recently against a young motorcyclist charged with making excessive noise.

Judge Burns also threw out the city ordinance covering the offense, saying it did not specify how loud is too loud.

Cancer Crusade In Upstate Area Hits $1,440,000

The 1966 Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society, New York State Division, Inc., has raised $1,440,000 to date, passing its goal of $1,425,000, it was announced here today by George Svirsky, president of the Division's Ulster County Unit.

Funds raised during the annual Crusade are used for cancer research, education, and service to cancer patients.

Eugene I. Forst, Pearl River, chairman of the New York State Division's Crusade Committee, said the total Crusade figure probably would reach $1,500,000 by the end of the fiscal year on August 31st. A total of $1,479,548.52 was raised in the 1965 Crusade for a new record.

Fifty-four upstate counties are included in the Society's New York State Division. Of these, 20 counties have so far bettered their best, 35 counties are ahead of last year, and 35 counties have passed their 1966 goal.

At the same time, it was announced that legacies to date to the Division have reached $406,625.

Lloyd, Neversink, Denning Towns Get Rec Funds

Recreation commissions of the towns of Lloyd, Neversink and Denning received a total of $3,000 in state aid to be spread over a 12-month period according to a statement from the New York State Division of Youth today.

The Town of Lloyd, in its 19th year of the state-town recreation program, got $1,000. Denning and Neversink are in their 5th year.

An application for state aid by Lloyd Supervisor Thomas Shay indicated that the town will spend a total of $5,970 this year on recreation. Denning and Neversink expect to spend $4,000.

The agency responsible for the program in Denning and Neversink is the Tri Valley Youth Commission, Donald Ter Bush, chairman. The director of recreation is Louis Carlson.

Joseph Sagarese is chairman of the Lloyd Recreation Commission and Edward Sagarese is the director.

Local YMCA Adds New Swim Course

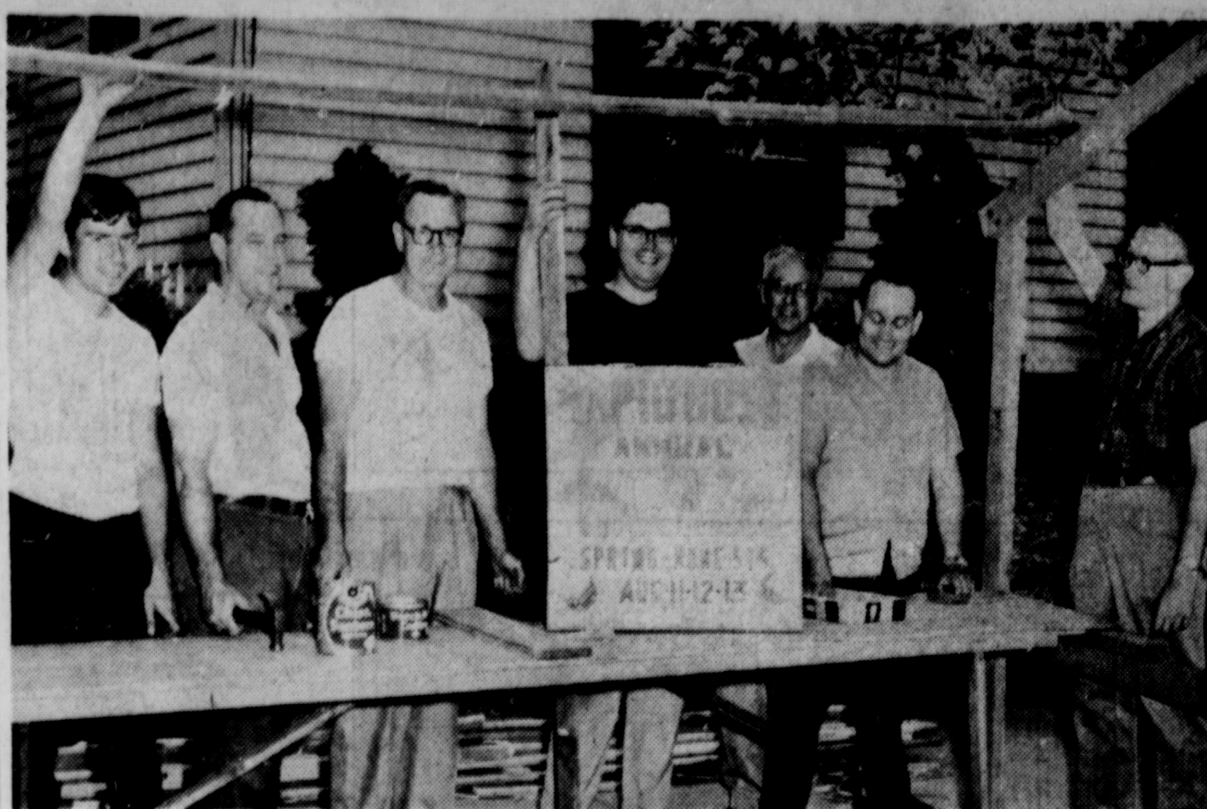

The YMCA today announced the addition of a new swimming class to its youth program. The class, Porpoise, has been recently added to the YMCA National Aquatic program and this will be the first time it has ever been taught at the local "Y".

Porpoise is the fifth platoon in the National Aquatic program after Minnow, Fish, Flying Fish and Shark.

The class will be taught Tuesday from 2:15 to 3 p. m., and Thursday from noon to 12:45 p. m. and will be attended by boys and girls at the "Y" who have completed their Shark skills. These include, Mary Anne Naccarato, Francis Nucaro, Lillian McGowan, Kathy Slover, Cindy Slover, Ernest McGowan, Maryanne Barnes, Michael Corrado, Sharon Longto, Leslie Slover and Perry Gallo.

The addition of the Porpoise club swells to 22 the number of youth swimming classes being taught at the "Y" each week as a part of the summer program. In addition to the 22 instructional swims, 12 recreational swims are held at the YMCA for youth each week.

Th YMCA, an agency of the Ulster County Community Chest, will not hold the regular youth program on Aug. 18 so that the physical staff will be able to accompany the boys and girls on their trip to Shea Stadium.

Violence Erupts In Two Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Racial violence erupted in Detroit and Grenada, Miss., Tuesday night only a short time after the House passed a civil rights bill giving new legal weapons to Negroes wanting better housing opportunities.

A white man was hospitalized in Detroit after he was beaten by a group of Negroes who attacked him when he attempted to retrieve a hub cap knocked off his car by a rock-throwing mob.

Checked in 90 Minutes

A force of 150 police, including 17 cars with riot-trained officers, quickly moved into the integrated East Side Detroit neighborhood and brought the violence under control in 90 minutes. Three Negroes who were involved in a brawl with police, setting off the trouble, were charged with inciting to riot, said Police Commissioner Ray Girardin.

In Grenada, several Negroes were injured, none seriously, when a crowd of whites threw rocks, bottles and firecrackers into a group of Negroes staging a civil rights demonstration in the town square.

Police kept the two groups apart, standing with rifles at the ready to block the whites from the street where the Negroes were gathered. But the presence of the officers did not stop the barrage of missiles or shouts of "White power!"

Goes to Senate Today

The battle over civil rights for Negroes, including the right to live in any neighborhood, moves to the Senate today. A last-ditch effort by Republican leaders to strike the controversial housing proposal failed and the 1966 civil rights bill was passed by the House Tuesday night 259 to 157.

The bill, expected to face rough going in the Senate, would put the government into new areas of the civil rights struggle. It makes the use of force or threats against civil rights workers a federal crime, provides for a uniform juror selection system for federal courts and authorizes the government to begin court action to eliminate racial discrimination in state court juries.

Other proposals to correct conditions which President Johnson blames for racial rioting are getting sliced deeply in Congress. These include proposals for rent supplements, Teacher Corps and demonstration cities — where slum areas would be cleared.

However, the President told a news conference Tuesday he would have new recommendations for the next Congress.

Postpones Chi March

In Chicago, a leader in the drive started by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. for open housing announced today postponement of a planned march into an all-white Southwest Side area. The spokesman, Al Raby, said a demonstration would be held in some other section and that the marchers might return to the Bogan area "Friday, over the weekend or a month from now."

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, meanwhile, said, "There must be some way of resolving this question of integrated housing without the marches."

The American Civil Liberties Union asked a federal court to prevent the Chicago Housing Authority from placing any more public housing facilities in all-Negro neighborhoods.

And in Cleveland, a Cuyahoga County grand jury said racial violence in Negro slums in the city's Hough area last month and exploited by a relatively small group of trained and disciplined professionals at this business."

The report said black nationalists and Communist party youth leaders worked together to incite the rioting.

Ellenville Community Hospital Tag Day

Friday, Sept. 2, has been designated Ellenville Community Hospital Tag Day, it was announced by Mrs. Ben Cramer, president of the hospital auxiliary. The tag day collection is an annual fund raising project. Last year it resulted in approximately $800 accruing to the benefit of the hospital.

Mrs. Joseph Levine, finance chairman announced that Mrs. Isadore Gerstein would serve as Tag Day chairman.

Plans for the event were formulated this week at a committee meeting at the home of Mrs. Stanley Rubin. Serving on the committee are Mrs. Ben Cramer, Mrs. Archie Feldherr, Mrs. William Badner, Mrs. Edward Schildkret and Miss Catherine Terwilliger.

Chairmen for areas serviced by the hospital outside of Ellenville will be announced at a later date.

Event Will Open Thursday Night

Rapid Hose Co. No. 1 and its Ladies Auxiliary will open the fire company's 11th annual bazaar and block party Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the firehouse on Hone Street between West Pierpont and Spring Streets.

The bazaar will remain open each evening through Saturday. Woodrow Diehl and Mrs. Dorothy Lenahan are co-chairmen of this year's event.

Proceeds from the annual bazaar enables the firemen and ladies' auxiliary to support these community projects:

- An annual nursing scholarship of $100 to a high school graduate donated by ladies' auxiliary. This year two $100 scholarships were awarded; financial support to a baseball team in the Babe Ruth League; Christmas candy and toys to children's ward of Benedictine and Kingston Hospitals and candy to children in Rapid Hose Co. No. 1 area; hospital beds and wheel chairs available to the sick; support to Firemen's Home at Hudson.

John Dittus, president of the company and Mrs. Wesley Dunbar, head of the ladies' auxiliary invite all friends and neighbors of the firemen to join them in an evening of fun.

Water-lifting devices, pumps of a sort, have been used for at least 5,000 years.
